Genetic Technology To Improve Pork Exists If Producers, Packers Would Use It

At the Keystone Pork Congress awards banquet Wednesday night, several were recognized for their contributions to the pork industry. They included, from left, John Risser, 20, coach of the Lebanon team, first place in the Pork Bowl, FFA award; Michelle Vonada, 19, Mackeyville, an 11-year 4-H'er and sophomore in dairy and animal science at Penn State; and Allen Hinkel, selected as All-American, to represent the state at the World Pork Expo in Iowa in June. Photo by Andy Andrews.

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — No time in the history of pork production has the technology existed to bring about wide-ranging change for the better as we have today, said a leading swine research scientist on Wednesday at the annual Keystone Pork Congress.

In his talk, "Genetic Programs That Producers Need and Consumers Demand," Dr. Lauren Christian, professor of animal science at Iowa State University, told those attending that traits can be selected to bring about better profit and loss sheets for producers, if they make use of existing technology and techniques — and if they know where to look for them.

At the Congress (which launched the first of the Pa. Performance-Tested Boar sale by video), Christian outlined the elements of a study recently conducted at the Northeast Iowa Testing Station. There, 1,100 pigs from 214 farms were selected and their measurable traits, including backfat, rib fat, loin eye, and others proved that there were a "tremendous variety" of individual pigs in individual herds. Clearly, according to the swine researcher, many of the producers were not selecting for the economic traits necessary to determine a better bottom line and better quality of carcass.

Producers that are members of the American Yorkshire Association, for example, are able to obtain pedigree information on some 11,000 sows kept in records, and more than 70,000 pigs. The entire ancestral line is kept on record, including expected progeny difference (EPD) and other "heritable" factors that determine the marketability of swine.

Producers, according to Christian, should select only those breeds that are superior in the traits that directly affect the profit and loss for the herd. By starting a

WILKES BARRE (Luzerne Co.)—The Pennsylvania Holstein extravaganza of the year was held this week as breeders of the black and white (and red) cows gathered in the Ramada Inn to celebrate accomplishments, conduct business, and participate in the convention sale. The convention theme: Generation to Generation.

At the awards dinner Friday evening, Donald Seipt from Keystone Farms in Easton was named to the 1993 Holstein Hall of Fame and Lloyd and Denise Pease, Susquehanna, were named the winners of the Young Holstein Breeder award.

Don and his wife Gerry with sons Donald and Douglas have developed a world renowned herd with current statistics of 25,200m 935f 820p and a BAA 108.6. They have received the Progressive Breeder Registry Award 35 times and they have also received numerous Gold Medal Dam and Dam of Merit Awards.

A graduate of Penn State with a degree in dairy science, he has served in many leadership capacities in the Holstein industry from local to national including president and vice president of the Holstein Association of America. Don is also president of the National Purebred Dairy Cattle Association and past president of the Dairy Shrine Club.

In the Pennsylvania Holstein Association, he has served as president, vice president and treasurer and is especially noted as the general chairman of the 1985 state convention.

Don is a well-know judge of cattle and judged dairy shows in 18 states and several foreign countries. He has served on the All-American and the All-Time All-American judging panel.

In the past, Don has been a PA Master Farmer and also received the Charles E. Cowan Memorial Award; Penn State University Distinguished Alumnus Award and the 1991 World Dairy Expo Dairyman of the Year award.

Direct Marketing Means Quality Customer Service, Not Overproduction

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Successful direct marketing means constantly thinking about and doing things for the customer, whether the market is an on-farm dairy store or a summer fruit and vegetable stand.

At least that is the basis of thought behind the suggestions offered by speakers during a Thursday morning session of the annual Mid-Atlantic Direct Marketing Conference and Trade Show.

Jointly sponsored by extension offices from Pennsylvania, Delaware, New Jersey and Maryland, the conference and trade show offers a forum for those who have sought to directly retail theirs and also others's agricultural commodities to discuss industry problems and issues and to provide up-to-date information which may affect those in direct retail marketing.

Those with existing roadside farm markets, of all sizes, constituted a large portion of the audience, according to Jeffrey Patton, Lehigh County extension agent and co-chairman of the trade show committee. He said while he didn't know exactly how many, he said he guessed that a large majority of the rest of the group were those contemplating direct marketing.

The overwhelming message from the morning session was to try to understand those who would be customers, what they like, what they expect, what they know and what they need.

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, February 17, 1993

Trucklot buying interest ranged light to fair. Supplies of boneless skinless breasts were in close balance with current needs and available product was well cleared. Line run breasts were irregularly distributed with most trading reported at unchanged prices. Buyers continued to be quite cautious and most limited receipts to standing commitments and await further market developments. All dark meat items were sufficient for current demand and trading was reported at unchanged prices.

Wings were in close balance with immediate needs and trading was reported at higher trending prices; however, the sentiment was steady.

Delmarva Broiler/Fryer Market

Wednesday, February 17, 1993

Demand for ready-to-cook whole birds was usually fair at best. Offerings were adequate with an occasional report of competitive pricing in an attempt to stimulate additional movement. Slaughter schedules were heavy. Live supplies were moderate with weights mostly desirable. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 49-61 cents. Trade sentiment was steady. Parts activity was fair with wings usually in the strongest position. Leg quarters and breast items were also in good demand with supplies generally sufficient for current needs.

National Egg Market

Wednesday, February 17, 1993

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE: Prices were unchanged. The market tone stabilized, and was generally steady. Demand remained mixed, and was mostly fair. Supplies were adequate, and still generally available, but most sellers held excess offerings with more confidence. Breaking stock supplies were usually adequate, and inquiry to purchase eggs increased. Live hen markets were at least steady, and offerings were no more than adequate for the mixed and mostly moderate demand.

W-L measures success one grower at a time.

We could show you stacks of research data that demonstrate the benefits of planting W-L alfalfa seed, but the most important barometer of our success is the success of growers like you.

Growers have depended on W-L Research as a provider of superior alfalfa seed for over thirty years, and in that time W-L has developed seed well-known for its value. At W-L, "value" is defined as long-term yield, persistence, and quality. These characteristics of W-L varieties are the cornerstone of our success, and we continue to measure our success as we always have — one grower at a time.

Forage Ahead with W-L!

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

FEBRUARY 22-28, 1993

NATIONAL PANCAKE WEEK.

A GENTLE GIANT

Robert P. Wadlow was not an exceptionally big baby when he was born on February 22, 1918. But at age 2, after a double hernia operation, he began growing — really growing. When he entered kindergarten at age 5 he was 5'6" tall. At 9 he was 6'2" and using a specially made school desk. He joined the Boy Scouts at age 13 and was believed to be the tallest Scout in the world at 7'4" In the face of worldwide notoriety and the considerable everyday problems his size presented, Robert remained friendly and kind to everyone he met Robert was 8'11 1" and 490 pounds when he died at age 22 His size was certainly exceptional, but it was his gentle nature which truly made him a giant among men.

The great man is he who does not lose his child's heart.

TIP OF THE WEEK

EARTHWISE

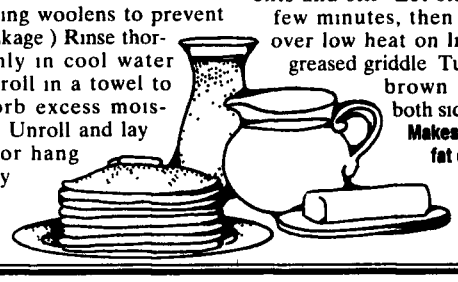
Treat your delicate hand washables to gentle, inexpensive home laundering. Dissolve ¼ cup borax and 1 to 2 tablespoons vegetable-oil based liquid soap in a basin of warm water. Soak the items for 10 minutes, using gentle hand agitation only when necessary (Allow the solution to cool first before soaking woolens to prevent shrinkage) Rinse thoroughly in cool water and roll in a towel to absorb excess moisture Unroll and lay flat or hang to dry

HARDSCRABBLE OATMEAL PANCAKES

- ¾ cup quick rolled oats
- 1 cup buttermilk
- ½ cup flour
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 beaten egg

Combine oats and buttermilk and let stand 10 minutes. Combine dry ingredients. Add egg to oats, then add dry ingredients and stir Let stand a few minutes, then cook over low heat on lightly greased griddle Turn to brown on both sides.

Makes 6 to 8 fat cakes.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

NORTHEAST: Seasonable and snowy, clearing south, severe cold wave with heavy snow, then clearing and seasonable.

SOUTHEAST: Seasonable, some scattered showers, cold northern Florida; rain, heavy south.

MIDWEST: Seasonable, light snow and rain, turning colder north and east

NORTHWEST: Seasonable, clear mountains, showers turning to heavy rain coast, snow mountains

Education Where Needed Most

Today begins National FFA week. This year's theme is "FFA—The Spirit of Leadership." And this theme is fitting because FFA chapters contribute to their school, community and the nation. And in doing so, they learn leadership, and they become leaders.

FFA participation increased in 1992 to 401,574 members who were in 7,456 chapters throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands. Local, state and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills acquired through agricultural education.

In addition, in schools where FFA students are present, the bridge is shortened between young people with roots in agriculture and those who know nothing about it. With the push by opponents of agriculture to infiltrate our educational system, FFA is the lighthouse that provides a ray of hope, a hope that a few more young people will come to realize that a nation that loses its agriculture loses the very base of its economic and societial existence.

Hopefully our food production and distribution system will not need to be disrupted before the public realizes the basic need for agriculture. The FFA does its part of keep people informed about agriculture in the educational system where it's needed most.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz
Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Apply For Milk Refund

As part of the federal deficit reduction program, an assessment is withheld from dairy producers' milk checks.

In 1992, this assessment was 11.25 cents per hundredweight (CWT) for milk shipped from January through April and 13.65 cents per CWT for milk shipped from May through December. Producers who shipped less milk in 1992 than they did in 1991 are entitled to a refund of their assessment.

Application for the refund must be made before March 15. You must take a record of your monthly shipments for 1991 and 1992 to your Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office.

You will also have to provide your social security number. If you have any questions, contact your ASCS office.

To Monitor Dry Matter Intake

Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, reminds us the more dry matter cows eat, the more milk they will produce, the less flesh they will lose and the better they will conceive.

To maximize dry matter intake, cows need to be fed generous amounts of highly digestible fibrous feeds such as high quality forages of sufficient particle length. This enhances good rumen function.

Also important to good rumen microbial activity is a readily available supply of soluble protein and soluble carbohydrates in a buffered environment. The cleanliness of managers, the freshness and palatability of feeds, and easy access to feed bunks and waterers all affect feed intakes.

Are you doing everything you can to increase dry matter intake?

To Participate In Sheep Scrapie Program

On October 1, 1992, the Voluntary Scrapie Flock Certification Program for sheep and goats went into effect.

The intent of this program is to give recognition to sheep flocks that are free of the disease and provide technical assistance to infected flocks. Scrapie has become a disease of economic impact and is costing producers an average of $5 per head.

This is a five-year program that will take producers through a step-by-step process to gain scrapie free certification for their flocks (class C,B,A, then certified) as long as there is no evidence of scrapie. The flock owner must agree to report all suspects, officially identify sheep over one year of age, keep records, and submit samples.

The program is voluntary, will identify the scrapie risk of purchased animals, and a premium may be obtained for certified flocks. To enter this voluntary program, the producer must complete VS Form 5-22. To obtain this form or for more information, contact USDA-APHIS-VS, 2301 North Cameron Street, Room 412, Harrisburg PA 17110, (717) 782-3442.

Farm Forum

Editor:

Newspapers are the main source of information from which people form opinions. Recent news items concerning nutrient runoff control, tobacco growers problems, falling milk prices and other agricultural related problems prompted me to get some facts from those who make the news. The following is from the comments of four farmers in Chester County, four farmers in Lancaster County, one feed salesman and public information services.

In Lancaster County there are approximately 3507 full time farmers with 3886 full time hired employees. These along with part time help and family members amount to about two percent of the population. The value of agricultural products in 1991 was $782,404,000. Helping the farmers are 126 agriculture related services employing 1223 with a payroll of $16,500,000. There are 91 food processing companies employing 7060 with a $152,000,000 payroll. Farmers are a small percentage of the population but they bring much money and job opportunities to the area. In Chester County agricultural production amounts to 314.9 million dollars annually.

The farmers I spoke to have real problems. All are terrified about real estate reassessment. They do not see how they can afford higher taxes. Most emphasized that land used exclusively for agriculture should be taxed at a rate different from other real estate. One said that teachers should lower their wage expectations while taking into consideration the falling income of the farmers. At one time land owners made the laws and paid any taxes because they were the only ones with the funds to do so. The Amish must pay real estate taxes for the public school system plus another assessment for their own parochial schools.

In Chester County it is the opinion that the family farm as it is known is a thing of the past. Regulations and high taxes make it impossible. Farming in Chester County will be done as a hobby by people with outside jobs and by investors and businesses who rent or lease the land to tenants. Sever-

LOOKING OUT FOR #1
February 21, 1992

Background Scripture:
Romans 15:1-13.
Devotional Reading:
Colossians 3:9-17

Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy told of a young man who was being interviewed by a theater owner for the job of usher. "What would you do in case of fire?", the owner asked him. "Oh don't worry about me," the youth assured him, "I'll get out all right."

Like many, he missed the point. Because he was strong, he was confident that he could save his own life. But being a theater usher is not just a matter of surviving an emergency. The usher's job is to help save those who are less strong and able. Responsibility for the weak is always part of the price God expects the strong to pay for their superior strength.

A number of people who have told me that, while they realized the church could be helpful to those who needed help--the 'weak'--they couldn't see themselves having any need of the Christian fellowship. "I'll get out all right," they have said in effect. Perhaps there are those who don't need the church for what they can get out of it, but for what they can put into it. If you can't think of anything you need from the church, ask yourself what the church may need from you.

BLESSED & RESPONSIBLE

For the first twelve years of my life I was a rather sickly boy. I knew the doctor a lot better than I knew the pastor. But, in my teens I began to experience good health and since then I have been almost embarrassingly healthy. I confess that my latter day excellent health sometimes leads me to have a hard time identifying with those who are chronically ill. I must remind myself day after day that I have been blessed with a gift of good health and vitality and that this is not the norm for the rest of humanity.

So, those of us who are "strong" in some department of life may fail to appreciate the plight of those who are weak. If we've never had a drinking problem, we must avoid being judgmental with those who do. The same is true of any kind of personal problem: marital, financial, habitual, spiritual, whatever.

PLEASE YOURSELF

Those of us who are 'strong' in some way, therefore, have an obligation, not to judge or condemn, not to avoid or ignore, but to help the 'weak' bear their burdens. So, Paul writes, "We who are strong ought to bear with the failings of the weak, and not to please ourselves; let each of us please his neighbor for his good, to edify him" (15:1,2). Pointing to the example of Christ, Paul says: "For Christ did not please himself...(15:3).

Despite what the world tells us, the essence of life is not in pleasing ourselves. When we focus on pleasing ourselves, it is like filling a bottomless pit and we are never pleased in the long run. Ironically, sometimes the greatest pleasure in life is what we experience when we deny ourselves and sacrifice our own desires for the sake of another. Dr. Alexis Carrel once wrote: "Deny yourself, for there is no more beautiful adventure than the renovation and remaking of mankind."

There is nothing more unrewarding in life than always "looking out for number one"--unless, of course, "number one" is Jesus Christ.

DOEBLER'S ALFALFAS

How to pick your next alfalfa

by Willard Jones

It's not often that show stoppers like Doebler's Precedent and Starmaster come along in the alfalfa business.

Precedent is fast out of the ground at seeding. And it produces big, like a whopping 8.20 tons per acre in Penn State's 1990 trials.

Starmaster, a fine stemmed, dark green alfalfa, led the 5-year trial at Virginia's Northern Piedmont Ag Experiment Station with 25.9 total tons per acre.

So you can understand my dismay when a farmer tells me Doebler's seed is too expensive.

"Price is one of the last things to look at," I almost shout. Then I cool it and suggest these buying tips:

Look at performance. Precedent, for instance, produced 3.63 more tons per acre at Penn State last year than the variety that placed No. 64.

Check longevity. Starmaster showed its staying power in Virginia by producing 6.89 tons the fifth year.

Tie seed cost to tons. I put a pencil to Starmaster seed cost in that Virginia trial using current prices. It was a surprisingly low $2.27 per ton of hay produced.

Demand good disease protection. Both Precedent and Starmaster are resistant to the big five diseases. Precedent also is resistant to Aphanomyes, a new alfalfa menace.

The Apron advantage. Don't buy seed without it. Apron seed treatment protects Doebler alfalfas from Pythrium and Phytrophthora during first critical weeks.

I'm Willard Jones, Doebler's sales manager, with a couple of winners for you -- Doebler's Precedent and Starmaster.

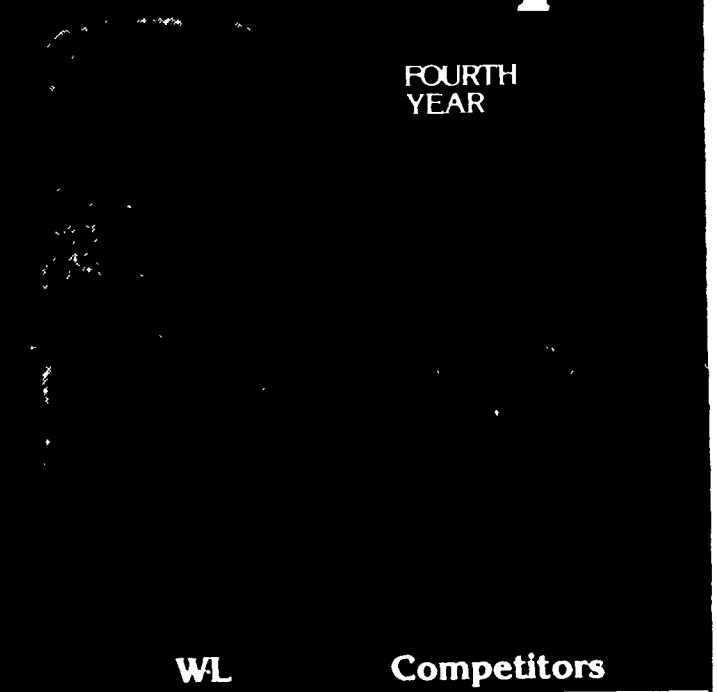
For Yield... W-L alfalfa stacks up.



WL Competitors

WL Alfalfa varities are strong producers throughout the life of your stand. You can't afford to settle for less.

If your alfalfa doesn't make it to the fourth year, you've reduced the overall profitability of your crop.

In test after test by public and private researchers, W-L alfalfa yields stack up for profits. For more than 25 years, W-L alfalfa varities have been bred for long stand persistence, quick recovery after cutting, multiple pest resistance and extra leafy, fine-stemmed forage. With proper crop management, you'll have strong fourth-year yields that stack up for a profitable crop.

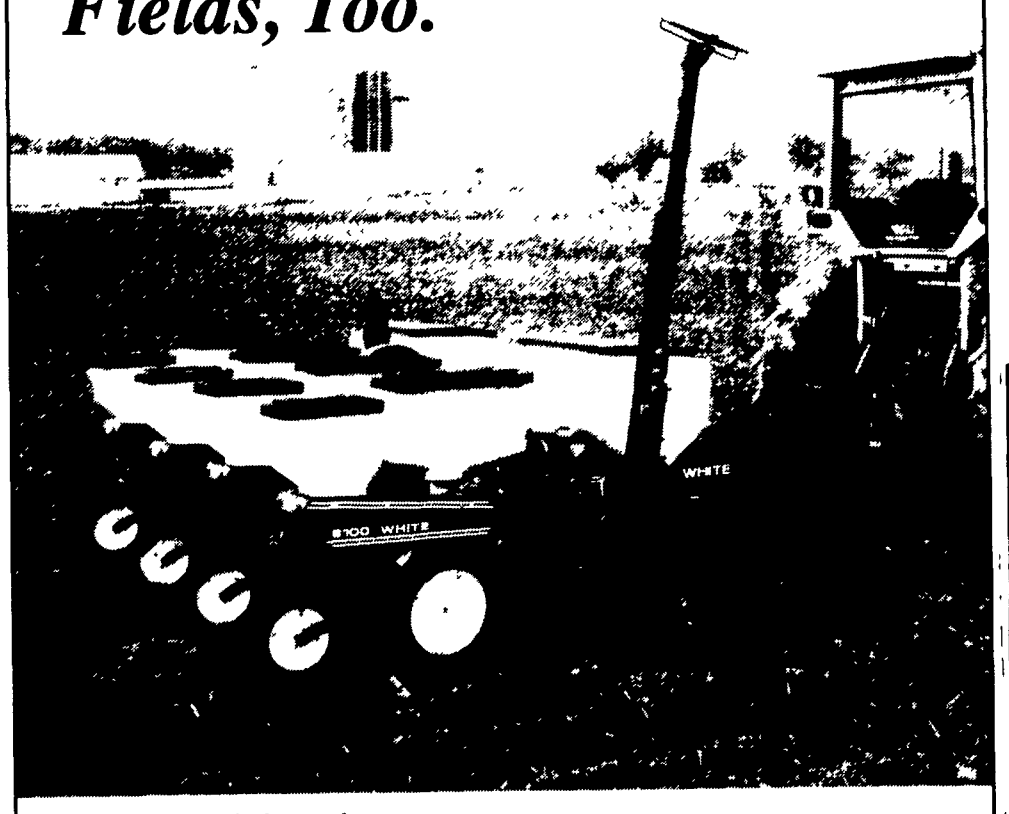
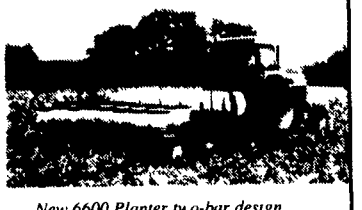
Accurate & Precise In Reduced-Till Fields, Too.



White 6100 planters have gained a well deserved reputation for planting with incredibly accurate spacing at precisely the right depth.

Our short 18" aerodynamically designed seed drop and independently acting walking beam gauge wheels see to it. And our low pressure, air metering system and edge drop seed disc singulates seeds to avoid doubles or skips.

Best of all, the row splitter and wide array of attachments allow you to plant in nearly any field condition—no-till, mulch till, or finely worked—with row widths ranging from 15" to 40".



New 6600 Planter two-bar design features interplant row units

FFA Officers Tour Japan

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Six agricultural youth leaders from the United States visited agribusiness and government leaders in Japan as part of the 1993 National FFA Officer International Experience Program.

"Japan is the largest buyer of American agricultural exports," said Larry Case, national FFA advisor and coordinator of agricultural and rural education, U.S. Department of Education. "This is an excellent opportunity for our future agricultural leaders to learn about the issues and challenges which face American agriculture, and, indeed, all sectors of American business and industry."

The six young people are the 1992-1993 national officers for the National FFA Organization. During their time in Japan, they received a briefing by U.S. Embassy officials on agricultural trade, toured a large fish, vegetable, and floral marketing facility, and visited a horticultural high school.

In addition, the group toured the facilities of Mitsui & Co. Ltd. Tokyo, as well as a number of agricultural businesses and historical landmarks in Kyoto and Tokyo. The officers met with their Japanese counterparts—members of the Future Farmers of Japan (FFJ)—to further extend contacts between the next generation of agricultural leaders for both countries. Each officer stayed with a Japanese host family for one weekend to learn more about the culture and traditions of one of the United States' most important trading partners.

The international program is sponsored by Mitsui Grain Corporation and Mitsui & Co. Ltd. Tokyo as a special project of the National FFA Foundation. Mitsui Grain Corporation is based in Chicago, Ill. The headquarters for its parent company, Mitsui & Co. Ltd., are in Tokyo. Mitsui has sponsored the tour for 14 years.

"If the United States is going to remain competitive in a global economy, we must begin to appreciate the culture, practices and policies of our international trading partners," said Travis Park, national FFA president. "During our year of service, the national officers will have the opportunity to share what we learn on this tour with hundreds of thousands of our fellow members and U.S. agricultural leaders."

The national officers travelling to the Far East were Travis Park, national president from Franklin, Ind.; Kevin White, national secretary from Redding, Calif.; Rick Perkins, eastern region vice president from Bloomville, Ohio; John Kleiboeker, central region vice president from Stotts City, Mo.; Todd Hingson, southern region vice president from Live Oak, Fla.; and Dennis Degner, western region vice president from Malone, Texas. Accompanying the officers were C. Coleman Harris, executive secretary, and Jeri Mattics, communications consultant, both of the National FFA Organization, Alexandria, Va.

Nut Tree Grafting Workshop Set

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Interested in harvesting edible nuts from trees you've cultivated on your own property?

Plan to attend the annual nut tree grafting workshop from 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. on Saturday, March 13 at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center.

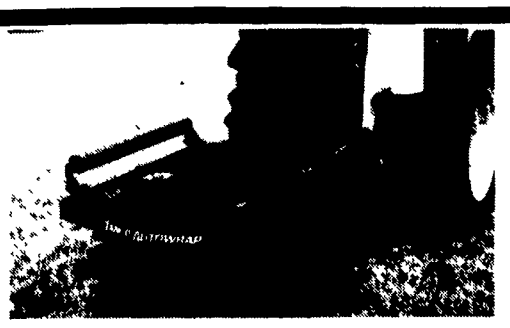
The center is located two miles north of the borough of Dauphin, on route 225 between Clark's Creek and Peters Mountain.

The workshop, conducted by Jay Book and Tucker Hill of the Pennsylvania Nut Growers Association, will give hands-on experience in grafting.

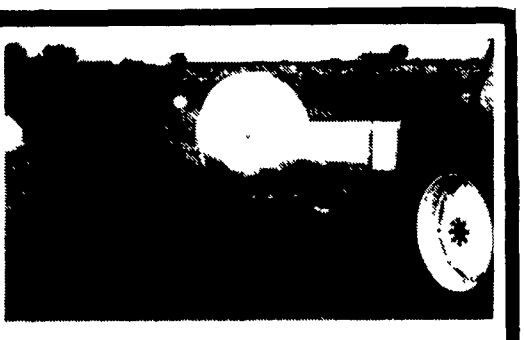
Grafted nut trees begin to produce earlier than seedling trees and usually bear superior quality nutmeats. Many species of walnuts and two of hickory are native to Pennsylvania, but few people know that an abundant variety of nut trees are capable of producing in Pennsylvania.

There is no charge for the workshop. Scionwood and grafting supplies for grafting will be available for a small fee, and a few trees will be offered for sale following the demonstration.

For more information, call (717) 921-8100.



TOP 10 REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY A TANCO BALE WRAPPER



TANCO	COMPETITION
1. Five (5) points of support on turntable: Four heavy duty rollers add stability and support to the perimeter of the turntable in addition to the main central shaft. This allows Tanco wrappers to safely wrap the heaviest silage bales on rough or uneven ground.	Competition uses one central shaft to support the entire turntable mechanism.
2. Single solid belt on turntable: The single belt enables Tanco wrappers to effectively wrap misshapen or soggy bales providing a positive surface for bale rotation.	Competition uses either no belts between rollers, or multiple belts which can allow bales to sag and slip.
3. Adjustable extendable axle: On trailed models the extendable axle provides a wide, stable wheel base when loading bales. Eliminates the need for counterweights.	Competition must add counterweights or tandem axles as options to effectively handle silage bales.
4. Top rollers on turntable: Extra rollers provide security to keep bales in place when wrapping at high RPM's (25) or on uneven terrain.	Competition - None.
5. Unloading ramp on trailed models: The ramp allows bales to be unloaded gently. When a wrapped bale falls hard it can "burp". Once it "burps" the bale does not re-seal. The ramp gives a smooth transition between the ground and turntable.	Competition - optional drop mats are available.
6. Turntable braking System: When unloading wrapped bales its important that the turntable doesn't move out of position. A twisted turntable can offload a bale crooked, exposing it to possible tearing of plastic on frame parts. Tanco machines are equipped with a braking system that holds the turntable in place when unloading bales.	Competition - either no system, or rely on hydraulics to hold the turntable.
7. Film indexing system: As temperature rises, plastic stretches more. To ensure proper overlap and complete coverage when it's hot outside, Tanco machines are equipped with an exclusive, simple, indexing system to compenstate for those times. The operator can eliminate potential "windows" in the wrapping procedure.	Competition - None.
8. Positive bale positioning: while being wrapped, bales are rotated the exact distance required to obtain optimum coverage.	Competition uses continuous hydraulic advance. Bales can slip or over-rotate giving an uneven wrap.
9. Durability: Tanco's subframe is the heaviest of any machine available in North America. The low profile design keeps silage bales closer to the ground with a low center of gravity for stability. Tanco's features are the result of years of experience and input from hundreds of individual, and commercial users in Europe.	Competition - Compare.
10. Prices: From a basic 3 point Model AW200, to the trailed Model AW400 with automatic cut & start, bale and batch counter, and tractor seat controls, Tanco prices for 1993 are lower than ever. Pay less for more features and durability than any other bale wrapper on the market.	Competition - Compare.

SEEING'S BELIEVING:
We welcome pre-season demonstrations to interested customers.

Genetic Technology To Improve Pork Exists

breeding program, producers can concentrate on the factors important to improving the marketability of hogs, including EPDs for backfat, growth, litter size, 21-day litter weights, and days to 230 pounds. By selecting the proper sows and boars, he said the "opportunity for success is tremendous."

Christian outlined the makeup of a program that assesses the genetic worth of sows and their productivity, called the Swine Testing and Genetic Evaluation System (STAGES) in use by several breed companies and organizations. STAGES helps producers select what gilt and boar to use that determines, from their EPDs and other measurements, what may directly influence the productivity and profit of a herd. The productivity index listed in STAGES provides all of the sow's records, including "aunts and sisters and realtives" with traits that are heritable.

Christian said much of the technology has existed since at least 1965, when Iowa State University was able to produce lean pigs with loin eye measurement "near seven inches," he said. But the economics "were never there," and there were problems with lean bigs, including porcine stress syndrome and death on the way to market. "We need to have the economics to change," said Christian. According to the researcher, the technology is accurate — it's the marketing system that has to provide these incentives.

He said that, for instance, in Canada, producers are paid a premium of 14 percent for lean hogs, and receive an 18 poercent deduction for the fatest measuring hogs. The U.S. offers incentives ranging only about 6 percent.

In Denmark and other European countries, technology is used to determine quantity of lean and assess the quality of it before slaughter before hogs are brought to market. In Denmark, a hog put on the production line has a part of its shoulder sliced off and measurements are taken on specific marketability items such as intramuscular fat (which determines flavor and juiciness of the pork).

"Hopefully we will develop better and better ways of assessing capabilities of live pigs so producers can get paid accordingly," he said. "We need a system to do a better jot to pay for differences that already exist."

One way to affect leanness is to "bioengineer" hogs to remove the gene that bring about pale, soft and exudative (PSE) syndrome meat. Using microminiature knives, geneticists can litteraly "cut away" the fault spot on the DNA on this heritable disease. Christian said that using current technology, scientists have the "potential to eliminate the gene from the pig population. Do we want to do that?"

The Danes, he said, have removed it, and can provide 4 percent more lean meat. This "quick fix" for increasing leans may have some benefit.

Also, packers can check the pH of slaughtered pigs to identify PSE meat while on the production line, as they do in Canada.

Christian went over several factors to help improve the structural soundness of a herd, but emphasized that "we can't breed hogs from the office. We have to look at them."

He also told producers to select for other factors, such as "big feet, big toes, even toes, and correct shoulder."

To make strides in obtaining a leaner seedstock, he said producers should work with nutritionists or AI suppliers to look more closely at the genetic potential of pigs. The genetic improvement of seedstock will affect future marketability of a herd.

Christian said that even smaller producers can benefit, and producers don't have to be a big corporations to make genetic selections.

Pork producers should be aware of the strides made by the Pork Quality Assurance Program, according to Beth Lautner, director of swine health and pork safety for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) in Des Moines, Iowa.

Market Outlook

To win the war against poultry, swine packers should understand that pork is reasonably priced compared to broilers and turkey products, according to H. Louis Moore, Penn State economist, who provided his market outlook at the Congress. Moore said producers and packers should "meet poultry head on to fight it out with them on a price standpoint, because they are very competitive from a price standpoint."

In 1993, poultry consumption in the U.S. may again hit a record, and will continue to take up a greater portion of total meat consumption. Poultry consumption and production "shows no abatement at all," said Moore.

The economist outlined some of the positive and negative aspects of the economy and the new administration. While Europe continues to slide into deeper recession, and the federal budget deficit grows, Moore said that it "pays to be an optimist if you're in ag."

The number of people employed in agricultural industries continues to decrease. Only 1 percent of the entire U.S. population farms. We continue to lose 2 percent of our farms every year, and there are fewer new entries into agriculture, which is "a major concern," said Moore.

While many farmers are faced with taking off-farm work, and 56 percent of the hog farms were lost between 1981-1991, producers have reason to be optimistic because of the record U.S. corn harvest (projected at 9.48 billion bushels, but some remains in the field) in 1992. Pennsylvania did not have a record harvest, but a record per-acre yield (117 bushels per acre). There were 930,000 acres of corn in the state in 1992, and the amount of corn available will mean a great deal of carryover and cheap feed prices for producers — which will help in cost of producing pork.

Other companies, such as Tyson and Smithfield, are making a "bigger splash" in the hog industry, according to the economist. In all, 4.7 percent of the producers produce 47 perceont of the total hogs in the country, with more than 1,000 head of hogs each. There has been a tremendous increase in the hog inventory for producers with more than 500 head.

Producers should know that 2.5 percent of the hog producers in Pennsylvania account for 45 percent of the total inventory.

(In North Carolina, 90 percent of the total inventory is made by producers with more than 1,000 head. Moore said that Pennsylvania may face the same situation someday — not as quickly, but fewer producers will produce more number of hogs. "I don't think you could say anything else," he said.)

Contract farming continues to grow in the state. The state ranks ninth in the country in total hog slaughter.

Using various sources (including the Pig Crop Report), Moore said that 1992 projections show that hog production should increase about 4 percent for 1993. But poultry could increase 6 percent because producers have no incentive to cut back to cover cash costs. There will be 3-4 percent more total meat consumed this year than the record amount consumed last year, according to the economist.

Hog futures show no big increase in price. Feb. 11 projections for April show the price at 44.80. The June price stood at 50.25.

For 1993, the hog situation "will be better than 1992," said Moore, with feed prices lower. Better management and cheaper feed will contribute to profits for producers.

Intermediate winner was Adrienne Elkin, Marion Center, 15, daughter of Sam and Paula Elkin, who spoke about "Animal Rights, Animal Welfare."

NPPC Program

Pork producers should be aware of the strides made by the Pork Quality Assurance Program, according to Beth Lautner, director of swine health and pork safety for the National Pork Producers Council (NPPC) in Des Moines, Iowa. Checkoff dollars are contributing more to ensure the quality, safety, and wholesomeness of product to consumers — the goal of making pork the meat of choice in the 21st Century.

Lautner said that the public is receiving more "misinformation by the press" these days. "People get news now by headlines and sound bytes," and consumers often believe what they perceive is real, regardless of the facts.

She emphasized the importance of making sure herds are following the guides outlined by the assurance program — using drug products responsibly on the herd, good manufacturing practices, avoiding sulfa residues, good biosecurity, and other measures.

Nationwide, 4,000 are enrolled

(Turn to Page A28)

In his talk, "Genetic Programs That Producers Need and Consumers Demand," Dr. Lauren Christian, professor of animal science at Iowa State University, told those attending that traits can be selected to bring about better profit and loss sheets for producers, if they make use of existing technology and techniques.

Penn State Cows Rank High

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The American Simmental Association (ASA) recently designated one of the cows from Penn State's herd with an Excellent and one with a Superior Award. The awards recognize outstanding Simmental and Simbrah females.

The cow awards are based on data gathered through ASA's extensive performance testing programs using the cow's lifetime Most Probable Producing Ability (MPPA). This formula evaluates the animal's within-herd performance as shown by the weaning weights of her calves, compared to the herd average, and projects her probable future production.

To quality for an ASA Cow Award, a cow must produce outstanding calves at regular intervals. Excellent awards are based on two consecutive calves, and Superior awards result from four consecutive progeny.

Not only do the owner and breeder of award winning cows receive recognition, but the award designation is carried on subsequent registration certificates and other reports.

Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale Set

FREDERICK, Md. — The annual Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale is to be held 11 a. m., Saturday, April 24, at the Frederick Fairgrounds, in Frederick, Md.

The sale has a reputation for providing high quality, affordable, animals. The uses of calves purchased in the past range from 4-H projects to providing some top calves for more competitive showing, merchandising or investment buying.

Officials with the Brown Swiss Breeders Association, in a news release, said they are seeking "a strong group of calves that combine a unique blend of production and sound type" for consignments to this year's sale.

According to the relase, the quality of past animals being marketed through the association sale has been good.

"There were two consignments from the 1992 sale that went on to do well for their new owners. The senior heifer calf was just named the Maryland Junior Bell Ringer, owned by Aimee Smith, of Woodsboro, Md.

"Also, another outstanding senior calf did well in the show ring for Howard and Norma Fliming, of Hollywood, Md. She was first senior calf at the Maryland-Delaware State Canton Show, first at Howard and Montgomery county fairs, fourth at Maryland State Fair, and third at the Eastern National Show."

Those interested in consigning a heifer calf, or who want additional information, should call either Howard Flemming at (301) 475-3440, Harold Long at (301) 271-7577, or Cindy Warner at (301) 371-5206.

The sale committee has requested that all consignment pedigrees be submitted by Friday, March 26, in order to have a sale catalog completed in time for buyers to review, and to promote the consignments.

Chore-Time And Northeast Ag

Following are claims taken from our competitiors' recently placed a

Their Claims	Our Response
1. (We are) #1 in owner loyalty. More people buy (from us) when they remodel than any other system."	Since Ultraflo was introduced Chore-Time has out sold other brands in new and remodeled houses, in our sales area and nation wide. We admit we have had an advantage because much of our remodeling has been complexes. But when companies order 2, 3, 6, 20 or more houses at a time, changing over entire complexes - what does that tell you? Almost all houses remodeled with Chore-Time previously had other brands of cages. Send for our list of over 200 Ultraflo houses in the Northeast.
2. "(Our) superior suspension systems keep cages from sagging between stands."	Producers with older houses say truss rods have always been a problem - they eventually stretch, especially with cages installed on 10 foot centers. This results in trough wear and egg roll out troubles. That is why Chore-Time has designed truss rods out of their systems. Chore-Time uses 4 foot, 5 foot or 8 foot centers and has no truss rods. Cages are straight when new and stay straight.
3. "Our chain feeder trough allows easy access to feed but keeps feed levels further below the lip of the trough compared to drag auger trough."	The distance from the back lip of our trough is the same. Birds do not have to reach any farther to find feed. In addition, Ultraflo contains feed in the bulb shaped bottom of the trough and the auger acts as a grid reducing waste compared to chain. It's Another ULTRAFLO® By [redacted]
4. "Our chain feeder trough has a steep sidewall, discouraging feed build-up. Their slope can allow a build-up inviting mold and disease."	Ultraflo has the steepest sidewall of any feeder on the market and the least feed build-up. Ultraflo moves all the feed in the trough while theirs leaves feed beside the chain causing feed separation. Flat chain has barrels which are difficult to clean. Ultraflo will completely clean out in one run prior to wash down. 5. "Our trough is "ribbed" for strength. Theirs is built for price alone."	Chore-Time trough is not built for price alone, actually it is made with more expensive 20 gauge high tensile strength steel and has more continuous breaks (9 verses 7) for greater strength.
6. "Actual feeding space with drag auger is skimpy. In fact our chain feeder has 2½ times more feeding space per bird."	Actual feeding space is the same for both. The only space limitation is the birds per cage. Ultraflo actually carries more feed than chain at normal levels!
7. "This allows the chain feeder to run as few as three times per day while the auger must run eight or more times per day."	According to producers and field service people the Ultraflo is run as few as 3 times a day with the average being only 5 times. Each time Ultraflo runs, the feed is re-mixed at start-up making it more appetizing to the birds. With Ultraflo you are free to feed more often without concern for wear and tear or electric usage you have with chain. You also can use stimulations. (running the feeder for 30 seconds) Ultraflo can do this. Flat chain cannot. Breeders and producers agree that being able to add or subtract feedings, change feeding times and use stimulations is a valuable tool to limit feed consumption and fine tune egg size. With Ultraflo you can control feed consumption and you won't have to keep your house 90° in the middle of winter.
8. "Chain carries feed and supplies a uniform ration, with no feed waste."	When you watch chain run you will see that it only carries the feed that is on the top of the chain not what is along the sides. This results in a lot of feed separation. Ultraflo moves all feed. Chain allows birds to high-grade or pick over feed. Ultraflo's design and 80 feet per minute speed prevents birds from high grading feed. Our side by side video shows layers picking over feed when the chain runs, while when the Ultraflo runs birds do not eat until the auger stops. See for yourself! Send for our video showing chain feeders and Ultraflo running side by side.

Their Claims	Our Response
9. "With the drag auger, birds turn sideways to eat..."
10. ...requiring more length of feeder."
11. "Drag auger feeder's frequent feedings interrupt birds during peak laying periods."
12. "Now you can feed the entire house faster with our 120 feet per minute "fast feed" chain feeder; and you can do it with no strain on feeder corners because of our new left hand drive.
13. "The hardest part about repairing a chain feeder is remembering where you left the hammer and chain breaker." 14. "With an auger system, the need for a welder, torch and grinder is almost routine. Down time is up, and repair hours rise."
15. "With a drag auger feeder, hens fight for feeding space many times a day causing unwanted activity in the cage..."
16. "This results in more cracks and checks. Drag auger feeders encourage smaller eggs and more cracks and checks."
17. "Our competitor pushes for a larger cage. Why? Because with drag auger feeding the birds can't get enough feed in a 12 inch cage. With chain feeding a 12 inch cage is ample."

Chore-Time Cage Systems products are backed by warranties which competitive manufacturers have not been willing to match. Ultraflo auger and trough are guaranteed for 5 years. Chore-Time cages are guaranteed for 10 years. Send or call for a copy of Chore-Time warranties. Compare Chore-Time warranties to other manufacturers.

To meet your future needs Chore-Time has developed and introduced these new products:

- Ultraflo feeding
- 4 high - 20" deep cages
- 5 high - 20" deep cages
- Microprocessor controlled feeding
- 6 stage electronic thermostats
- Variable speed egg collection
- Ultraflo II
- Self adjusting feed intakes
- Auger couplers
- Our new egg collector - Ultralift
- 24" belt cross conveyor
- 24" galvanized rod conveyor
- Uniback - extra room top cage
- In-line feed cleaners
- Turbo ventilation-a total concept for better production and dryer manure.

Planning To Buy A New Cage System

Let Agri Systems Respond!

ed advertisements which we believe to be inaccurate, misleading or untrue:

Our Response	Their Claims	Our Response
Both turn their heads on both systems. The Chore-Time auger does not cause any harm to the birds and in fact saves feed by preventing birds from raking feed out the trough. Birds waste excessive feed on a chain by flicking and piling feed. (Ask to see side by side video.)	18. "Extra inches of auger, trough, cage wire, egg belt and building per cage really add up. Put a pencil to it."	While we do have extra supports, stands and cage wire, it is because our cage is designed to last longer. We have no more auger, trough or egg belt than our competition. Chore-Time cages are installed on 8 foot centers. Our competitor recommends cages which are on 10 foot centers. Although 10 foot centers save at first, cages built on 10 foot centers have had higher maintenance costs and have not lasted as long as cages built on 8 foot centers.
Bird per cage and therefore feeder space per bird are the same with either system.
Because Ultraflo runs faster than flat chain, because it does not have to be run around the cage row 1½ times each feeder like flat chain, because Ultraflo comes with a Microprocessor control not a 15 minute time clock you have greater flexibility in feeding times. Ultraflo completes a circuit in about half the time it takes the typical chain system. You get better results with less feed.	19. "Our chain feeder seems never to wear out. Some thirty year old units are still performing, day in and day out. On the other hand some "short term" drag auger systems are beginning to show their weaknesses. Time is the enemy of the drag auger system. Just a litte time."	We have seen chain trough worn through in less than one year. The chain itself is made out of metal stock made from scrap metal. It drags on the bottom of the trough or on top of the feed. It has a tendency to bunch up and break expensive corner wheels. Ultraflo moves easily through the feed in the trough in a predesigned "bulb" in the trough bottom. We have replaced less than 1% of the trough and elbows in over 11 years of operation. The poultry industry agrees - over 80% of the major egg producers (1 million birds or more) have already switched to Chore-Time. Send for our list of major egg producers who have switched to Chore-Time.
The feeder has shown much extra wear even at the slower speed of 60 feet per minute, especially on the long cage rows required by today's capacities. The 120 feet per minute system is unproven and in fact there are few in the field. Some of these systems have had to install 3 horse power motors to run properly.	20. "Lower maintenance costs."	Our biggest problem is lack of repair parts business. Talk to users who have both Chore-Time and other equipment. Get the facts about who has lower maintenance costs.
Chore-Time's repair parts sales run less than 1% of total sales. Competitor's are much higher. Ask them.	21. "It's a proven fact. Chain feeders use less electricity."	Call for our list and talk to users who have both Chore-Time and other equipment. Get the facts about who has lower energy costs.
Chore-Time has not used brazing for 5 years. Our auger connector is simple to use and only requires a small Allen wrench which can fit in your wallet. The easy-to-use auger coupler has eliminated all brazing. Remember, all you need with Ultraflo is a small Allen wrench, no chain breaker, hammer and come-along.	22. "Better Performance! This isn't just talk. Ask your feed company..."	Feed service people will tell you that Chore-Time Ultraflo out performs flat chain. Ask them yourself. Chore-Time producers consistently do better than their peers. That's why most major egg producers have switched to Chore-Time and keep on buying it. (send for list of major egg producers)
When you watch our video you will see that when Ultraflo runs birds stay calm until the auger stops. Then, they all begin eating at the same time. The opposite is true with chain. Before hens on the out going side are already eating, birds on the return side have to wait long periods for fresh feed. See for yourself. Send for our side by side video.	23. "Re-use your old corners... re-use your old gearboxes...Your old hoppers aren't wore out... save money and re-use them on your new system."	Sounds like a good idea, maybe. Save money initially but when you do have to replace corners, hoppers, gearboxes, sprockets, wear shoes, etc., you will probably have to pay parts price. You end up paying more!
With a chain system, heavy feed components such as corn and calcium tend to be left behind along the edges of the trough. This combined with birds ability pick out means hens on the return side of each cage row may not get enough calcium to form strong egg shells. With chain, because of separation and pick out, birds get different nutrition as the chain travels further from the feed hopper. This results in higher feed consumption, poorer performance and causes shell and uniformity problems. With Ultraflo moves all feed and birds can't pick out while its running, all birds get the same ration. Birds in Ultraflo houses are uniform throughout the house. Producers confirm production is better, feed consumption lower and undergrades are the same or less with Chore-Time.	24. "(We have) a stronger cage top and front than competitive cages."	Chore-Time's new front and top is heavier and thicker than competition's. In fact Chore-Time cages are over 11% heavier than their cages. That's over 3½ tons more galvanized wire in a typical house. Call or send for actual test results on Chore-Time verses their cages. Or ask to see both cages side by side.
	25. "(Our) collector is the best there is."	You get a choice of three collectors with Chore-Time, including our new Ultralift, all built stronger with solid shafts, solid rollers and galvanized steel. Our rubber finger collector eliminates all transfers and isn't as steep as other collectors.
	26. "Our cage design allows eggs to roll front and out of the cage, not get stepped on and cracked by birds as in competitor's cages."	Once again talk to the users. Our undergrades are lower than other systems. Major egg producers would not keep switching to Chore-Time if this was a problem. (send for list) Our egg tray is much further away from the cage front to keep eggs cleaner and prevent dead bird caused jam ups.
Who is buying 12 inch cages? According to Chore-Time sales records 60% of Chore-Time cage sales are 16"x20" - 6 bird cage. In this area we sell mostly 24"x20" - 9 bird cage - same as the competition.	27. "(Our) systems provides a bigger percentage of larger eggs for a longer period of time."	Like a lot else, you only hear this from our competitor. Chore-Time producers say this is ridiculous. They get the egg size they need and do it with less feed. Check out the facts for yourself.

Time has clearly established Chore-Time as the cage industry leader and made it the largest supplier of cage systems. But please, if you have thought of something or have better ideas we would sure like to hear from you.

Think about it. In only 7 years, 1 out of 3 layers in our region and 1 out of 4 layers nation wide have been switched to Chore-Time with Ultraflo. Many farmers bought one Chore-Time house and after seeing the results ordered more. Some large farms have replaced all their equipment with Chore-Time cages and Ultraflo feeding and are now only buying Chore-Time.

Christian Aid Ministries Sets Up Example Farm In Romania

And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.
--Matthew 25:40.

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HINKLETOWN (Lancaster Co.)—The people involved with Christian Aid Ministries are modest. Plain people, they don't like to be photographed, and they don't brag about their accomplishments.

But the program to help families, children and farmers in Romania is not modest. Tons and tons of food, clothing, seeds, building materials and farm equipment have been donated, processed and shipped to those with needs. An orphanage has been built as an example of how to care for the many children that need help in this former Communist country. And now the Benuel Lapp family of Lapp Valley Farm, New Holland, has moved to Suceava to build a dairy barn and milk processing plant as a boost to the economy and as a model farm to show the people there how to feed and care for a good herd of cows.

By April, 100 heifers are scheduled to be sent to the Lapps, 75 of them having already been donated for the project. Many local businesses have donated equipment and goods.

Work in the warehouse, located along Route 322, is done by a large number of volunteers. Various Christian schools send classes of children to help with the work in the warehouse as extracurricular activites for the children. Funds used for administration and fundraising is an amazingly low five percent.

One hundred twenty-three 40-foot sea containers of food, medical supplies, clothing and Christian literature were shipped in 1991 to Romania, Russia, Nicaragua, and Haiti. Volunteers spent more than 32,000 hours processing the shipments. A 50-bed orphanage was completed with materials donated by businesses and built by volunteer carpenters, plumbers and electricians who travelled to Romania at their own expense.

Fifteen trucks owned by the association travelled 18,000 miles every four weeks in Romania to deliver 70 pound aid parcels to over 3,000 families. A new warehouse in Sucevana provides control of shipments and distribution of relief supplies.

Right now if you have any good used equipment or cash donations earmarked for pipeline equipment to help complete the dairy barn, please call.

Or if you would like to know more about the project, contact David Laid, Christian Aid Ministries, 1353 Division Highway, Ephrata, PA. 17522. Phonc: (717) 354-2434.

Another contact person is Amos Fisher, Fisher and Thompson, 15 Newport Road, Leola, PA 17540. Phone: (717) 656-3307.

Deadline Nears For Western Pa. Dairy Farmers To Vote

CLEVELAND, Ohio — Dairy farmers in eastern Pennsylvania have until Friday to vote on proposed amendments to the federal milk marketing order for the eastern Ohio-western Pennsylvania area.

Dairy farmers who may not have received a ballot through the mail and who feel that they are eligible to vote should call Marvin Baumer, USDA referendum agent with an office in Cleveland, Ohio, at (216) 826-3220.

According to a news release from Baumer, all dairy farmers who delivered milk to pool plants in that federal order during April 1992 are eligible to vote.

Further details of voting procedure include that a producer who is not a cooperative member is to vote by individual ballot.

Qualified cooperative associations of producers will be permitted to cast bloc votes on behalf of their members on all provisions of the amended order.

If the order, as proposed to be amended, is not approved by at least two-thirds of those casting ballots, the Eastern Ohio-Western Pennsylvania federal order will be terminated.

As proposed, the amendments include changes of milk classification to three uniform classifications for all federal orders; and to determining the price of reconstituted milk when it is made from nonfat dry milk or concentrated milk shipped in from an outside area.

The classification amendment is an effort to standardize the pricing for a more equitable marketing base. Currently, a few orders have two classes of use, while some have three, and even others differ in the definitions of what kind of uses apply to each class.

The reason for the reconstituted milk amendment is to make sure that the farmers who sold milk for the lower class use of manufacture of nonfat dry milk or concentrated milk have an opportunity to receive some payback if a processor then hauls to milk to another order, reconstitutes the milk and markets it for a higher class use.

In Baumer's terms, "Concentrated milk (milk that has had some of the water removed) that is shipped in bulk form from a plant regulated under one order to a plant(s) regulated under another order will now be treated the same as any other shipment of a bulk fuild milk product between such plants.

"If such milk product is distributed as a labeled reconstituted fluid milk product by the receiving plant, the Class I use will be passed back to the originating order.

"Currently, if such milk is assigned to Class I uses, the receiving market imposes, on the handler that made the reconstituted milk, a compensatory payment for the benefit of local producers.

"Also, if a reconstituted product made from nonfat dary milk that was manufactured from producer milk under another federal order is distributed as a labeled reconsituted fluid milk product, the handler may elect to make a payment to the market where the nonfat dry milk was made.

"Such an option does not currently exist," according to Baumer.

Notices of the referendum and ballots have been mailed to all known eligible voters, according to Baumer. No voting by proxy is permitted and each producer is entitled to one vote, regardless of the number of farms under control.

Partnerships, corporations, and other business organizations which operate dairy farms are entitled to only one vote, regardless of the number of partners, shareholders, or others which make up the organization.

The amended order was considered at public hearings held in September, October and November 1990, according to Baumer.

in the Level 4 program, and 355 are involved in Pennsylvania alone, according to Lautner.

Other speakers included Richard Ross, interim dean at the Iowa State College of Veterinary Medicine, who outlined methods of treating forms of swine respiratory stress and ensuing diseases, and Al Tank, vice president of foreign trade with the NPPC, who spoke about opening the international doors to American pork.

Video Boar Sale

At the Congress, the first video boar sale had a total of 38 consignments, of which half were sold. (Minimum bid was $300 per boar.)

The highest selling boar was lot 6, Wilson Yorkshire, (ADG 2.26, BF 122, LOIN 5.89, BOAR INDEX 136), for $675.

Second was lot 18, Penn State, a Yorkshire (ADG 2.32, BF 128, LOIN 5.98, BOAR INDEX 138), for $625.

Third was lot 1, Henry Holloway, Yorkshire (ADG 2.44, BF 122, LOIN 5.62, BOAR INDEX 149) for $550.

Richard Ross, interim dean at the Iowa State College of Veterinary Medicine, outlined methods of treating forms of swine respiratory stress and ensuing diseases.

Contests

The annual junior public speaking contest featured 21 contestants. Junior division winner was Rachel Houston, Templeton, 9, daughter of Sandra and Laurence Houston, who spoke about "Humor In the Pig Pen." Intermediate winner was Adrienne Elkin, Marion Center, 15, daughter of Sam and Paula Elkin, who spoke about "Animal Rights, Animal Welfare." Senior winner was Ginger Kegg, 19, daughter of Russel and Frances Kegg, Bedford, who spoke about "Pigs In the Environment."

Judges for the contest were Jan Carson, Pennsylvania Farmers Association; Scott Davenport, swine field services, Cumberland Valley Co-Op; John Matillio, farm loan officer, York Farm Credit; and Kerry Hoffman, pesticide education director, agronomy department, Penn State. Chairperson was Bruce Lemmon, vo ag instructor, Cumberland Valley School District.

At the awards banquet, several were recognized for their contributions to the pork industry. They included Allen Hinkel, selected as All-American, to represent the state at the World Pork Expo in Iowa in June; Michelle Voneda, 19, Mackeyville, an 11-year 4-H'er and sophomore in dairy and animal science at Penn State; and John Risser, 20, coach of the Lebanon team, first place in the Pork Bowl, FFA award.

For the third time in a row, Lebanon County won the Keystone Pork Bowl, 160-80, over Berks County. Team members include Jason Krall, Katie Lefever, Jon Harnish, and Brian Kreider.

Second place was the Berks County team, coached by Pat Hunter. Team members are Jason Keller, Eric Keller, Richard Kerper, Jr., and Leon Hunter.

Third place went to Mifflinburg FFA, coached by Mike Sanders. Members are Matt Christ, Lucas Criswell, Derrick Moyer, and Daryl Ebersole.

in 1984 and increased production to 25,501m 896f 807p and a BAA of 105.1. They credit their increase in production to changes that include feeding grain four times per day, feeding steam flaked soybeans and keeping fresh forages in front of the cows at all times. They have also worked at improving forage quality.

They have goals for the future that include a higher herd average, production costs at $5.00/cwt, and increase dairy cattle sales by five percent.

OPEN HOUSE COMING IN MARCH...DETAILS TO FOLLOW!

Direct Marketing Means

Also, the customer must be treated with respect, friendliness — he is not an inconvenience, he is more important to the farmer-marketer than the other way around.

Dr. Patrick Kirschling, associate professor of food marketing and department chair at St. Joseph's University, Philadelphia, was the keynote speaker, telling the audience to step off the main path, to start thinking on broader terms about what is possible in marketing their goods to the public.

Using symbolic phrases such as, "Go outside the box. Step outside the lines. Hey, get in your offroad vehicle and get outside the boundaries," Kirschling told the audience to open up their minds to direct marketing.

He said that the slightly different approach, the little bit extra service, can make all the difference between success and failure in attracting customers.

He also said not to restrict thinking to geographic areas. Direct mail order farm businesses are a possibility. He said that reading is important and to not eliminate any possibility.

However, the person contemplating change or starting a direct market should be very much aware of their capabilities, and should understand the customers.

For example, location of the market should be with the customer in mind, not to the personal desires of the farmer-owner.

Also stressed was quality, and customer satisfaction.

According to Kirschling, "96 percent of the customers who had a bad experience fail to report it" to the market owner.

However, 91 percent of those who had a bad experience won't come back if the problem is not addressed within 48 hours, he said.

And furthermore, On the average, those 91 percent tell from nine to 10 friends about the problems they experienced at the market.

On the other hand, he said that, if there were 100 customers and 95 percent of the people were satisfied with service, that doesn't mean a lot of people will know about it, he said.

According to Kirschling, this is because people don't tend to talk about experiences which go smoothly or even better than expected, for two reasons.

If they had a good experience, those customers apparently aren't willing to share the information for fear of having it destroyed from overuse.

Also, those memories aren't as apt to come out in friendly conversation as is one concerning poor treatment.

He said that, of those 95 percent who had a good experience, at best they tell one person. If 5 percent of the customers had a bad experience, and they tell 20 people, there's actually more people hearing bad things about the market than hear good things about it.

Kirschling said there is much more detail to follow in looking at marketing, however, he said he wanted the audience to take the blinders off, and to think about five things.

He said that in any marketing organization there must be a plan, a theme which can be expressed in a sentence, about the market and that there must be a solid commitment from the top of the organization, family or strict business organization, to support that.

A vision must be outlined and communicated to everyone involved in the market, including the labor. He said they should know what kind of experience the business is trying to sell to the public.

Customer research has to be more than guessing. It should take a lot of consideration and work, surveys if necessary, but the research has to be meaningful and serious.

For running the operation, there has to be training and rewards for employees of the market.

And after all of this there has to be follow-through, which in effect means again, commitment.

The panel that followed was comprised of owner-operators of three farm markets ranging in size from small to large. They were selected because of their successes and variety of operation.

Sitting on the pannel was Stanley Nehrbas, of Sabrhen Farm, in Bally, representing a small operation; David Conover of Blossom Hill Farm, Cranbury, N.J., representing a medium sized farm market; and Ronald Rohrbach of Rohrbach Farm Market, considered a large operation.

While each panelist represented a different type of angle, they were all consistent in that they said that identifying customer types, catagorizing, and seeking to provide them with an experience tailored for them is the way to get and keep customers.

From that standpoint, all provide some form of entertainment with their operation.

Nehrbas said that sometimes they start up a tractor and have it moving around a little, or making noise, which seems to draw more people to the two roadside stands they operate along Rt. 100. He said they also will turn on the overhead irrigation system once in a while, just to break up the monotony for customers.

Conover said that his operation performs surveys and it seeks direct customer advice on the operation. They've changed business hours and similar aspects to be more kind to the customer.

He also warned about ever laughing at a customer, such as people wanting to pick peaches in November.

All agreed that customer education is key to improving relationships.

Rohrbach's farm-store operation offers a wide variety of items. He knows the populations of the urban centers which house his customers, he also knows the roads and distances from those centers to his operation. He has a variety of products to provide a variety of needs.

He also has a fall apple festival which attracts from more than 7,000 people per day. This, he gave as an example of providing entertainment.

Eastern Milk Awards Scholarships

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association recently awarded scholarships to 15 students. To provide financial help for their post-secondary education, the $500 scholarship will be awarded by their district director.

Applicants had to be a family member of an Eastern producer or employee. Selection of the winners was made by a committee consisting of three board members, the Young Cooperator president and one member of management.

Maryland Holstein Breeders Support 4-H Youth With Fun Auction

FROSTBURG, Md. — Four Maryland youth will be representing the United States in international competition at the Royal Highland show in Edinburgh, Scotland on June 25, 1993. The youth will be attending the competition as a result of winning the National 4-H Dairy Cattle Judging Contest in Madison, Wisconsin in September, 1992. Team members are: Kristi Geary, Gaithersburg; Mark Iager, Fulton; Chip Savage; Knoxville; and Marie Speak, Taneytown. Many activities are being planned to help financially support the trip that will include travel to agricultural facilities and sights in England, Holland, Belgium, Germany and France.

One special activity to raise funds will be a FUN AUCTION sponsored by the Maryland Holstein Association. It will be held in conjunction with the Maryland Holstein Annual Banquet on Friday evening, March 12, 1993, at the COMFORT INN in Frostburg, Maryland. The FUN AUCTION will begin immediately following the banquet.

Many exciting and unique items already have been promised to the FUN AUCTION to help raise money. Some of the items include:

- a "Lone Star" quilt made by Amish women from Oakland, Md.;
- two nights in the "Honeymoon Suite" at the Royal Oaks Motel, Deep Creek Lake;
- many valuable milk bottles, including a half-pint University of Maryland milk bottle;
- a hand-made hickory rocker;
- a hand-painted milk can (scene of your choice);
- famous Garrett County maple syrup;
- plus many other crafts and gifts.

Also, semen, embryos, and some animals will be consigned to sales with the proceeds going to support the youth.

Help from as many people as possible is greatly encouraged to support these outstanding youth. If you would like to donate some items to the FUN AUCTION, please contact one of the following people:

Marth Bender, Accident, MD — (301) 746-8559
Ken Holland, Pocomoke, MD — (410) 957-1399

Nona Schwartzbeck, Union Bridge, MD (410) 775-2845

If you would like to purchase an item but will be unable to attend the event, please contact one of the people listed above.

We are very proud of the accomplishments made by the Maryland 4-H youth in dairy programs and activities. However, their success would not be made possible without the tremendous support of the dairy producers, volunteer leaders, private organizations, the Maryland 4-H Foundation, and the University of Maryland System.

If you would like to make a financial contribution to support the youth on this exciting international trip, please make checks payable to "MARYLAND 4-H FOUNDATION" and send to:

Force Soil Insecticide. The Next Generation Of Performance.

FORCE® soil insecticide is setting new standards of performance. Just consider all that it does: • Controls rootworms • Outperforms Lorsban on cutworms 85% to 76% according to 1992 field trials. (Counter can't touch cutworms.) • Delivers measurably better performance against wireworms and white grubs. • Is less affected by heavy rains or drought

And consider what FORCE doesn't do: • Doesn't interact with Accent or Beacon. • Doesn't harm earthworms. • Doesn't harm birds. • Doesn't contaminate groundwater.

FORCE is clearly a generation ahead—for the generations ahead.

Hay! It Mixes Bales.

The new ROTO-MIX IV Series Mixer Feeder with the ROTO-HAY Processor™ (Patent Pending) combines two steps into one by chopping baled hay and other roughages as they are put into the mixer with other feed ingredients. It reduces the costs of grinding by allowing you to process only what you need, thus reducing shrinkage due to wind and spoilage. The ROTO-MIX IV with the ROTO-HAY Processor also gives you the capability to mix small quantities to achieve a consistent blend when using micro ingredients. All this with the speed and efficiency of the revolutionary ROTO-MIX® mixing system. Hay...this is something to get excited about.

Early Sweet Corn Demands Crucial Soil, Plant Management

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Sweet corn on July 2? It's possible!

At least David Lankford, a grower based in Hurlock, Md., believes so. Using a combination of raised beds, drip irrigation, and inserting sweet corn transplants through clear plastic mulch, Lankford said that last year his sweet corn was picked for roadside stands on July 2.

Seeds for transplant are placed in trays March 15. The transplants are injected through the plastic in the fields on April 10. Using this method, the central Maryland grower is able to get to the markets early and sell at a high price.

Lankford spoke to farmers and vegetable business representatives at the New Holland Vegetable Day on Monday at Summit Valley Elementary School.

Attract customers

Lankford, who grows a variety of vegetables for the roadside markets, manages 60 acres. He also maintains eight greenhouses totalling 20,000 square feet to start his crops.

He said that without sweet corn, he wouldn't be able to attract customers to roadside markets. "For some reason, sweet corn is the attractant for all vegetables," said the grower.

He spends close to $300 per acre for plastic mulch and drip irrigation. Lankford uses raised beds on his sweet corn, but he found that planting through the clear plastic (even with cold soil conditions) worked well. While growing sweet corn as transplants can be more expensive, he told the farmers that he makes up the difference in total yield at an earlier date.

Also, spoon-feeding places nitrogen in the soil to the plant in the exact rate at the right time. It saves fertilizer cost and cuts down on leaching that may occur. The "spoon-feeding" program, he said, "puts out what the plant needs closer to when it needs it," he said. With his production methods, after planting a total of 18,000 sweet corn plants per acre, he achieves a yield of 1,000 dozen per acre.

(Lankford noted this applies to regular sweet corn, and not the supersweets, which require 70 degree soil temperatures in order to germinate and grow. Also, injecting the supersweet corn seeds through the plastic worked well if done late enough.)

Ray Samulis, Burlington County, N.J. agent, spoke about the importance of recognizing and learning to manage soil compaction with vegetables. "There's no doubt in my mind that we are losing significant yields through compacted soils," he said.

No substitute

The vegetable grower spoke about the importance of growing material here, in the climate in which the plants are meant to thrive. "There is no substitute for locally grown plants for our own conditions," he said. Plants that are grown in Florida and shipped here often go through shock from the temperature change, and can go into dormancy.

Lankford grows cabbage, tomatoes, peppers, egg plants, watermelon, cantelope, and other crops for the roadside markets in the Baltimore-Washington area. Lankford emphasized the importance of custom feeding his plants (often, even nitrogen can stress plants readily in the greenhouse).

Proper care of greenhouse plants include maintaining the dif temperature (setting the heat in the greenhouse 2 or 3 degrees warmer at night than during the day). He uses side ventilation, similar to poultry houses, with fans to help only during the summertime, when heat stress can create problems.

A key ingredient in overall stress management in the greenhouse is using thermostats to ensure a nearly constant room temperature.

He also uses a suspended sprinkler system. Lankford told the farmers he doesn't believe in the floating or flood system because if one tray goes bad, the rest can be easily affected.

Relies on automation

He also relies heavily on automation, including clocks, because of his busy schedule.

Also, he told the farmers that if using a greenhouse to get a good alarm system. At the end of March last year, the temperature fell to 20 degrees at night, and if it wasn't for a temperature alarm system, he would have lost 250,000 peppers.

"We keep all of our controls in the center of the house," he said, "out of the sunlight. All the elements have to be in good working order."

Also, keeping a backup supply of water is critical. "Water is the most critical thing you need," he said. The Maryland vegetable grower keeps 3,000 of gallons of water handy in case of emergency. He uses three water pumps in the greenhouse. Also, he checks to ensure the pH of the water (which runs to 8.2 in some cases) is balanced properly.

Managing stress

Lankford also spoke about managing stress in vegetable plants. The optimimum growing conditions are when moisture levels are near field capacity in the soil. Too much water and there is no oxygenation and roots can rot. Too little, and the plant is under stress, which directly affects yield.

During prime growing periods, water demands are an average of 1 inch of week, or 27,000 gallons/acre/week for your crop. Drip irrigation, he said, raised beds, and plastic mulch are ways to achieve the 90-95 percent range of field capacity (equivalent to soil 24 hours after a heavy rain, which is quite wet) necessary for optimum growing conditions.

Lankford said that he waters a little more than two hours per day every day. His "multiwatering" techniques also include fertigation.

To see how much the plant is taking up, and exactly how much it would need, he regularly conducts tissue analysis. He said that since using this method, especially on sweet corn, instead of the 150 units of nitrogen normal per acre in a growing season, he's "not even near that" in application.

Also, Lankford said that, when it comes to growing watermelons, most of the water uptake is at night. His watering program for melons is at 5 a.m., at noontime, and between 9-10 p.m. He uses a "rinse" mode after applying fertilizer through the drip lines to make sure there is no root intrusion into the nozzle.

Using these methods, the Maryland grower said that he is able to produce about 1,000 dozen of corn or about 100,000 pounds of watermelon per acre.

But farmers must be careful to match the drip irrigation product to soil type to provide that "continuous feeding trough" critical to the plant. "Understand your soil so you can properly apply water," said Lankford.

Manage compaction

Also at the Vegetable Day, Ray Samulis, Burlington County, N.J. agent, spoke about the importance of recognizing and learning to manage soil compaction with vegetables.

"There's no doubt in my mind that we are losing significant yields through compacted soils," said Samulis.

The New Jersey agent said the worst compaction problems occur on sandy soil (not, as many think, on silt or clay loams). The negative affects of compaction include decreased root growth, increased runoff, and yield decreases.

Farmers should measure compaction problems using a penetrometer or simply a half-inch wide solid steel bar, pressed firmly into the soil, to check for compaction.

Preventing the problem, by keeping heavy equipment off the soil when it is wet, may prove better than managing it by using subsoiling equipment. If using subsoilers, he told the farmers to do the work in the fall (when soil moisture is low and the soil is workable), work to the depth and width required, and select crops to help in rotation to prevent compaction.

Getting started

Larry Yager, Penn State marketing specialist, spoke about getting started in the vegetable business and alternative markets.

"If we fail to plan, we plan to fail," said Yager, who introduced the results of the Mid-Atlantic Produce Project (MAPP) survey, outlined in the report, "Developing A Wholesale Marketing Strategy For Produce In The Mid-Atlantic Region."

The report, prepared by James C. Hanson, farm management specialist, University of Maryland, and David J. Rada, produce marketing consultant, University of Maryland, showed the results of surveys conducted in 1991 of 182 produce buyers in the Baltimore-Washington area. The buyers indicated that a large number (33 percent) buy because local produce is fresher and many would prefer to purchase from local stands.

For growers to obtain new customers, it's important to provide samples (40 percent listed this) and that they should provide a list of products (21 percent). For long-term success, 40 percent said that the product should be of high quality, and growers should know their product (19 percent) and offer good service (16 percent).

According to the marketing specialist, institutions (hospitals, nursing homes, etc.) would be willing also to buy directly from the grower.

Yager said growers should do some primary research. "Go to the buyers and see what they want and when they want it," he said.

The Vegetable Day hosted a wide range of other topics, including two sweet corn integrated pest management sessions, bedding plants, pumpkin production, fumigation, potatoes, and growing and managing greenhouse tomatoes.

Using a combination of raised beds, drip irrigation, and inserting sweet corn transplants through clear plastic mulch, David Lankford, a grower based in Hurlock, Md., said that last year his sweet corn was picked for roadside stands on July 2.

Larry Yager, Penn State marketing specialist, spoke about getting started in the vegetable business and alternative markets. "If we fail to plan, we plan to fail," said Yager, who introduced the results of the Mid-Atlantic Produce Project (MAPP) survey.

Ag Scholarships Offered

THURMONT, Md. — Rodman Myers, chairman of the Maryland State Grange Agriculture Scholarship Committee, announced the Maryland State Grange will offer five scholarships this year.

Three $300 Past Masters scholarships will be awarded to recipients who are enrolling in agriculture or science-related courses at a Community College in Maryland.

Two $500 Edward F. Holter University of Maryland Agriculture Scholarships are available to students enrolling in agriculture at the University of Maryland, UMES, or enrolling in a two-year program at the University of Maryland Institute of Applied Agriculture in 1993.

Deadline for applications is May 1.

Myers said the Grange is always interested in maintaining quality education and is able to do this by offering the Agriculture Scholarship Program.

For applications, contact C. Rodman Myers, 15727 Smith Road, Thurmont, MD 21788, (301) 271-2104).

KEEPING AMERICA ON THE GROW

For me, the test of any alfalfa is how many pounds of nutrients per acre it produces.

I'm as interested as the next guy in what researchers are doing to improve the alfalfa varieties on the market today. But, sometimes, I think seed companies forget that more leaves or better disease resistance by themselves don't produce more milk. The bottom line is pounds of nutrients per acre.

That's why I plant Multi-plier alfalfa from Jacques. Sure it's a multileaf and has good winter-hardiness and terrific disease resistance. But all that says to me is that Multi-plier has the potential to produce more pounds of nutrients per acre on my farm.

I look at my corn silage hybrids the same way. So I also plant a lot of 7970 from Jacques. Yes, it's big and leafy and yes, it makes a lot of grain and fits my operation. But my analysis only measures total digestible nutrients and that's what I'm looking for.

I'm open to new alfalfa varieties and silage corn hybrids, but only if they'll deliver more pounds of nutrients per acre than my Jacques' Multi-plier and 7970.

Game Bird Management Seminar Feb. 21-23

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Game bird producers and managers are invited to attend the 24th annual Game Bird Production and Management of Shooting Preserves Conference at the Days Inn here Feb. 21-23.

The conference starts with a reception on Sunday, Feb. 21 with game meat and eggs at 8 p.m., according to a program participant.

Program topics on Feb. 22-23 include a workshop of feeding recommendations, how to use marbled/spleen vaccine, a panel on hatchery equipment and embryo or chick management, processing game birds for new markets, pollution and how it relates to small game propagation, pheasant manure production, improving brooding management for game birds, game bird medication survey, and the annual Pa. Game Breeders Association meeting.

Last year, representatives from eight states attended.

For more information and registration, contact the Game Bird Conference, Penn State University, 306 Ag Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802-2601, (814) 865-8301.

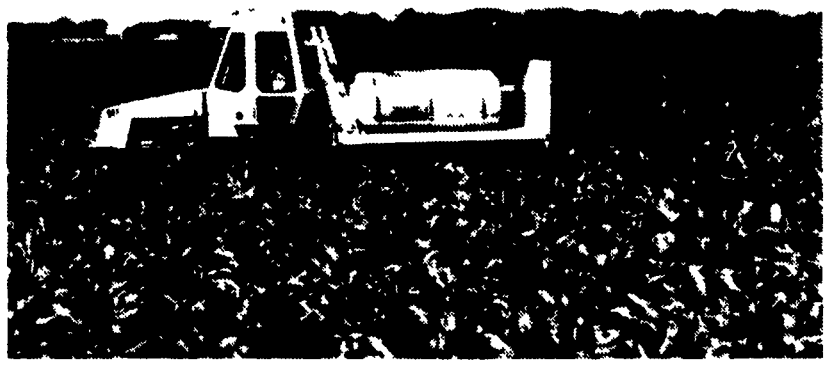
Willmar Air Ride



Application Versatility
The AIR RIDE is a versatile applicator which can make accurate applications across rough fields before planting and through finished fields after the crop is up. A rugged four-wheel independent suspension supports the vehicle frame and allows the applicator to make precise custom application.

Adjustable Axles
The front and rear axles can be hydraulically adjusted from inside the cab, to any width between 72 and 96 inches to adjust for any row width.

Reduced Compaction
The AIR RIDE is equipped with 43x12.4x24 inch tires, to reduce crop damage and soil compaction.

60 Foot Boom
AIR RIDE's 60-foot self-leveling boom and 500-gallon spray tank translates into more acres per day.

LVNB Holds Annual Ag Seminar

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

PRESCOTT (Lebanon Co.) — Though snows and cold weather persist, many farmers in the Lebanon Valley region have come to consider the recent annual Lebanon Valley National Bank farmer seminar as the first true sign of spring.

The seminar is held annually at the Prescott Fire Hall, and this year more than 400 people attended by invitation. The purpose of the seminar is to bring together as many of the bank's clients and others for an educational day on the latest or most significant current events which affect agriculture.

This year, speakers included Kenneth Winebark, Lebanon County Extension agent; state Rep. Sheila Miller, R-Berks; Dr. Lynn Sammons, DVM, large animal specialist with Willow Creek Animal Hospital, Myerstown; H. Louis Moore, Pennsylvania State University professor of agricultural economics; and Albert Murry, president and CEO of LVNB.

The program included Moore's analysis and prognosis for agricultural commodity prices, based on existing prices, production estimates, current demand estimates, trading practices, and political environment. Known for his agricultural outlooks, Moore has been a perennial and frequent speaker at different agricultural seminars and programs in the state.

Moore also co-writes a regular column for an agribusiness publication, "The PennAg Journal."

Returning for the second year to the podium to discuss nutrient management, state Rep. Miller discussed the contents of the nutrient management proposal contained in House Bill 100 (printer's No.178), and handed out copies for the audience to take home and read.

Miller is a freshman legislator in the House, but she has been involved in Harrisburg and agricultural politics for years, last serving as executive director of the state Senate Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee.

Last year she warned of a large number of farms being projected as going out of business under now obsolete proposals for nutrient management legislation.

When it came time to testify during a public hearing last year, she did not get support from researchers who made the projections she had told last year's group.

However, last week she said that the old proposal would have affected a large percentage of farms compared to the estimated 15 percent who would be required to create a nutrient management plan under the current proposal.

She voted for H.B.100.

She explained the process of arriving at the wording contained within H.B. 100 and said she had one reservation with the current bill, which may be addressed while in the Senate agricultural committee, depending on what its chairman and ultimately the Democratic Caucus decide to allow in amendments.

She said her one concern with the proposal is that it does not specifically address cash-crop farmers who may be overloading their land with chemical nutrients, but do not have livestock, and therefore do not fall within the only defining threshold contained in the H.B.100 proposal — those farms with 2,000 pounds or more of livestock (including poultry) per acre of land (owned or rented).

She said it is a concern to her and some others that cash crop farmers are not specifically addressed, but that because chemical nutrient use is contained under the list of sources of nutrients to be addressed, it may not be a real concern.

Miller, in her former capacity, worked for years on nutrient management proposals, receiving criticizm for allegedly sitting on previously House-approved legislation.

However, she said the current proposal is a reflection of much work done while the previously House-passed nutrient management bill was in the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Much of the wording and proposals generated and agreed to during the past year was introduced as legislation late last session, receiving bipartisan support of the House. This bill contains much of the wording proposed last session, and it was also amended to reflect additional areas of concern in the agricultural community.

She said the audience should read over the proposal and if they have concerns, to talk to their representatives, including her.

Using a carousel of slides to illustrate his talk, Winebark discussed the industry in the Lebanon Valley, its accomplishments and its diversity.

Designed somewhat as a pep talk, Winebark's address also contained a number of not widely publicized facts about the area's agricultural character.

"It's important to remember what mark agriculture is making on the community," he said.

Winebark said the changes in agriculture are all around, such as the large dairy freestall, research into robotic milkers, continued improvements in genetics and technology and overall care and understanding of bovines, lengths of poultry and hog facilities expressed in multiples of football fields, etc.

He said that farmers and all agribusinessmen in the Lebanon-Berks-Lancaster area have a good reason to be proud of the job they are doing.

Winebark said that for the fourth year in a row, not only has Lebanon County led the state in milk production per cow, but the average this past year broke the 19,000 pounds of milk-per-cow barrier.

"Fifty percent of the pork in the state is raised in the area," Winebark said, adding that not only are the local swine used for meat products, but hogs are used as a source of valves for human hearts, in the making of insulin, cortisone, crayons, and of course leather.

He also said that while many agriculturalists recognize the strength of the industry in which they participate, they can fail to see the significance of other agricultural industries within the community.

He talked about the area's 10 million hens, the turkeys, the fruits and vegetables, the 2.5 million trout, the area's $300 million worth of cow-calf operations, 14,000 sheep, horse production, 300,000 acres of corn for grain and the additional 40 percent that goes to make silage, the 100,000 acres of hay, greenhouse operations such as Laysers, which is one of the top 100 producers in the nation with more than 13 acres in greenhouses, the strong ornamental industry, roadside retail markets, bologna, etc.

He said that further, there are many food processors in the area which also contribute heavily to the area's economy, such as Murray Steaks, which buys boxed beef from across the country, cuts and prepare the meat products and ships them back out to 17 different states.

"Food processors have played an important role and will continue to as long as it continues to be (profitable to remain in the area.)"

As far as retail markets for the agricultural products, he said that they are also very important, because in addition to providing outlets for local produce, they also impact on the general public, because that is where the general public gets the majority of its experience with agricultural commodities.

Further, he said that farmers should think about their total impact on the community, and said they should, "Go out and produce the kind of product your proud to have produced."

They are members of the Jackson Baptist Church and have two young children who they hope will be interested in the dairy industry in the future.

CONVENTION SALE

Six hundred Holstein breeders jamed into the ball room to participate in the highly touted convention sale. Two beautiful heifers topped the sale at $12,300 each. The first animal in the ring was Tidy-Brook Sunny Mascot-ET from Mark Meyers, Greencastle. Mascot, the four-month-old by Singing-Brook N-B Mascot and out of the home-bred Sally Cleitus cow sold to Michael and Evon Young, Salt Lake City, Utah. Young had an open phone line to Ken Raney with the bid.

The other heifer at the top price was Norz-Hill Leader Whissel consigned by Lester Poust, Muncy, and sold to Bruce Bollinger, Lebanon. The just-fresh Whissle is out of Kinglea Leader and an excellent Ned Boy daughter with an outstanding bottom side of the pedigree.

Third high was Mowry Mascot Happy-ET consigned by Steven Mowry, Roaring Spring and sold to Hillside Farms and Pen-Col Farm at Shavertown for $1,100. Fourth high was the first choice of eight females transferred 10/92, consigned by James McMath II, Mt. Union and sold to Jonell Syndicate, Richmond, CT. for $10,800.

The gross sales were $259,900 and the average on 71 head was $3,628.

al commented that unnecessary burdens are put on them by the pressures of environmental interests. Wetlands preservation is getting out of hand. Developers offer high prices for open land. People do not need these expensive houses. Diversification has been tried but it does not work.

There is much misunderstanding of legislation pertaining to controlling run off from fertilizer and manure. One farmer mentioned that experts tell the farmer how many pounds of fertilizer they need per acre. Another said he does not like someone coming to his farm and telling him how to use fertilizer and manure. It was stressed that the farmers are under undue duress for the pollution in the Chesapeake Bay. One said vacationers with money don't like the seaweed but it helps to remove impurities from the water.

Municipal waste treatment facilities and industrial treatment plants discharge their effluent into the waterways. Malfunctions and overflows caused by flooding feed pollutants directly into the streams. Treated leacheate flows into the Conestoga Creek from the Lancaster Landfill. Farmers are taking a disproportionate blame for pollution. Cooperation between agriculture, industry and towns is the only way to solve the problem.

Chicken and pig manure from intensive growing operations can be removed and sold to crop growers who do not have livestock, such as Delaware.

Tobacco is Lancaster County's number one cash crop. Two farmers said they have not sold their 1992 crop yet. Each had only one buyer come to their farm. They think the buyers are waiting for the price to come down. One farmer said he will not plant tobacco again because of unstable prices.

In 1991 he got $1.65 per pound for his tobacco but in 1992 he only got $.98 per pound for the same type. There are too few buyers and too much government interference. Even the buyers do not know why the prices are down or why they cannot buy a particular type. However, both the state and federal governments reap much more in tax revenue per pack of cigarettes than the farmer gets for growing the tobacco in it.

In 1993, milk producers expect to get 4% to 9% or $.50 to $.60 less per hundred weight of milk than they got in 1992. Prices are about $12. per hundred weight. In 1978 farmers got between $9. and $10. per hundred weight. The income from milk has not improved much but the costs of machinery, services and taxes have. Dairymen must keep more cows because the profit per cow is less. More milk often results in a glut of milk on the market with lower prices. The government will buy up a percentage of the surplus milk in order to keep the prices up, but cuts off at a point to put marginal farmers out of business and reduce the milk surplus. One added that nutritionists who caution on the consumption of milk because of its fat and cholesterol content do not help.

The cost of seed corn is high. Several said that uses for corn other than for feed should be found. Ethanol which is produced from corn can be used for fuel. Chemicals made from corn can be made into biodegradable bags. Large acreages of tomatoes resulted in a glut of tomatoes on the market. The high cost of local labor connected with tomatoes finally ruined it. Cantelopes and cauliflower flood the local markets in summer, sometimes resulting in almost giveaway prices.

Future prospects for farming in Lancaster County are not good because of the tax structure, crowded conditions and the high cost of land.

FARM MANAGEMENT

SELECTING A FARMING ALTERNATIVE

Many of us are looking for a way to get rich quick.

Maybe you can remember some farm enterprise(s) or a business venture that failed and was a big drain on your other income.

Interest in alternative enterprises have increased in recent years among both farm and non-farm families. Many families are looking for new ventures to generate additional income from their resources. Others are looking to non-traditional enterprises (such as llamas, ostriches, emus, buffalo, pot-bellied pigs, elk, deer, goats, sheep, and etc.) as a way to get started in commercial farming to help support a rural lifestyle.

This article is one of a series that will aid you in evaluating business options or alternatives.

There are many opportunities for farming entrepreneurs in Pennsylvania. Nearby metropolitan areas offer vast and diverse markets for farm products, as well as opportunities for recreation and tourism related businesses. Many farmers have already developed profitable, innovative enterprises that capitalize on these markets.

Unfortunately, not all innovations are successful. Starting up a new venture requires resources, careful management, hard work, and assumption of risk. Before committing time and resources to an idea, it is important to look at the feasibility of the enterprise on paper. A careful study of all factors involved can greatly improve your chances for success.

Here are some basic questions to consider before jumping into a new alternative as a means of making money.

- Have you gathered all the necessary facts about the farming or business alternative? (Weigh advantages and disadvantages.)
- How much investment is required to adequately start the venture? (Financial feasibility)
- Do you have sufficient knowledge and management ability to start the business?
- Did you evaluate the market potential of your new product?
- If you are entering a business, is this venture based on a pyramid structure which may have a short life?
- Where do you want to be? (Personal and family considerations)
- Will you start the new enterprise? (Making a decision)
- What are the possibilities? (Identify all the alternatives)

Personal and Family Considerations

Personal and family assessments are important when evaluating alternative enterprises, because the final decisions will have a major impact on every single family member. Each person has different expectations regarding the new enterprise, including the role he or she will play, what management skills are needed, and what results are anticipated.

Sorting out personal and family goals in advance will help prevent confusion and perhaps even conflict in the future, and will help you develop specific criteria for evaluating alternatives.

Certain personal qualities are correlated with the ability to succeed in an independent family business. Developing the personal qualities needed to succeed in business is possible, but it is an additional challenge. Some other family member may possess more of the personal qualities that lead to success in business. If so, consider delegating management of the new enterprise to that person.

The family is going to be affected by whatever enterprise changes are made. Farm bases and natural resource-based businesses are usually managed and operated by families, and the business often shares yard and household space with the family. Right now, many of your family's desires may be satisfied by the current business or job. To prevent family resentment, a new business must satisfy more of their needs and lifestyle preferences than the present business or occupation.

What will happen if you ignore family members' needs and preferences? Many problems can be prevented if family member's opinions are discussed before time and money are committed to a new enterprise. All family members have strong opinions about their own roles in a business.

In family operated businesses, the main manager usually has a more positive attitude toward the business than do other family members. Look for areas where family members are either very satisfied or dissatisfied. A family member who is unhappy with family interactions is expressing a need that may or may not be fulfilled by a new enterprise. Keep in mind that starting up a new enterprise usually places additional stress on the family's personal interactions and finances.

What will happen if income drops and there is less spending money, which often occurs in a new business? What if less time is available for family? Can that be tolerated for six months? Six years? if family members like their current roles in the business, will they be unhappy if the roles are changed?

Family members should discuss these possibilities and determine what limits to set, such as how much income may be sacrificed for how long? How heavy a workload will be tolerated? These limits will become part of your family's personal guidelines for evaluating different enterprise options.

Mid-Atlantic Alternative Animal Conference

The Mid-Atlantic Alternative Animal Conference is being sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and Rutgers Cooperative Extension. This meeting may help you gather some of the information needed in selecting and evaluating an alternative enterprise that I have discussed in this column.

The theme of this conference is "How to Win the Game!" This conference is scheduled for March 12-13 at the Lehigh County Vocational Technical School, Schnecksville, Pa., seven miles north of Allentown. The alternative animal species to be covered in this meeting include: llamas, elk, deer, ostriches, emu, rhea, pygmy goats, game birds, fancy fowl, angora rabbits, rabbits and cavies, pot-bellied pigs, buffalo, and Scottish Highlanders.

For more information on the conference, call (215) 746-1970 or write to the Northampton Cooperative Extension Office, RR 4, Greystone Bldg., Nazareth, PA 18064-9212.

Lower SCC By Overall Management, Not Just Treatment, Says Specialist

CONNIE LEINBACH
Berks Co. Correspondent

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — The best way to fight mastitis is to manage your way out, not treat your way out, said a Penn State Extention dairy science specialist.

Steve Spencer spoke on ways dairy farmers can lower their somatic cell counts at a recent Dairy Day seminar held here in the Berks County Agriculture Center.

Spencer advocated this course of action because, he said, mastitis is virtually impossible to eliminate once it has infected a herd.

Dairy farmers have a greater incentive to lower their SCC because, as of July 1, the standard will be reduced from 1 million to 750,000 SCC.

But more than government regulation as an incentive to lick this problem, a high somatic cell count reduces milk production, said Dr. Steve Ford, a farm management specialist with Penn State Extension. This is because the cow with mastitis uses energy she would normally use in producing milk to fight off the infection.

These days, too, Ford said, many dairies pay a premium for milk with low SCC. So there's more money to be made when this problem is kept under control.

Spencer explained that mastitis is caused by two types of bacteria — contagious and environmental. By far, the contagious varieties — streptococcus agalactiae, or strep ag, and staphlococcus arueus — are the most common and difficult to eliminate.

These are the bacteria that cause high SCC, he said.

"When these organisms invade the udder, SCC goes up," Spencer said.

And since most dairy farmers must contend with mastitis, Spencer gave several useful pointers in managing it.

Post-dipping with a germicide will do the most to controlling contagious bacteria, he said.

"There's no other practice that comes close to controlling mastitis than with post-dipping," he said. This practice will control mastitis by 50 percent, he said.

The next best practice is culling cows with staph aureus, he said.

"It's very final, but a good, stiff culling program has a lot of merit," he said, especially if the cow has mastitis in all four quarters.

"That's a road cow," he said.

If a cow with mastitis produces a lot of milk, segregating her from the others and milking her last and with her own equipment may be a way to manage her infection.

Keeping stalls, milking equipment, and udders clean is another important way to fight these infections, he said.

"It's awfully hard to fight a mastitis problem with dirty cows," he said.

Predipping of teats aids in fighting environmental bacteria, such as streptococcus non-agalactiae and coliforms.

Dry treating is better for controlling staph but not for the environmental bacteria, he said. Back flushing, studies have shown, also has been disappointing in fighting contagious organisms and is no help in fighting environmental ones, he said.

Spencer also noted that nutrition plays a big part in keeping cows healthy.

"If they aren't fed right, this lowers their resistance," he said. "Healthy cows are well-fed cows," he said. Farmers should be sure cows have selenium in their diets.

Cows should be prepared properly before they are milked, he said.

Keep regulators clean and well-maintained. And keeps cows' udders dry before putting the machines on, because water creates a favorable environment for bacteria.

He noted that SCCs can't get too low. In Denmark, he said, the maximum SCC is 250,000 and in Italy it's 200,000.

In his talk, Ford discussed the costs farmers incur fighting mastitis as opposed to culling and replacing cows.

For example, in fighting mastitis, farmers pay for medicine, veterinarians, discarded milk, labor, and early replacements.

According to a study he did, the estimated cost of treating a cow with mastitis vs. replacing her was

Cumberland Extension Holds Annual Meeting

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The Cumberland County Cooperative Extension Association held their annual meeting last week and re-elected Rosemarie Peiffer, New Cumberland, President, and Stephanie Chertok of Carlisle, Secretary. Dr. Eugene Hoefert of Carlisle was elected Vice President. Rosemarie Peiffer, President expressed the appreciation of the Board to the retiring Directors including Owen McCulloch and Richard Smith of Newville; Ronald Souder and Lynn Wingert of Mechanicsburg; and Chris Renner of Carlisle. Margaret Smith of Newville, and Wayne Baker of Shippensburg, received the A.A. Raudabaugh Memorial Award in recognition for their leadership and services to the community.

Wayne Baker received the A.A. Raudabaugh Memorial Award from Rosemarie Peiffer.

President Peiffer welcomed the newly elected directors including Kendra Byers, Gretchen Naugle, and Larry Yorlets of Carlisle; and Roy Snoke and Galen Karper of Shippensburg. Extension program highlights included: 4-H Science Program - Jamie Glennon and Andrew Rook; Senior Issues - Marg Malehorn; Master Gardener Activities - Kathy Wolfe; and IPM Programs - Alan Michael. "Agriculture in Poland," a presentation by Larry Yager, Penn State Area Marketing Agent proved to be a very interesting and educational program. Larry just returned from a six-month educational assignment in Poland.

Two Honored By Society

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Two fertilizer industry representatives were honored by the Pennsylvania Plant Food and Protectant Educational Society at the recent Lime, Fertilizer, and Pesticide Conference here.

William R. Brubaker, Lititz, and John Corman, Mechanicsburg, were honored with the Man of the Year awards for 1992 from the society.

Corman, of the Potash Co. of America, was also honored for his contributions to the industry.

The awards, presented annually during the annual conference, honor individuals who actively promote the fertilizer industry.

If you sell the cow with mastitis for $600 and purchase a replacement for $1,600, the $1,000 cost should be spread out over several years because that cow will make replacements.

"A cow is a capital investment," he said.

Although culling a sick cow may cause a large, one-time expense, the benefits accrue over a longer period of time, and may be less expensive than treating her, he said.

Eastern Region V.P. On To Chicago To Promote National FFA Week

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

BLOOMVILLE, Ohio — Rick Perkins, national FFA eastern region vice president, never intended to be an FFA member.

Before he entered ninth grade, he tried to convince FFA advisor Tom Gerschutz, at the Sentinel Vocational School in Tiffin, Ohio, that FFA simply wasn't in Rick's plans to eventually study and practice law.

But Gerschutz and instructor Roland Zimmerman convinced Rick it was the right thing to do (after all, Rick's three brothers, Dan, 40, Mike, 38, and Bob, 36 were all FFA members). As a result, after five years of involvement in the organization, Rick said he has used his diverse experiences in FFA to help in his decision to eventually specialize in agriculture and law.

Rick has been busy in Washington, D.C. the past week along with several other national FFA officers to kick off National FFA Week, which begins today and lasts through next Saturday. The officers will be a part of two groups, according to Rick — one will stay in Washington and meet with representatives and senators on Capitol Hill. The other will conduct a media blitz in Chicago, meeting with Orien Samuelson on his syndicated TV show and to meet Chicago Board of Trade and Mercantile Exchange executives.

Rick, on the Chicago team, will also work to promote Sprayer Tune-Up Week by taking part in sprayer safety talks and demonstrations.

Rick said the officers will be on hand to talk about FFA and show how the organization "can make a difference in the lives of young people." In meeting with key agricultural industry leaders, Rick said there is a clear need for young people to "be communicators, to communicate with the public on issues related to consumers and different business issues.

"We need to be taking a more proactive role in the industry," he said.

Rick cited the recent FFA Japan tour which emphasized the need for communication in the global marketplace.

For his own career direction, Rick said FFA "changed my life." The organization provided Rick with direction and "common sense." FFA provides hands-on learning experiences, "the best way to learn things," said Rick.

As part of his FFA experiences in high school, Rick managed more than 100 head of registered Hampshire sheep. He also raised beef cattle. Raised on his family farm, Rick helps manage 200 acres of grains and hay, including soybeans, corn, wheat, oats, and alfalfa.

Rick is a freshman at Ohio State University, where he is majoring in ag economics with a minor in political science. He said someday he wants to work in the White House, and is watching closely what the policies of the Clinton administration will be toward agriculture.

FFA members in high schools throughout the country will promote FFA and ag education during FFA week, according to the National FFA Organization based in Alexandria, Va. This year's theme is "FFA — The Spirit of Leadership."

During the week and through the year, FFA chapters conduct activities which contribute to their school, community, and nation.

Travis Park, national FFA president from Franklin, Ind., said FFA Week is an opportunity for all members to catch the spirit of FFA and get involved. This year's theme challenges members to take advantage of leadership opportunities and to further their personal development.

"We are excited about the increasing numbers of members who are joining our ranks with a goal of assuming a leadership role in the agriculture of their community, state, and nation," said Park. "The organization achieved an increase in membership for the first time in a number of years to over 400,000 for 1992. We are also seeing significant changes in the way chapters and their advisers serve their communities."

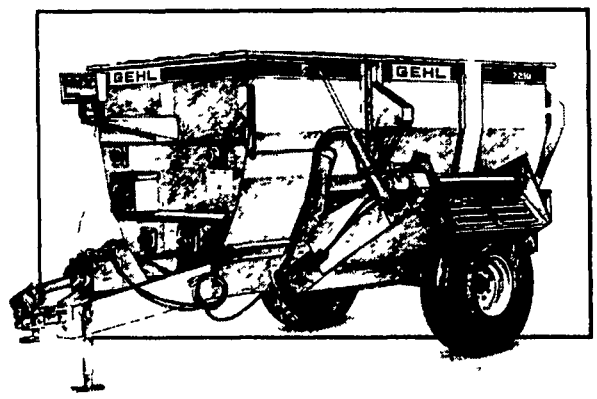
GEHL

GEHL TMR MIXER FEEDERS ARE #1



Nothing makes a Total Mixed Ration (TMR) feeding system work better than a Gehl mixer feeder. Here's why:

- Better Mixing Action – Unique four-auger design creates a double figure-8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients
- Energy Efficient – Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built To Last – Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life
- Six Sizes – 150 to 500 cubic feet capacities
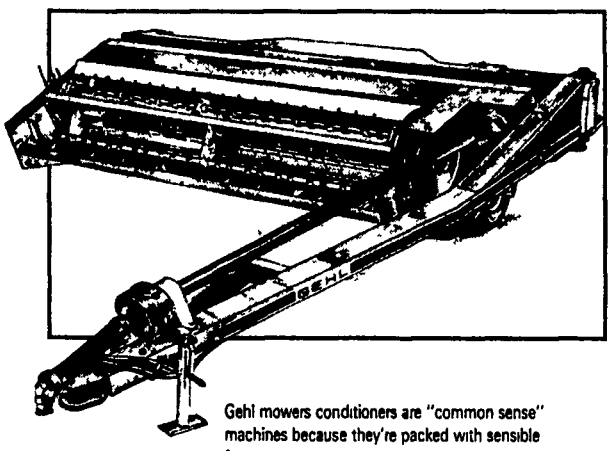
- Three Styles – Trailer type, stationary and truck-mounted units to fit your operation

COMMON SENSE MOWER CONDITIONERS



Gehl mowers conditioners are "common sense" machines because they're packed with sensible features

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning
- Simple sickle drive with pivot arm design provides more cutting force
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain
- Two models with 7-foot and 9-foot cutting widths available.

PROMOTION

The Pennsylvania Holstein Association recognized three Holstein Milk Promotion groups for their work during the 1992 year in milk promotion efforts. Each club received a monetary award at the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention held at the Ramada Hotel, Wilkes-Barre.

Each Promotion group submitted a scrabook detailing their promotion efforts. Each scrapbook contained news articles, photographs, letters etc. highlighting their promotional activities.

The scrapbooks were turned in by: Centre County - Mary Ann Zimmerman, Chairperson; Wayne County - Daisy & Kathryn Dix; Wyoming/Lackawanna - Judi Johnson.

The best new idea went to Wayne County for using the "Cheers" non-alcholic dairy beverage program for school activities both during the Christmas season and the Spring Prom Season. This program involved the entire community in promoting dairy products and the "don't drink and drive" theme.

SOLICITORS

Membership solicitors were also recognized.

The efforts of all the membership solicitors around the state is tremendous. A lot of time and effort is put in by all solicitors, but special recognition goes to individuals who have done outstandingly well in membership solicitation.

The following gentlemen signed up over twenty new members or renewals and each will receive $300.00 toward a trip to the 1993 National Holstein Convention in Rochester NY. They include: Scott Foreman, Somerset; James Houser, Centre; Kenneth Mowry, Bedford; Darren Peachey, Mifflin; Wayne Shrock, Somerset.

All membership solicitors are congratulated on a job well done. Holstein breeders are reminded that members applications are still being accepted for the 1993 year.

PUBLIC AUCTION
112.8 ACRE YORK COUNTY FARM
SATURDAY, APRIL 10, 1993
At 12:00 Noon

Located just south of Red Lion in North Hopewell Township, York County, Pa.

Directions: From Red Lion follow Rt. 24 to Pleasant View Rd. T.L. Property on the left watch for signs.

Here is an excellent opportunity to purchase a historic farm that has 80 tillable acres that are gently rolling, in full cultivation with good conservation practices. A quiet valley has open land with a spring fed stream. (Good for pasture land) some woodland. This farm has not had animals for years but would be a great place for animals of any type.

Historical Note!

This home is in need of work but this huge structure sits by the stream and was known as the Sechrist Mill. It operated through the 1800s by water power grinding grains for local residents. The water wheel is no longer there but the basic structure is the same. In approximately 1900 it was converted to a residence and the water wheel ceased operating. The barn is a large structure in average condition with many possibilities. New roof last year. (nice barn) Another Historic Note: Neighbors say that years ago gold found on the farm prompted a mining attempt. Mining costs outweighed profits it is told and now the area is farmed over. Owners & auctioneers make no warranties to such claims and are printed for historical interest only.

If you are interested in a good agricultural farm, historical site or just a good sound investment of over 100 acres here is your opportunity. Call for details.

PRUA Calls For Unity

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A call for unity among those whose lives or livelihoods are dependent on the use of animals was the apparant theme of a Feb.12 meeting of the Prennsylvanians for the Responsible Use of Animals (PRUA), held at the Harrisburg airport Days Inn.

A large portion of the estimated 100-people in the audience was comprised of members of the organization or were associated with the speakers.

However, some of the organizations represented by the speakers, especially the animal entertainment industry groups, were new to the PRUA seminars.

The speakers for the entertainment animal-use groups represented zoos, sea animal shows, and rodeos.

The day-long seminar began with opening remarks by organization founder and its executive director Kenneth Brandt and a panel discussion on current issues in agriculture, moderated by Dr. Lowell Wilson, with the Pennsylvania State University.

The panel consisted of Jane Alleman, for Raja Hill Farm, Marysville; Douglas Clemans, with Hatfield Quality Products; Dr. Stanley Curtis, with Penn State; and John Jamison, of Jamison Farms, in Latrobe.

That group was followed by a group discussing national political activities by animal rightists and by those seeking to protect those making a living through the use of animals practicing generally accepted husbandry.

In addition to those groups, other target topics and the speakers included Karl Brown, representing PRUA and Cynthia Boyer Blakeslee, a Leola attorney.

According to Blakeslee, who provided a good amount of detail, farmers are probably more at risk of liability than they may know.

Some of the comments made by those representing the entertainment industry of animal use were very similar, in that they said they don't understand why someone would think they don't provide the best of care for their animals, since many of them are extremely expensive and difficult to replace, retrain, etc.

They talked about the extreme of care and the types of training. They said that they don't train animals to perform acts which are unnatural to the physical structure or mobility of the animal, such as the bottle nose dolphins, etc.

KUBOTA FZ2100 TURNABOUT IS FAIR PLAY

With Kubota's FZ2100 Front Mower, equipped with Zero Diameter Turn (ZDT) and Auto Assist Differential (AAD) drive system, you can "turn about" and mow in all kinds of conditions with ease.

Equipped with a 20 HP, liquid cooled diesel engine and 4WD, Kubota's ZDT allows you to get into the tightest spaces and mow around trees, hedges, flower beds and other obstacles more precisely and in less time. The FZ2100 also comes with hydrostatic transmission and a 55 degree tilt deck for easy access and maintenance.

So, turn to a Kubota FZ2100 front mower for the power and manueverability you demand to handle your toughest jobs.

CARTER 1993

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

If I've said it once, I've said it a thousand times.

Milking time. Country music tunes keep time with the steady pulsation of eight milking machines and the roar of the vacuum pump and coolant compressors.

Commuter traffic reports interrupt the alternating country songs and commercial advertisements. A backup on Route 322 north out of Harrisburg. An accident at the Interstate-83 and Route 11 split at Camp Hill. Road work along the Route 30 by-pass around York.

"Boy, I'm glad I don't have to commute." If I've said it once, I've said it a thousand times.

Creeping along the Baltimore Beltway in a 10-mile backup of rush-hour traffic a few mornings ago, enroute to an early meeting, again reinforced my appreciation for farm living. Periodic frustration with years of droughts, long hours, a flat farm economy and ever-increasing regulations are balanced every day by the joy for a super-short commute to the job.

Still, despite the 50-steps or so between the house and the barns, "commuter delays" enroute are not unusual.

A regular slow-down at the beginning of the commute is frequent. That occurs when the dog, which wasn't outside the door a minute before, shows up just as I step off the porch. And he's already licking his chops in anticipation of a morning meal. Right now.

Pedestrian traffic can sometimes be a major problem.

The commute often comes to a complete halt when a pedestrian pack of a half-dozen cats comes dashing right in front of my "wheels." Once aligned in the flow of traffic, they tail-gate the rest of the way to the calf barn and crowd my parking place until breakfast is forthcoming at the cat-feteria.

Then there's the occasional incident of unexpected traffic. Generally this is the result of some high-spirited calf or heifer escaping and meeting you face to face on a blind turn around the corner of a building.

As it does for all commuters, travel becomes treacherous here during those inevitable periods of winter-weather icy conditions.

Located on rolling York County farmland, our farmstead sits at the bottom edge of a long, sloping hill. All travels around the buildings are over slopes of some degree.

Thus, The Farmer found me literally stranded in the perennial border one slippery morning some weeks ago. The border with its split-rail fence divides the lawn around the house from the blacktopped areas around the barns. And while the stretch from the house to the border was navigable with a little caution, I got halfway up the blacktop to the calf nursery and couldn't stand up on the grass-slick ice coating.

After teasing me about being stuck, he rescued me from my refuge among the stalks of dead chrysanthemums with a bag of anti-skid. It was either that or do my chores himsself!

While wintry weather causes such occasional delays, the commute back to the house in warm weather causes the longest tie-ups. Detours are a major culprit.

There's a detour around the flower beds, an alternate but much more scenic route put into heavy service in springtime when new greenery beckons. Bulbs pushing through the ground must be checked for progress, as well as the growth spurts of the various perennials reawakening to life.

Travel is also prone to delays caused by side trips to the pond, pauses to admire the first cheery dandelion blooms, and answering the mockingbird vocalizing from atop the electric transformer outside the dairy barn.

Our travels to work are made with neither warming heaters nor cooling air-conditioning. Also, no traffic lights, no need for rader detectors, no "nuts" behind the wheel weaving around us.

Boy, I'm glad I don't have to commute.

Teen Does Well In National Wool Contest

WAYNESBURG (Green Co.) — Melinda Kovac, 16, daughter of Michael and Linda Kovac of Trafford, was fifth runner-up in the junior division of the National Make It Yourself With Wool Competition held January 20-22 at Dallas, Texas. Melinda brought home 4 yards of wool from Woolrich Co., a $50 savings bond from the Continental Dorset Club, a Bond Knitting Machine, and yarn from the Jack Donavan Co. There were 37 contestants in this division.

To achieve this honor, Melinda won the Pennsylvania MIYWW junior division with her jacket-slack suit of a rust-burgandy wool that featured a fitted jacket with staggered points dipping below the waist at the center. To complete the ensemble, she also make a tweed wool/silk boucle oversized coat.

The judges, nationally prominent in various areas of the fashion industry, seemed to favor fashionable, casual styles that were suitable to the age and lifestyle of the contestant.

In Pennsylvania, the 1993-94 state contest for pre-teen, junior, senior, and adult divisions will be held in mid-November, with the district contests being held a few weeks prior to that. For information on the upcoming contest, contact Janet Mawhinney, RD #2, Box 141 D, Waynesburg, PA 15370.

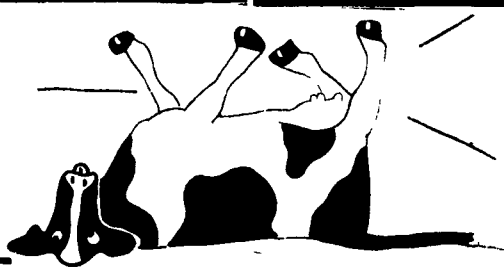
Ask For Ike



Hey! Folks

If your cows are slipping and falling, it ain't my fault because I have a machine called a Scabbler that will fix that concrete so your cows won't keep slipping all the time.

We've got service all around this section of the country, and I have a fellow just jumping to do your job mighty fast.

And that ain't all, our prices are right reasonable, and if you're a tightwad we'll let you do the job yourself if you've got over 500 square feet. It can save you right smart a money.

So call me on my nickel at 800-692-0123. If I'm not by the phone, some real live person will take your number, and I'll try to get back to you real soon. Usually somebody is awake in this outfit, so you just call any time day or night. But, please mind the Lord, and don't call on Sunday.

Just one more thing. We fellows make our living doing this kind of work, and we've got children to feed and bills. That's our side of it, but you've got such things too. A lot of people tell us that this Scabbling saves a whole lot more than it costs. So go ahead and do it. It'll put shoes on everybody's feet.

Be looking to hear from you folks right soon.

Jane Treichler Known As Expert Fastnacht Maker

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — For a few people, making fastnachts is an annual event on the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday, but for Jane Treichler, fastnacht making is enjoyed throughout the year. The expert fastnacht maker stirs up a batch whenever friends and family members request them.

Jolly and talkative, Jane's fingers fly as she rolls the dough and cuts the shapes with a custom-made cookie cutter. After the fastnachts double in size, Jane drops them in hot oil. When the first side is browned, she flips them over. When browned, she uses a large fork to remove them, drains off the oil, and lets them cool on a clean tablecloth.

As she works, Jane tells about growing up on a farm where she was the youngest in a family with eight girls and three boys.

"My mother baked three times a week to fill six shelves with pies. I liked to watch her make pies and often begged to help," Jane said.

But her mother brushed off Jane's offer by saying that she could do it faster.

One day Jane asked, "How will I be able to make pies when I get married if you never let me try it?"

Eventually, Jane was allowed to make the pies, but she never forgot the longing she had to bake at a young age.

"Now, whenever the grandchildren come, I get out the dishes and ask, 'What would you like to bake today?'" Jane said.

Usually the grandchildren, who range from age 5 to 14, ask to make shoo fly pies or rolled cookies.

With Jane's specific, easy-to-follow directions, the grandchildren do every step of the baking project and then take home the finished project for eating.

The fastnacht recipe is one that Jane adapted after watching her mother make many times.

She still cooks the potatoes for the dough, but she no longer fries them in lard.

"I use canola oil to fry them in because many people say they can't take the fat," Jane said.

Her mother had cut the fastnacht-shapes with a knife, but Jane had a custom tin cutter made.

"It's much faster," she said.

Speed is a quality that is vital in Jane's life, for she helps her husband milk the cows morning and evening.

"I rarely miss a day. I must be really sick or in the hospital before I wouldn't milk," she said.

When Jane married in 1952, she and her husband Feryl moved into the farm house where they still live. The house was completely furnished and newly remodeled by the man who owned it. He lived in the city and wanted the farm as a vacation spot. In exchange for maintaining the property and keeping a room available for his occasional visits, the Treichlers lived in the house rent free. Because the Treichlers wanted to dairy farm, the owner set the barn up for dairy. Four years later, the owner decided that he wasn't making any money off the farm so he sold it to the Treichlers.

The original farm was 48 acres, but over the years, the Treichlers purchased a neighboring farm and some land and now farm 500 acres. They milk 50 Holsteins and raise about 60 young stock and some feeder steers.

Most of the acreage is used for grain, which they sell.

Twenty years ago, the Treichlers built a free stall barn with a flat barn for milking.

The barn is now outdated. "We sweep down every day and my knees get stiff from getting up and down," Treichler said, "but I don't foresee putting in a new system. There are advantages to our barn. We don't need to use as much water as some operations because the cows are kept inside all day."

They also need to spread manure every day. "But we don't have the odors that guys do with a manure pit," he said. "I won't put a manure system in unless I'm forced to do so," he said.

The Treichlers use minimum tillage. Soil tests determine how many, if any, fertilizer is needed. Crops are rotated every three years and soil analysis is based upon rotation.

Although the farm appears to be secluded, it is within a short distance of a campground and of a 70-apartment complex.

Treichler puts forth a lot of effort not to irritate his neighbors. "I don't haul manure next to the campgrounds on weekends and I try to clean up anything that drops on the road. I take a rack along with me and clean up any fodder that spills," he said.

He wishes the public would be more considerate of the farmland. The Treichlers have problems with cars using their fields for race tracks and dumping trash in them. Much of the problem seems to be caused by students attending a nearby college.

One thing that Jane always desired was to have a job away from home. She said, "Because I was the youngest child, I was told I couldn't get a job away from home. My twin sister, could — because she was 5 minutes older than me."

Jane was expected to stay home and do the cleaning and laundry. When the Treichlers married, it was not considered proper for a wife to work outside the home, but after the Treichlers' two sons married and no longer lived at home, Jane begged her husband to let her get a job outside the home.

"My husband didn't like the idea at first," Jane said. "I guess I have him spoiled because the food is always ready."

Jane now cooks at the Leesport Auction one day a week.

"But I don't renege on my home responsibilities," Jane said. "I always make sure that I have plenty of lunch made ahead of time for them," she said. "Them" refers to Feryl and son Keith who lives nearby and works on the farm full time.

Jane also milks the cows before she goes to work and after she comes home.

Her love for natural beauty is evident by the 17 flower beds that she has planted around the barn and house.

"I weed them after supper," Jane said. In the winter, she pieces quilts.

She and her husband are active 25-year members of the Virginville Grange, where Jane has helped cook for more banquets and receptions than she can remember. She is in charge of the baked goods, and sometimes makes as many as 27 pie crusts at one time.

At county fairs, Jane has won prizes for her chiffon and lemon sponge cakes.

In 1971, The Treichlers were named Outstanding Young Farmer and in 1975, they were the Outstanding Farm Family. They are previous recipients of the community service award from Pennsylvania Young Farmers.

Jane Treichler

Jane is proud that in 1979, son Keith and his wife Sue were national grange couple runnerup.

Feryl is a township supervisor, treasurer of the Virginville Grange, and serves on the legislative committee of the Pocoma Grange. Both he and his wife are on the Reading Fair Board, and he is the emcee for the tractor pulling events at Kempton and Kutztown. Feryl and his son do lots of hunting for bear, deer, and turkey.

"We work hard to get away," said Feryl who with his son get up at 2 a.m. to milk, leave at 5 a.m. to hunt, and return at 5 p.m. to milk.

They are Atlantic Dairy Cooperative members with half of the red and white Holsteins and the other half black and white.

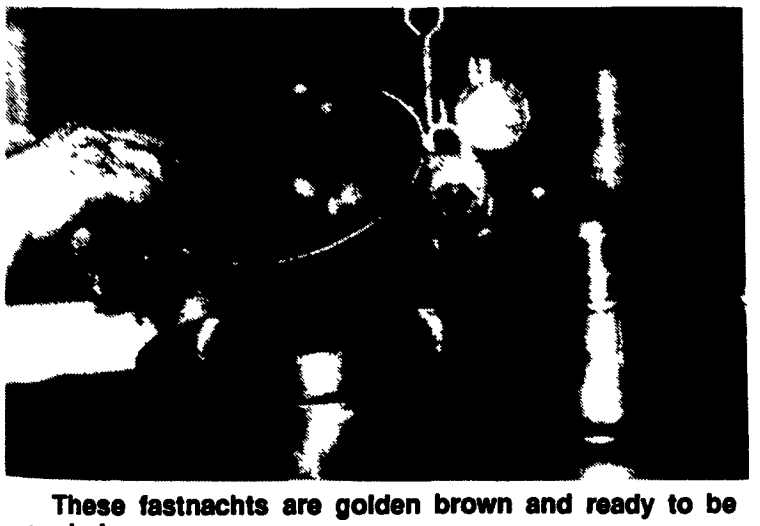
Although Jane works from sunup to sundown, she rarely feels tired. She said, "I was taught to work. I feel funny if I sit down and relax."

Jane thinks she has the best life around. She said, "I'm not jealous of anyone else who has a bigger or newer house. I like my home. I guess I'm really content because I like what I'm doing."

(Turn to Page B4)

Most people connect fastnachts with a once a year event, but Jane makes them throughout the year for family and friends who say hers are the best.

After many years of cutting the dough with a knife, Jane had a custom-made cookie cutter made, which makes the job easier and faster.



These fastnachts are golden brown and ready to be cooled.

Homestead Notes

Jane serves lunch everyday to her husband Feryl and son Keith, who works full time on the farm. On this day, grandson Brett joins the family for some of his grandmother's homemade barley soup.

Fastnacht Maker

JANE'S FASTNACHTS

Step 1:

2½ cups mashed potatoes, warm
5 egg yolks
1½ cups granulated sugar
2½ tablespoons yeast dissolved in 1½ cups warm water
1½ cups bread flour
5 egg whites, beaten stiffly

Cook potatoes until soft. Mash by hand; let some lumps remain. Combine yeast and water. Separate eggs; add sugar to egg yolks; stir in potatoes. When potato mixture is cool enough to touch, add yeast mixture. Add flour. Beat egg whites and fold into potato mixture. Let set about 1 hour.

Step 2:

½ cup margarine
1 cup butter
1½ cups granulated sugar
1½ cups potato water
1 teaspoon salt
10-11 cups flour

Combine butter, margarine, sugar, potato water, and salt. Combine with yeast mixture. Stir in flour gradually until dough is not too sticky to handle with hands but not too stiff either. Divide dough in half and place each half in a greased bowl. Let dough rise for 3 hours. Roll each half of dough to ½-inch thickness. Cut into squares. Place on flat surface to rise until doubled in size. Fry in 375 degree canola oil. Drain. Cool on tea towels. Makes 7 dozen.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

When I look at the calendar and realize February is almost gone, then I know that I had better prepare for spring. I've barely glanced at the many seed catalogs that arrive in our mailbox. Usually I try something new from the "Heirloom Catalog" that is put out by "The Landis Valley Museum." Other years I've tried their Mostoller wild goose bean, flax, citron melon, pennyroyal and Jobs tears.

But for now my days are filled with small jobs. I'll try a new apple-cranberry dessert or an unusual casserole. In the spring it is hard to find the time to experiment and so I simply cook the dish-es that I've made for years.

One job that takes time is mending rips in overalls and sewing buttons on coats, sweaters and shirts. And, I am ripping old woolen clothes to try and braid a new rug.

Writing letters is another time consuming occupation. In addition to this kind of writing, I recently went through my 1962 diary and wrote four pages of notes so that my son can compare his life when he was two to what his two-year-old son is now doing. The similarities are astounding. Things like pulling a wagon around the barn, getting in a negative mood, holding your hand when walking together and watching his father work at the barn. I was surprised to read that Bradley's favorite toy when he comes to our house is the same one that his father, Philip, got for Christmas when he was two. It is a metal barn with lots of plastic animals. I do not remember which child the toy belonged to.

Now I had better water my 110 houseplants as this afternoon I'll be helping to prepare a meal at our church for some 100 people. There is always something to keep me busy.

'Back To Bed' Features Quilt Exhibit

"Back To Bed" is this year's Quilters Heritage Celebration theme. "Back To Bed" features a remarkable exhibit of quilts displayed on beds of various designs as well as miniature quilts on miniature beds.

Fairfield Processing Corporation's annual fashion show/luncheon will be held on Friday, March 26 at 12 noon. "International Diamonds" features today's newest quilted, wearable art designed by quilt artists from America and 14 foreign countries. "International Diamonds" fashion show is presented by Fairfield Processing Corporation, makers of POLY-FIL brand polyester fiber products, commented by Donna Wilder.

Another special feature will be the first East Coast showing of Quilt National '91, which includes forty-five quilts created by artists from across the globe. This exhibit is produced and circulated by the Dairy Barn Southeastern Ohio Cultural Arts Center, Athens, Ohio.

Other special exhibits will include "Miniatures From the Heart," the Hoffman Challenge, the Silver Dollar Challenge and quilts from those teaching the many classes, lectures and demonstrations throughout the Celebration.

The Lancaster Host Resort and Conference Center is located east of Lancaster on Route 30.

Farm Wife Undergoes Liver Transplant

FRIENDS COVE (Beford Co.) — The Deputy family who represented Bedford County in the 1991 Lancaster Farming dairy issue, face astronomical medical expenses and emotional stress as Susan, wife of Edward Jr. and mother of three teen-age daughters, has undergone her third liver transplant at Presbyterian Hospital in Pittsburgh.

Hospitalized since mid-November, the Deputys are experiencing huge expenses and the community has banded together in a fund raising effort.

The Deputy family, Edward Sr., and their two sons, Ed Jr., and Richard, moved to Bedford County from Delaware in 1974.

All combined, the Deputys farm about 600 acres of Bedford County farmland and milk more than 180 Holsteins. They have an additional 150 young cattle.

Susan has helped on the farm and particularly enjoys a large garden in which she recently started her own strawberry patch.

The girls have been active in 4-H and St. John's United Church of Christ where Susan also sang in the choir and occasionally played the organ.

A fund raising turkey-ham dinner is being sponsored by the church on Saturday, February 27. Tickets are $7 for adults and $4 for children. Hours are 3 until 7 p.m. and advance tickets are required. They can be obtained by calling the church at (814) 623-8817.

Susan first developed symptoms of liver problems about ten years ago. Downhill progression caused her to be life-flighted to Pittsburgh in November.

A first transplant failed when several clots developed and a second transplant was required. In January, Susan was given a second transplant, but it was not successful. Doctors believe the liver may have been damaged in transport. At presstime, Susan was undergoing a third transplant and it is not known if it will be successfu.

While the family does have insurance, it is nearing the one million cap. In addition, expenses for medicine, telephone calls, and traveling back and forth to the hospital have become astronomical.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Society 4

Berks County Society of Farm Women Group 4 met at the Boyertown home of Evelyn Becker with 8 members answering roll call to, "Name a special day in February."

President Mary Fizz conducted the business meeting and reported on the State Convention in Harrisburg which she attended.

Berks Society 3

Group #3 of the Berks County Society of Farm Women held its January meeting at the home of Mary Hill, Boyertown. Eleven members were present.

Secret pal names were exchanged for 1993. Canned food items will be collected for the Greater Berks County Food Bank. The annual Spring Rally will be held on May 26 in Hagerstown, Maryland.

The next meeting will be at the home of Eleanor Bissinger, Boyertown. A driver's test video will be the program for the evening.

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women #20 met February 4 at the home of Valaria Ferguson at Unionville with Jane Ferguson as co-hostess. Following refreshments Jane had the devotions. For the program Rev. John Ferguson gave each member a dollar bill (not to keep, of course) and spoke on the different parts of it, Washington, the scales, the large letters to the left of Washington, the pyramid, "In God We Trust," etc. It was a very interesting program, for we handle dollars all the time but never take time to think of the meaning of the different sections.

The president, Nancy Axe, presided at the business meeting and prior to the reading of the minutes for the Roll Call each brought a Valentine gift and they were then divided among the three shut-ins. The Sunshine Committee reported 1 bouquet and 5 cards sent. Definite plans were made for the serving the luncheon for L. B. Herr & Co. October 21 was the date set for visiting at Conestoga View.

The president gave a report on the County Board Meeting she attended. The project is to help repair the Home Center. May 26 is the Spring Rally.

In March members will meet at the home of Vera Herr with Jean Ressel as co-hostess. Members will sew cancer pads and have a covered dish dinner.

Celebrate Cherry Month

George Washington's birthday is most often celebrated with cherry desserts in remembrance of his youth when he chopped down a cherry tree and then admitted it to his father because he could not tell a lie.

Doubtless the cherry industry has profited from this tidbit from Washington's childhood, but consumers too have reaped bountiful results. If it wasn't for George Washington, perhaps the luscious cherry desserts that abound during the month of February would never be printed and society would never have relized how much can be done with a small cherry.

Here are recipes from our readers. Some of the recipes were taken from the Schuylkill County Fair Cookbook. This 200 page cookbook contains wonderful recipes compiled by individuals who wanted to raise support of the Schuylkill Fair. The spiral-bound book is printed in large easy to read type.

For a copy of the cookbook, send $9.25, which covers postage and handling, to Helen Koch, R.D. #2, Box 18, New Ringgold, PA 17960. For more information, call Helen at (717) 943-2346.

¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup sugar

Drain cherries, reserving syrup. Sift together flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, baking powder and salt in a bowl. Cut in shortening; stir in milk. Roll dough to 12x6-inch rectangle. Mix ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter and cherries; spread over dough. Roll dough as for jelly roll; cut in 8 slices. Add enough water to reserved cherry syrup to equal 2 cups liquid. Mix cinnamon and ½ cup sugar in saucepan; stir in cherry liquid. Bring to a boil; add remaining butter. Pour syrup into baking pan; arrange cherry roll slices in pan. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes. Yield: 8 servings.

CHERRY COBBLER

1½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
¼ cup butter
½ cup milk
1 egg
1 pint cherries
1 tablespoon tapioca

Sift flour, measure, sift with baking powder, salt, and sugar.

Cut shortening into flour until mixture has consistency of very coarse cornmeal. In another bowl, add milk to beaten egg; stir in dry ingredients. Stir until well blended. Pour cherries, sweetened if desired, into a well greased shallow dish (2-quart size). Sprinkle tapioca over the top.

Drop the batter in 6 mounds over cherries. Bake 350 degrees for 45 minutes.

CHERRY CRUNCH

21-ounce can cherry pie filling
16½ ounce can pitted dark sweet cherries, drained
¾ cup Bisquick baking mix
½ cup chopped nuts
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ cup firm butter

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Mix pie filling and cherries in ungreased square baking dish. Spread evenly.

Mix baking mix, nuts, sugar, and cinnamon. Cut in butter until crumbly. Sprinkle over cherry mixture. Bake until brown, about 35 minutes. Serve with vanilla ice cream if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CHERRY CHEESE BARS

Crust:
1 cup walnut pieces, divided
1¼ cups all-purpose flour
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup butter flavored shortening
½ cup flaked coconut

Filling:
2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened
⅔ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla
21-ounce can cherry pie filling

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 13x9x2-inch pan with shortening. Chop ½ cup nuts coarsely for topping; chop remaining nuts finely.

Mix flour and brown sugar. Cut in shortening to form fine crumbs. Add ½ cup finely chopped nuts and coconut. Mix well. Remove ½ cup and set aside. Press remaining crumbs in bottom of pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 12 to 15 minutes.

Beat cream cheese, sugar, eggs, and vanilla in small bowl at medium speed until smooth. Spread over hot baked crust. Return to oven and bake 15 minutes. Remove and spread cherry filling over cheese layer. Combine reserved coarsely chopped nuts with reserved crumbs and sprinkle over cherries. Bake 15 minutes longer. Refrigerate at least 1 hour and cut into bars.

Dairy products are major contributors to Dental Health. In celebration of Dental Health Month, the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program offers several dental healthy recipes for children and adults. Dairy foods contribute many valuable nutrients, but for the teeth and gums, milk's calcium and phosphorus make teeth strong. Several hard cheeses, like cheddar, are also known to help prevent tooth decay.

The dairy industry offers several recipes that promote good nutrition and dental health. Share these meal and snack ideas with your family for better dental health.

ENERGY AND APPLIANCES

Replacing an old appliance with a new one can do more than enhance one's decor. With today's energy efficient models, it can save hundreds of dollars over the lifetime of the new appliance.

Some appliances, such as ranges and dryers, have always operated efficiently. Others, such as microwave ovens and trash compactors, use such little energy that savings on new models is minimal. But when it comes to refrigerators, washers and dishwashers, most 15 to 30 year old models can be classified as energy guzzlers compared to their newer versions. Savings in operating costs, along with the benefits of new design, technology and features, many make them good candidates for early replacement. For example, a refrigerator manufactured today uses about 47% of the energy that its 1972 counterpart consumes. For washing machines, the figure is about 28%, based on 8 cycles per week; for dishwashers, about 30%, based on 6.2 cycles per week. More big changes are in store for refrigerators and freezers manufactured after January 1, 1993. The Department of Energy has ruled that these newest models must improve their energy efficiency ratio to an average of 25% higher than present models.

To determine the true cost of a new appliance, consider the purchase price as only the down payment. Multiply the yearly cost of operating the appliance by its life expectancy and add this figure to the purchase price. To help consumers gauge the yearly cost, the Federal Trade Commission has developed rules for labeling appliance energy consumption. Look for the black, yellow and white EnergyGuide label in the form of a hangtag, flaptag or sticker. This label will display a single estimated annual cost figure based on "typical use."

To maintain energy savings, the new appliance should be used efficiently. Read and follow the manufacturer's recommendations. In addition, the new appliance should really replace the old one. If the old one is simply moved to a new location and used as a "spare," its high monthly operating expense continues.

Great Gardens Of The World Bloom At Philadelphia Flower Show

PHILADELPHIA (Philadelphia Co.) — Scotland's most beloved and beautiful historical gardens bloom en masse when The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society's 1993 Philadelphia Flower Show celebrates "Preserving the Past, Presenting the Future", March 7 - 14 at the Philadelphia Civic Center.

Enchanting treasures of the National Trust for Scotland are brought to life in the Show's 7,000 square-foot central feature display. Behold the "Lion Parterre" of The Great Garden at Pitmedden, an intricate tapestried maze of curving boxwood designs ablaze in yellow and blue flowers. Gaze up at the Garden's sculpted yew hedges, evergreen giants capped with topiary finials. As visitors round the massive cast stone walls, an intoxicating sight appears: the Garden of Crathes Castle. To the north, its sunny perennial border of hollyhocks, delphinium, and digitalis is canopied by a framed screen of espaliered apple trees and an abundant vegetable garden. To the south, a floral tribute to renowned Scottish plant collector, George Forrest provides a subdued contrast of pastel perennials and flowering shrubs. The exhibit traces Forrest's great Himalayan expeditions and horticultural findings, which have contributed mightily to the contemporary American landscape. The largest and most prestigious indoor flower show in the world beckons you on from past to future as 55 other major displays lead visitors through six acres of luxuriant rose gardens, leafy green glens, and an orchid paradise.

Delight in a flamboyant contemporary vista inspired by the celebrated works of Brazilian landscape designer, Roberto Burle Marx where an assortment of abstract sculpture lends energy and drama to a brilliantly colored spectrum of tropical plants. Visit a rainforest's 21st century biotech orchid laboratory on the cutting edge of plant tissue research. Catch a 3-D view of the gardening world beneath the soil and reflect on the ancestral beauty of an heirloom garden, which combines antique beauties with modern hybrids. From Legendary to Future Shock, the Philadelphia Flower Show showcases gardening styles, floral combinations and botanical gems to excite one and all.

More than 1700 entries of window boxes and bonsai, garden club landscapes depicting "The Royal Gardens", room settings, mammoth flower arrangements and others the size of thimbles, vie for the Show's coveted major awards in hundreds of artistic and horticultural categories. Free lectures and demonstrations on gardening, flower arranging and photography are held daily in the Civic Center's Pennsylvania Hall. One hundred vendors offer everything for the garden plus birdbaths, handmade baskets, and cut flowers in the Show's Marketplace.

The Philadelphia Flower Show is a mecca of gardening treasures and it is more:

Revenues generated by the Show help support the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society's self-help greening program, Philadelphia Green, the largest comprehensive community gardening program in the nation. The Society is pleased to announce the generous support of PNC Bank as presenting sponsor of the 1993 Philadelphia Flower Show. PNC's contributions to the Show will help further the Society's goal of providing educational and technical assistance to more than 700 community groups throughout the City. Revenues also support the Society's efforts to revitalize and restore Philadelphia's gateways and central green spaces through landscaping and horticultural maintenance.

The Philadelphia Flower Show will be held March 7 - 14, 1993 at the Philadelphia Civic Center, 34th Street and Civic Center Boulevard, Philadelphia, PA 19104. Show hours are Sunday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the door, $11.50 for adults; $5.75 for children under 12. Group tickets are available in advance from the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, 325 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, PA 19106-2777. QUESTION — B.D. Hutschenreuter, Airville, would like a recipe to make a spice similar to Spatina.

QUESTION — Shirley Martin, Orbisonia, would like a recipe for cup cheese and other good cheese recipes.

QUESTION — This is not a question pertaining to cooking, but Hank and Shirley Schwoerer, Wysox, thought some of our readers might know how to help them. The Schwoerers are senior citizens, but when Hank was young, his parents gave him a spring tonic, which had sulfur and molasses in it. Does anyone know the proportions and the type of sulfur used?

QUESTION — Kathryn Robson, Lebanon, would like recipes for leftover dough. She remembers her grandmother used the dough to make milk pie and moshee pie (she is uncertain of the spelling but it had a molasses base. Both pies were small, delicious, and fattening.

QUESTION — Mrs. John Tobey, Millerton, would like a recipe for pumpkin butter.

QUESTION — Nancy Price, Jarrettsville, Md., would like recipes for non-fat or low-fat desserts and those using sugar substitutes.

QUESTION — Theresa Schwantz, Glen Mills, would like recipes for candy using rice or wheat puffed cereal, which is formed into balls.

QUESTION — Trudy Brubacker, Mt. Pleasant Mills, received a heirloom cheese press made by her brother-in-law. She would like some good recipes and tips for using it.

QUESTION — Tammy Forbes of Lancaster, N.H., would like recipes for a non-fat, low-cal French salad dressing and other salad dressings.

QUESTION — Mae Pugh would like a recipe for chicken rice soup like that served at Ponderosa.

QUESTION — Ivamae Love, East Waterford, would like a recipe for vegetable pizza.

QUESTION — Willard Hooker, Abingdon, would like a recipe for a good sweet pickle and for dill pickles. The recipe should be fairly simple and the pickles should not turn out soggy.

QUESTION — Carol Grove, Sommerville, Va., would like a cake recipe using applesauce in place of vegetable oil.

QUESTION — Carol Grove, Sommerville, Va., would like recipes using basic cookie mix.

QUESTION — Mrs. Kenneth Ulmer, Waymart, wants a recipe to can a mixture of mushrooms, onions, green peppers, and oil in pint jars.

ANSWER — Norma Eckard, Hanover, requested a recipe for onion bread, which uses yeast and is soft and moist in texture. Thanks to Connie Weaner, Gettysburg, for sending a recipe that she uses in a bread machine but can be made by hand.

California Dip Bread

1 package yeast
3⅓ cups flour
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 egg
¾ cup cottage cheese
¾ cup sour cream
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoons butter
¼ cup water
1 envelope onion soup mix

Soften the yeast in water. Combine ingredients and knead for 10 minutes. Let rise, punch down, and separate dough in half. Place in two loaf pans. Let rise. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes.

ANSWER — Lynette Keaton, Accord, N.Y., wanted a recipe to make cornbeef from venison. Thanks to Annie Martin, Port Treverton, for sending a recipe.

Corned Venison Or Beef

50 pounds venison (any cuts)
3 quarts salt

Place meat in a large container, add salt in alternate layers. Let stand overnight. Rinse off salt in morning and place meat in container again. Make a brine of the following:

¼ pound baking soda
¼ pound saltpeter
2 pounds brown sugar
4 tablespoons liquid smoke

Add enough water to cover meat. Let meat sit in brine for 6 weeks or until ready to use. Keeps in brine up to 3 months without spoiling.

ANSWER — Jane Heckman, Effort, wanted a recipe for a white cake that has sour cream in the batter and swirls of thick chocolate. Thanks to Gladys Case, Three Bridges, N.J., and to Louise Metzger, Linden, for sending recipes.

Husband's Delight

¼ pound butter
¼ pound butter
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1 pint sour cream
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
2 teaspoons vanilla
12 ounces chocolate bits

Mix together ingredients except chocolate bits. Melt chocolate bits with ½ cup water. Pour half of batter into prepared 9x13-inch pan. Drop spoonfuls of half of the chocolate mixture over batter.

Swirl and repeat with remaining batter and remaining chocolate mixture. Bake 50 to 60 minutes at 350 degrees.

Fudge Ribbon Cake

2 tablespoons plus ½ cup butter
8 ounces cream cheese
2¼ cups sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
3 eggs
2 tablespoons plus 1⅓ cups milk
1½ teaspoons vanilla
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
4 squares chocolate, melted

Cream 2 tablespoons butter with cream cheese. Mix ¼ cup sugar with 1 tablespoon cornstarch and add to cream cheese mixture. Add 1 egg, 2 tablespoons milk, and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat until smooth and creamy. Set aside.

In the big bowl, combine 2 cups flour with 2 cups sugar, salt, baking powder, and baking soda. Add ½ cup butter and 1 cup milk. Blend well and add ⅓ cup milk, 2 eggs, and melted chocolate and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Spread half of the batter in greased oblong cake pan. Spoon cheese mixture over it spreading to cover. Top with remaining batter. Spread to cover. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes.

Frosting For Ribbon Fudge Cake:

¼ cup milk
¼ cup butter
1 cup chocolate chips
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups confectioners' sugar

Combine milk and butter in saucepan. Bring to a boil. Stir in chocolate chipes, vanilla, and confectioners' sugar. Beat until spreading consistency. Spread on cake.

SOUR CHERRY SYRUP

2 pounds sugar
2-3 cups water
1 pound sour cherries
¼ teapsoons vanilla extract

Use only a porcelain or enamel pan. Boil the sugar and water together for 15 to 20 minutes. Add the sour cherries and boil gently another 20 to 30 minutes or until the syrup thickens. Strain the liquids through a cheese cloth into a bowl; squeeze the cherries to extract all the liquids; add to the vanilla extract. Bottle and refrigerate until ready to use. May be used on top of waffles and pancakes.

PUNCH BOWL CAKE

18-ounce yellow cake mix, bake and cool
21-ounce can cherry pie filling
6 ounce package instant pudding (vanilla or chocolate) prepared according to directions 20-ounce can crushed pineapples, drained
2 bananas, sliced
16-ounces whipped topping

Crumble cake. Layer half of crumbs in a punch bowl.

Top with ½ each of pie filling, pudding, pineapple, bananas, and topping.

Repeat using remaining half of ingredients.

Garnish with coconut, pecans, and chopped cherries, as desired.

Refrigerate until ready to serve. Serves 12-15.

Louise Julius

CHERRY CARAMEL RING

¼ cup butter
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons light corn syrup
½ cup pecan halves
¼ cup maraschino cherries, quartered
10-ounce package refrigerated buttermilk biscuits

Melt butter in 8-inch round baking dish. Sprinkle sugar over butter and add corn syrup. Stir well with fork. Place drinking glass, open side up, in center of dish. Sprinkle pecans and cherries over mixture. Arrange biscuits over mixture in dish in petal shape, squeezing to fit if necessary. Microwave at medium heat for 6 to 8 minutes. Remove glass and invert over serving plate. Let stand a few minutes so remaining syrup may drizzle over rolls. Serve warm.

Farm Wife Chosen As Best Pot Pie Maker

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Every Saturday night during Ruth Wanner's growing up years, pot pie was served at her home.

"I never got tired of it," said Ruth, who watched her mother and grandmother dump in a little of this and a pinch of that.

When Ruth married David Wanner, she started cooking pot pie by the dump and pinch method also. As the Wanners added four children to the family, Ruth perfected the pot pie to the point that friends and family absolutely insist that she bring pot pie whenever there is a covered dish meal at Grange, church, or family functions.

"They always tell me, 'you have the best pot pie ever,'" Ruth said of her acquaintances.

Well, those folks know good pot pie when they taste it, for at the Pennfield Farms Chicken Pot Pie Cook-Off held Monday, seven judges agreed that Ruth's pot pie was the best.

"As soon as we (the judges) tasted it, we knew it was a winner," said C.S. Keys of WGAL-TV, a judge for the contest that attracted hundreds of bystanders.

Another judge, Betty Groff, cookbook author and owner of Groff's Farm Restaurant, agreed. "It wasn't too doughy. It was light. The taste and texture were just right."

Ruth said that she entered the contest at the urging of her ousin. Because Ruth needed to submit a recipe with exact measurements, it took her half a day to figure out exactly how much of each ingredient she was using in her dump and pinch method.

The Wanners moved recently from Narvon to Sandy Hill, where they put up a free stall milking parlor for 83 cows. Ruth helps with the cows and is working toward establishing a fruit and vegetable market. She planted 800 strawberry plants, which she estimates has multiplied to 8,000 plants that she and her family will pick to sell.

For her first-place win, Ruth received $300.

Second place and $150 went to Roberta Householder of Lancaster. She entered the contest at the insistance of her husband Marlin. In 1969, she entered her pot pie recipe in a newspaper contest. Although she won first prize in the Pennsylvania Dutch category, Roberta said that she changed the pot pie slightly for this contest.

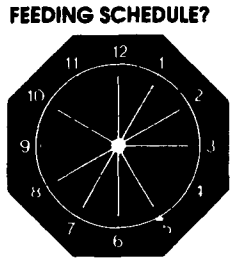
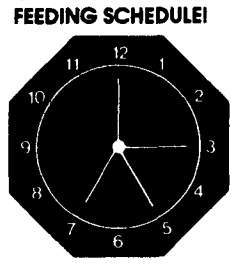
DRAG AUGER FEEDING SCHEDULE?



BIG DUTCHMAN CHAIN FEEDER FEEDING SCHEDULE!



How often do your feeders run in a day? It is generally necessary to operate drag auger feeders as many as eight or more times per day because of limited feeding space and the small quantity of feed presented at one time. That creates tremendous competition for the little feed available. The result of this competition is damaged eggs... from feet, toes and collisions. Big Dutchman chain feeders can feed your flock by running as few as three or four times a day, with little competition for feed, a calmer flock and fewer cracks and checks more than four times a day or during peak laying periods, call 911 for your egg casualties or. . . call (717) 393-5807 for information on how our chain feeder pampers your product. . . from cage to carton.

Border Collie Works With Penn State Sheep

LINDA L. SMITH
Animal Science

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Rocky has worked at Penn State for nearly three months, and he loves every minute of it. He was able to avoid the interview process altogether and has absolutely no interest in a retirement plan. And instead of a paycheck, Rocky gets on-campus housing and free meals. When he's not actually working, he naps, plays Frisbee with the students, or just hangs out.

Known to his friends and coworkers as "Rock," this Penn Stater is a four-year-old purebred Border Collie born in Scotland. When local residents George and Margaret Downsborough decided to move from their township farm last fall, they felt Rock would be happier doing what he loves to do — working with sheep. So they donated the dog to Penn State, and he now resides at the Department of Dairy and Animal Science's Sheep Center.

"Rock's direct descendents go back to superior international breeding stock in Perth, Scotland," says Dick Kuzemchak, sheep flock manager. Breeding sharpened the Border Collie's herding instinct, the desire to stalk its prey. This makes the Border Collie perfect for working with sheep, cattle, and even poultry.

Ward Studebaker, the department's horse herd manager, is helping Kuzemchak and Rock learn to work with one another. He remembers his dad's Border Collie catching a chicken for Sunday dinner. "Dad would point to a chicken and, even if the bird ran into the middle of the flock, Scotty could pick it out and take it to Dad," he says.

"Rock is friendly, gentle, quiet, obedient, and keen on working the sheep," says Studebaker. But it's going to take some work to get Rock used to working Penn State sheep. Sheep at the Downsboroughs' were used to Rock and didn't challenge him. The University's sheep have never been worked by a dog, so they tend to be more resistant. The only canines these sheep have seen are dogs who occasionally wander into the pasture with mischief in mind." Standing up to them will come quickly to Rock, according to Studebaker. "It just takes a little work each day and lots of encouragement," he says.

Because his own children boarded their sheep at the Downsborough farm, Kuzemchak and Rock have been friends since the dog was a puppy. But now, Kuzemchak has to get used to depending on Rock in a working relationship. "Sometimes I find myself doing things the old way out of habit, and then I remember that Rock can help me move and hold sheep," he says. "Using a dog to manage the sheep requires fewer people and pens. Rock and I can often do what used to take three or four people."

In a recent demonstration, Kuzemchak put Rock through his paces. There is no question that this dog loves working the sheep. As the pair moved into the open pasture and approached the distant flock, Rock used every bit of restraint he could muster to avoid rushing the sheep. When his approach was too enthusiastic, Kuzemchak said only, "There, Rock," and the dog stopped and waited for the next command. As they moved along together, Kuzemchak whistled or used short one- or two-word commands, and Rock immediately responded.

The newest addition to Penn State's Sheep Center — a 4-year-old Border Collie named Rock — works the sheep.

"Come by, Rock," says Kuzemchak, sending Rock out clockwise to bring the sheep back to him. (To move the sheep counterclockwise, Kuzemchak uses a "way to me" command.) Rock makes a wide swath, moving out near the fence line to make sure all the sheep are together and none have been left behind. As Rock comes in behind the flock and begins moving them in Kuzemchak's direction, the shepherd occasionally shouts "easy," or "walk in, Rock," signaling the dog to bring the sheep to him, but not so quickly that they begin to scatter. When the sheep line up a just a few feet in front of him, Kuzemchak gives the command, "down." Rock drops to all fours while Kuzemchak looks over the flock.

"I can get much closer to the animals with Rock's help," he explains. "They would rather move closer to me to avoid the dog, which lets me check each animal for injury or illness." This would take much more time and effort without Rock's help, requiring several people and a series of pens to get near the sheep. Rock fidgets, eager to once again move the sheep, but he never takes his eyes away from his charges. Border Collies can communicate with the sheep without ever barking, relying on body language and eye contact to manipulate and control the animals.

All of Rock's commands have equivalent whistles, used when the dog must work at a distance. But Studebaker noticed that when he tried whistling, Rock seemed confused. When a friend in Scotland sent him a recording of Scottish whistles, he realized the whistles they used were slightly different from those used in the United States.

Gaelic phrases used with Border Collies in Scotland are also somewhat different from those used here. For instance, our "way to me" is the equivalent of the Gaelic, "quay to me," and our "down" sounds much like their "doon." These subtle differences may create a period of adjustment for Rock, but he's working hard.

As the sheep once again turn and move away from the pair, Kuzemchak says, "That'll do," and Rock heads for the University's familiar blue pick-up truck. Back at the sheep center, he runs ahead, tail wagging, head high, as Kuzemchak conducts a tour and shows where Rock eats and sleeps. The dog stops to greet a few resident cats and occasionally waits for Kuzemchak to catch up.

As a student at Penn State many years ago, Kuzemchak studied and worked with Carroll Shaffner, who served from 1950 through his retirement in 1971, first as an assistant in animal husbandry, then superintendent in sheep, and finally as shepherd. Shaffner was an avid breeder, trainer, and user of Border Collies. Not since his retirement has the University enjoyed the benefit of a dog as fine as Rock.

Best Pot Pie Maker

Third place and $75 went to Thomas Standish of Lititz. It was his first contest, but Standish has lots of experience cooking the dish for family and friends.

"I've done it so often, it's like second nature," he said.

Standish had always enjoyed his grandmother's pot pie. With her advancing age, Standish knew that he would need to learn to make the pot pie if he wanted to continue to enjoy it. After his grandmother taught him to make pot pie, Standish adapted it a bit to his own tastes. Standish said that his wife Debbie is an excellent cook, but she, and the couple's two children, often beg him to make pot pie and chili.

The six contestants at the cook off were chosen from 27 entries. The contestants prepared their specialties at at the Lancaster Host Resort while Spring Glen Fresh Foods served pot pie, chow chow, and other Pennsylvania Dutch specialties to those who watched the contest. The crowd also sampled two varieties of chicken patties marketed by Pennfield Farms, which also gave numerous chicken cookbooks as door prizes.

In addition to Keys and Groff, other judges were Robert Fenninger, executive manager of Log Cabin Restaurant; Sue Long, editor of Lancaster County Magazine; Mindy Rottmund, home economist for Pennfield Farms; Lancaster Mayor Janice Stork; and Vesta Watt, assistant kitchen manager at Bird-in-Hand Family Restaurant.

The cook-off was part of the Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival activities held February 15-20. Other events included tours of bread and breakfast inns, food producing plants, farmers markets, and restaurant food demonstrations.

CHICKEN POT PIE
First-place winner

2 whole broiler-fryer chickens
4-5 stalks celery
Pinch saffron
4 cups flour
4 large eggs
½ cup cold water
1 packet Washington's Golden Seasoning and Broth
Salt to taste (1 to 3 teaspoons)
¼ -½ teaspoon pepper
1-2 tablespoons chopped parsley, fresh or dried
6 to 8 potatoes peeled and quartered

Wash chicken and celery, place in large cooking kettle (12-quart), cover chicken with water and cook on high until water begins to boil. Reduce to medium heat and cook until chicken is tender, about 45 to 60 minutes. Remove chicken from broth and cool, strain broth and return to washed kettle; add salt, pepper, and seasoning packet. If necessary, add more water so kettle is ¾ full, bring to boil and add potatoes.

While broth comes to a boil, mix dough. With fork, combine flour and eggs; add water to make a soft dough. Divide dough into 4 equal parts, roll on well-floured board, divide into 4 equal parts rolled on well-floured board, cut into desired pieces, drop into boiling broth, one piece at a time, stir after each addition to keep dough from sticking together; add parsley and add chicken pieces last. Cover and simmer for 30 to 40 minutes, stir occasionally to keep pot pie from sticking to the bottom of kettle.

CHICKEN POT PIE
Second-place winner

5-quart kettle or larger
1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts
2½ quarts water
2 teaspoons salt
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs
2½ tablespoons water (enough to make the dough stay together)
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 large potato, sliced in ¼ -inch slices
1 large onion, chopped
¼ pound margarine

Put chicken parts in kettle. Add water and bring to a boil. Add 2 teaspoons salt. cook on medium low heat 1 hour or until chicken is tender and can be removed from bones. Remove chicken from kettle. Save the broth in which chicken was cooked. Remove chicken from bones and set aside. Combine flour and 1 teaspoon salt in a large bowl. Add 3 eggs and mix well with table fork. Add 2½ tablespoons cold water and stir to make dough stay together.

Dust rolling space, rolling pin, and hands with flour. Roll dough ¼ -inch thick. Cut dough in 2-inch squares. Return chicken broth to boiling point. Alternately put dough squares and potatoes into chicken broth. Add chopped parsley and chopped onion. Add ¼ pound margarine. Cook 20 minutes. Add chicken that has been removed from bones. Cook 10 minutes more.

Pennfield FARMS
THE Right CHICKEN

TOM'S CHICKEN POT PIE
Third-place winner

Broth:
4 chicken breasts
2 15-ounce cans sliced white potatoes
1 large carrot
5 14-ounce cans chicken broth
¼ pound butter
Dash saffron
1 tablespoon dry parsley flakes
½ teaspoon ground pepper
1 teaspoon Accent
½ teaspoon poultry seasoning

Pot Pie Noodles:
2½ cups flour
3 large eggs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder

Rinse chicken and lightly salt, pepper, and coat entire breast in flour.

Melt ¼ pound butter in 6-quart pressure cooker and brown breast lightly. Cover and cook for 25 minutes.

While cooking, make the dough as follows:

Sift flour into large bowl. Add eggs, salt, baking powder, and 2 tablespoons water. If necessary, add more water to achieved desired consistency for rolling. Mix thoroughly. Roll to desired thickness. Lightly cover entire surface of rolled dough with soft butter before cutting. Cut into approximately 1½ -inch squares.

Complete pot pie as follows:

Remove all bones, cartilage, and skin; set aside to cool. Strain all broth and place back in pressure cooker. Heat broth until bubbling. Begin to add the following to the broth: potatoes, boned chicken cut in chunks, and sliced carrot, and pot pie dough piece by piece, stirring occasionally. Add accent, poultry seasonings, parsley flakes, saffron for color, and ground pepper.

Cook slowly for 75 minutes. Stir often and keep dough in motion and below broth surface. Add additional canned broth to achieve desired consistency.

Big Money In Llamas, Ostriches, Deer?

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — The popular press, financial magazines, and many television programs promote the raising of alternative livestock as a big money business. It is seen as attractive because it usually requires little space, has the potential for a several hundred percent return on investment each year, and involves the seemingly pleasurable task of keeping interesting animals.

There is a growing interest and many people have taken the option and have entered these specialty livestock enterprises. Some have been extremely successful and others have lost everything. When a single breeding pair of some of these animals costs upwards of $50,000, potential investors need to be cautious.

Anyone considering getting into this business needs to study the laws and regulations affecting the species they are interested in. They need to determine where they can market their animals and what they realistically can expect to receive. It is important to know what kind of housing and fencing and feed and care each choice requires. The question is — where do interested investors find this information?

In response to growing demands for this information, Penn State University and Rutgers University Extension have organized a two-day conference and tour for people wanting to learn more. The Mid-Atlantic Alternative Animal Conference and Tour will be held March 12 and 13 in Allentown, Pa. The theme for this year is "How to Win theGame."

The program will include owners of exotic species, university specialists, and game farm operators. Numerous workshops participants can choose from include Llamas, Elk, Deer, Ostriches, Goats, Game Birds, Angora Rabbits, Cavies, Pot Bellied Pigs, Buffalo, Scottish Highlander Cattle, and others.

Topics will include laws, care, feeding, marketing, and most importantly, financial breakdown on various alternatives. A behind-the-fences tour with handlers will be held as part of the confernece at the Lehigh County Game Preserve where most of the included species are cared for. A taste sampling of some of the meats of these animals is included.

Cost for the two days is $35. Registration material and detailed information on the conference can be obtained by contacting the chairman, Duane Stevenson, at Penn State Extension, RR 4, Nazareth, PA 18064-9212, (215) 746-1970. A directory of alternative animal breeders and suppliers will be included with the conference materials.

Four-year-old Millie Herr talks with the Pennfield chicken during her visit to the Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival. Millie is the daughter of Raymond and Brenda Herr of Baltimore, Md.

Dutch Food Celebration

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — During the past week, the Pennsylvania Dutch Festival highlighted the agricultural heritage of the county and the many ways food adds fun to visits here.

The celebration coincided with the announcement that Pennsylvania Dutch Fare is "in for 1993."

Editors of Cooking Light magazine view recent societal trends towards creating more family time and a return to "scratch" cooking as contributing factors to the popularity of Pennsylvania Dutch cooking.

Mary Rankin, public relations specialist for Pennsylvania Dutch Convention and Visitors Bureau, said that it is not surprising that Pennsylvania Dutch food is predicted to be "in" food.

She said, "While viewed in some corners as heavy, the food is wholesome. It relies on fresh, non-processed ingredients. The recipes are down-to-earth, relying on recipes handed down from generation to generation as an expression of love for family."

Visitors from near and far tasted Pennsylvania Dutch specialties at the many different sites during the festival. An array of Amish foods such as grape mush, creamed celery, whoopie pies, homemade root beer, banana pickles, pickled watermelon rind, chow chow, stuffed peppers, corn relish, and spiced canteloupes were available for tasting at the Country Market in Intercourse. Donations for the food benefitted the Lancaster Farmland Trust, an organization dedicated to saving farmland.

New York tourists Ronnie and Steve Cohen with daughters, Joanne, 9, and Sara, 7, taste Pennsylvania Dutch foods at the Country Market, Intercourse. At first, the family was hesitant to taste the creamed celery, but it turned out to be one of their favorites along with corn relish. The girls prefer whoopie pies and peaches.

Cook's Question

ANSWER — A reader wanted recipes using butterscotch morsels. Thanks to Ivamae Love, East Waterford, and others for sending recipes.

Butterscotch Brownies

Cream together:
- ½ cup peanut butter
- 1½ cups sugar
- ½ cup butter
- 3 eggs
- ½ teaspoon salt

Add:
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 6 ounces butterscotch morsels

Pour into oblong pan and bake at 350 degrees for 35 minutes.

Hopscotch
- 12 ounces butterscotch morsels
- 1 cup peanut butter
- 4 cups mini marshmallows
- 5-ounce can chow mein noodles

Melt butterscotch morsels. Stir in peanut butter. In bowl, mix marshmallows and noodles then stir in butterscotch mixture. Mix well. Drop from spoon onto wax paper. Chill.

ANSWER — Linda Horning, Narvon, wanted a recipe for crab cakes. Thanks to Janice Witmer, Carlisle, for sending a recipe that is well liked by her family.

Crab Cakes
- 1 pound canned crab meat
- 1 medium onion, chopped fine
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Butter to saute onion
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 tablespoon parsley
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup cracker crumbs

Saute onion in butter. Beat 1 egg and add crabmeat, onions, mustard, salt and pepper, celery seed and parsley. Add enough cracker crumbs to form cakes. Beat the other egg and dip the cakes in the egg. Roll in cracker crumbs. Fry slowly in oil.

JOHN DEERE 750 DRILL

Great stands in less-than-great conditions

From opening a seed trench to firming soil around seed, nothing else handles residue or seed like the John Deere 750 Drill.

New "active" hydraulics load each single-disk opener with up to 450 pounds of down-pressure to slice through heavy cover. Plus, there's a full two feet of ground clearance for great trash flow.

Seed placement is precise. That's because depth gauging is done at the point where the seed is placed in the ground. The depth you set is the depth you get.

To achieve excellent seed-to-soil contact, a semi-pneumatic press wheel gently firms the seed into the bottom of the furrow. A cast-iron closing wheel finishes the job, crumbling the furrow wall to cover the seed. The result is even emergence – even in the ugliest conditions.

From opening to closing, the 750 Drill is the great way to seed no-till, minimum-till, or conventional-till fields. Just ask a neighbor who owns one.

ebrated During Festival

Francis Martin of Spring Glen Fresh Foods serves chicken pot pie to those who attended the Pot Pie Cook-off held during the Lancaster County Food Festival.

As part of the Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival, Pennfield Farms served samples of country herb chicken patties.

ANSWER — B.D. Hutschenreuter, Airville, wanted recipes for bread or cake baked in a large mouth mason jar. Thanks to Ginny Eaton, Ontario, N.Y. and Sue Reall of W.V. for sending recipes.

Jarred Pumpkin Cake

⅔ cup shortening
2⅔ cups sugar
4 eggs
2 cups pumpkin
⅔ cup water
3⅓ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon ground cloves
½ teaspoon allspice
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup chopped nuts (walnuts are good)

Use 8 wide mouth pint jars with lids and rings. Grease the jars well.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream together shortening and sugar. Beat in eggs, pumpkin, and water. Set aside. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, ground cloves, allspice, cinnamon, and baking soda. Add to pumpkin mixture. Mix well and stir in nuts.

Pour batter into jars until half full. Place jars on cookie or baking sheet. Bake for 45 minutes. Cake will rise and pull away from side of jar. When done, remove one jar at a time from oven. Wipe clean the sealing edge of jar, place lid on jar and close tightly with the ring. Turn jar upside down. Cake will loosen at this time. Leave jars upside down until all are sealed.

To serve: open jar and remove cake, warm cake in microwave or conventional oven, slice and serve with whipped cream.

Bread In A Jar

6 wide mouth, pint-size canning jars with new metal lids
2⅔ cups sugar
⅔ cup vegetable shortening
4 eggs
⅔ cup water
3½ cups all-purpose flour
2 cups fruit (see variations)
¼ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ to 1 cup raisins or nuts (dredge in flour)

Be sure to use canning jars not recycled jars. Be sure to sterilize jars, disc tops and rings according to manufacturer's directions. Grease the inside but not the rims of the 6 jars.

Prepare bread batter. Pour into prepared jars 1 full measured cup of batter. Do not be tempted to use more than 1 cup batter, even if you have just a smidgen left over as the cake will overflow the jar and not seal.

Place open jars evenly spaced apart for browning on a cookie sheet. Place in preheated 325 degree oven. Bake about 45 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean.

Remove jars, one at a time, using potholders as the jars are very hot. Leave the other jars in the oven but work quickly. Wipe the rim top. Place themetal disc top in place, then twist on screw ring to secure. You will hear it seal with a ping. Open the oven, take out one more jar and repeat.

Variations: You may choose from this list, combine, or come up with your own ideas, as long as you do not exceed 2 cups.

2 cups grated apple
2 cups mashed banana
1½ cups applesauce and ¼ cup pineapple
1 cup grated zucchini
2 cups shredded carrots
1 cup canned cranberries.

To make the batter: Cream together sugar and shortening. Beat in eggs and water. Add the fruit. Sift together flour, cloves, cinnamon, baking powder, baking soda, and salt. Add to the batter. If desired, add raisins and nuts and mix. Bake as directed above.

It is possible that the bread will stay good for a year, but food safety experts recommend keeping the jars in the refrigerator and checking for signs of mold before eating.

20 ACRE HORSE FARM

FRIDAY,
MARCH 12, 1993

10:00 AM

Located along Myers Road in Codorus Township, York County, PA.

If you are interested in a horse farm where you can professionally care for horses this is it. A 5 year old 60'x100' Bonanza building is fully equipped with water, telephone and Mercury Vapor lighting. This indoor training facility sits adjacent to a 16 stall barn that also has utilities as well as tack room and hay storage. The stream fed pasture has 4 board fencing as well as wind shelters. There is a 30'x80' shop, insulated with utlities, office room and it has a separate 200 amp electric service. (Fantastic workshop) hundreds of additional under roof storage.

After the work is finished relax in the cozy country home of wood & fieldstone. The home is very well kept less than 10 years old. There is a wood stove for cold winter nights and a porch for hot summer nights. Here is an affordable opportunity for someone. Come take a look. For appointment call owners or auctioneer.

Terms: 10% down day of auction, balance in 45 days.

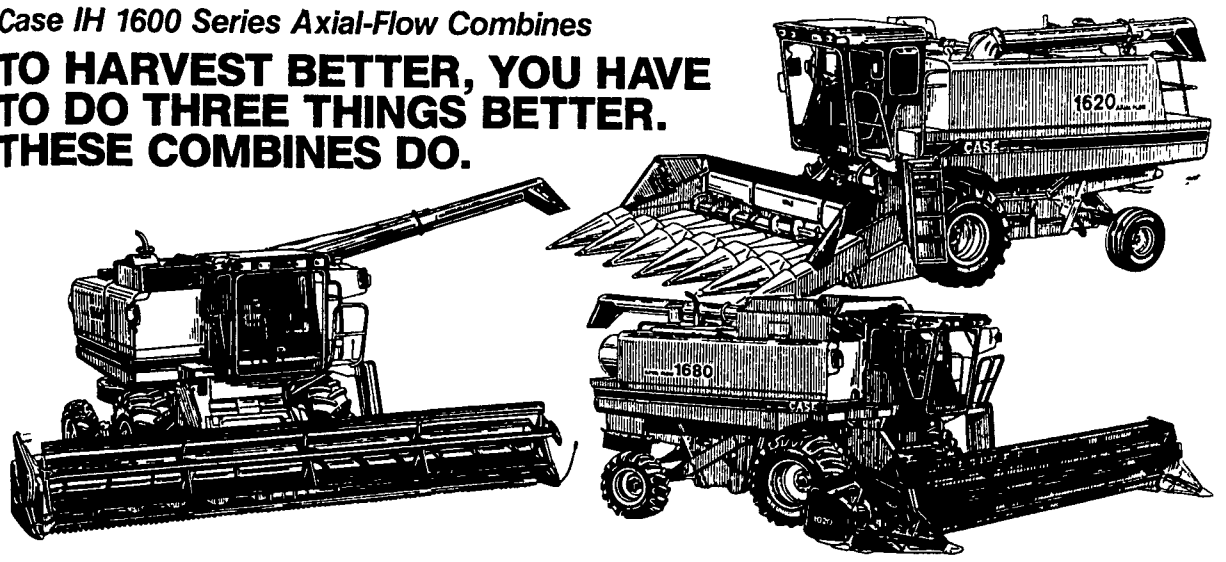
Case IH 1600 Series Axial-Flow Combines

TO HARVEST BETTER, YOU HAVE TO DO THREE THINGS BETTER. THESE COMBINES DO.



CHOOSE THE MODEL SIZED TO YOUR ACREAGE.

- 1620: A 124-hp unit, with 125-bushel tank, it's an efficient performer for small to moderate acreages.
- 1640: Rated at 150 hp, carrying a 145-bushel tank, it performs on the upper edge of its mid-sized rating.
- 1660: Its 180-hp rating and 180-bushel grain tank let it perform with any combine in its size.
- 1680: At 225 hp, equipped with a 210-bushel grain tank, it's suited to the biggest acreages anywhere.

Your crop is your paycheck. Harvest it better and you get more return on the time, money and hard work invested in it.

Case IH 1600 Series Combines do just that... in the three ways that count most.

One, they harvest faster. They've got the horsepower to move them through the field at top speeds. And their big threshing, separating and grain-conveying capacities easily handle high-yielding crops.

Two, they deliver more high-quality grain. The cage's large separating area distributes material more evenly to the sieves, increasing their efficiency. A variable-speed advanced-design cleaning fan finishes the thorough cleaning process for tops in clean high-quality grain.

Three, they're easier on your crops. With Axial-Flow, the single large rotor threshes your grain, gently...unlike the single, severe threshing action of conventional combines that damages kernels. So gentle, thorough Axial-Flow action means less cracked corn and less dockage at the elevator.

Result: a bigger paycheck.

CLEANING UP PSEUDORABIES

Amy J. Nesselrodt, DVM
USDA, APHIS
Veterinary Services

Once a herd is diagnosed with Pseudorabies Virus (PRV), it is quarantined to monitor movement of hogs with this highly contagious disease.

The first logical step in the process of eliminating PRV from the herd and getting off quarantine is to develop what is known as a clean-up plan. This is simply the producers individual road map detailing how he plans to eliminate the disease from his herd.

A secondary and perhaps a more important benefit of removing PRV is that the producer will develop a healthier and more profitable herd in the process. A herd plan is a team effort between the producer, his private practitioner, and the federal veterinarian.

The process usually begins with a meeting between the producer and federal veterinarian. The producer will be asked questions concerning his current management and biosecurity practices, his herd health program and herd health status, his facilities, and his concerns. By putting all these pieces of information together, a plan can be developed which will not only remove PRV from the herd but will work best with the producers current goals and management scheme.

Adjustments in the management, which help to eliminate PRV and other diseases or stresses, will be suggested. The herd plan will have information on the type of herd, a projected start and end date, the vaccination program, the testing schedule, and any biosecurity measures used to prevent spread of disease.

There are several basic types of herd plans to choose from, according to the Livestock Conservation Institute (LCI) system of classification. They are immediate test and removal (with or without vaccination), phased test and removal (with or without vaccination), and immediate or delayed offspring segregation (again, with or without vaccination). Choice of plan will depend on the individual situation, and the generic plan will be adapted accordingly.

A form of phased test and removal with vaccination is the type of herd plan most often selected in Pennsylvania because it creates minimal disruption to the animal flow. The idea behind all herd plans is to develop and maintain a negative population of hogs and use these negative animals to gradually turn the herd.

Once the herd plan is written, it must be signed by all three team players (producer, herd veterinarian, and federal veterinarian) before it is approved and considered official. After the herd plan is approved, the producer qualifies for testing, which will be done by his practitioner and paid for by the Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council (contact a federal veterinarian for more details on this).

The herd plan is dynamic and is constantly being updated in response to changes within the herd. These changes are also part of the team effort. The progress of a herd plan is best determined by monitoring the disease prevalence of the herd by blood testing. If the prevalence is steadily declining, then progress is being made toward the goal of a clean herd. The herd plan should be reevaluated if the number of positives in the herd does not decline.

A successful herd plan depends on a combination of flexibility, realism, good management, and adaptability. A dash of optimism is also helpful! Herd plans can and do work because they serve to remind us of the importance of biosecurity and other general disease prevention techniques. Herd plans are well worth the effort, because the end result is a healthier and more profitable herd.

Economist Looks At Soybean Market

NEWARK, Del. — Last season, soybean producers had to be vigilant to make a profit on their crops, according to Carl German, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension grain marketing specialist. Next year promises to be no different.

"Marketing the upcoming 1993-94 soybean crop presents the challenge of the decade for Delaware producers," said German. "The seed isn't even in the ground yet, but making a profit will depend on planning today and watchful calculation throughout the season."

Since contract trading for the 1993 crop began, the new-crop soybean futures prices has fluctuated from a low of $5.55 to a high of $6.20 per bushel. The soybean marketing year runs from Sept. 1 to Aug. 31.

"Soybean price highs for the current marketing year have been short-lived and occurred before last fall's U.S. soybean yields firmed up at 2.197 billion bushels," German said. "When the total harvest was confirmed, both old-crop and new-crop futures dropped to life-of-contract lows. Prices are currently finding support at $5.80 to $5.85 a bushel."

The marketing specialist sees several similarities between the 1992-1993 and the projected 1993-1994 marketing years. Production levels are likely to be the same, barring major shortfalls because of weather or pest infestations, with only slight shifts between corn and soybean acres planted nationally.

"Current demand levels are not expected to fluctuate much for the remainder of 1992-1993," said German, "but there is a rumor that China may be buying soybeans from the United States. This could cause upward movement in the price. Any increase in demand should prove price-positive."

Production cost estimates for the coming years are also comparable to last year's. The average variable production cost per acre of soybeans is estimated at $115; the typical per-acre fixed production cost is $200. Based on an average yield of 30 bushels per acre, producers will have to achieve a minimum sales price of $3.83 just to cover variable expenses. A maximum sales price of $6.67 a bushel is required to meet both variable and fixed costs before producers can make a profit.

"Considering the similarities between last year and the current marketing year, Delaware producers would be wise to book initial new crop sales at the $6 futures price level or better," German said. "Old-crop beans still in storage should be kept until summer."

Lebanon Ag Land Board Purchases Rights

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.)—The Lebanon County Agricultural Land Preservation Board has preserved a North Annville farm forever.

The 201 acre farm is owned by Anna E. Bomgardner. Administered by the Lebanon County Conservation District, the program has now preserved 429.69 acres of farmland in the county.

Total purchase price for the Bomgardner conservation easement was $206,000, for which 76.99 percent was provided by the state and 23.01 percent by Lebanon County. The Bomgardner farm is a crop and dairy operation.

Two other farms representing 227.6 acres have accepted the Lebanon County Agricultural Land Preservation Board's offer. Their preservation is pending approval from the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board.

Applicants interested in preserving farmland are invited to make an appointment with the Lebanon County Conservation District, 2120 Cornwall Road, Suite 5, Lebanon 17042-9788 or call 272-3377.

Applications received before April 30, 1993 will be considered by the board for acceptance at its May 20, 1993 public meeting.

Meetings are held the third Thursday of each month at the Lebanon Valley Agricultural Center, 2120 Cornwall Road, Rooms 2A, B and C.

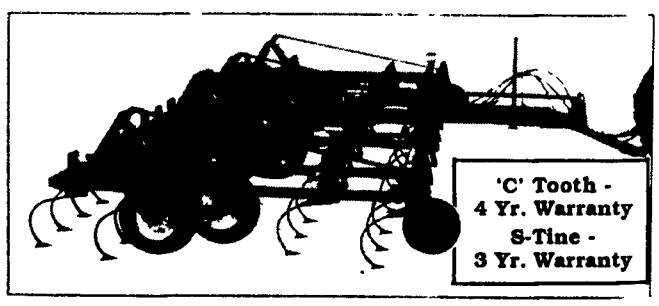
For Built In Strength Where It Counts — Buy Brillion

Brillion 3 PT. BASKET HARROWS

Brillion has designed a 3 pt. S-Tine field cultivator with a larger, aggressively angled 12" diameter rolling basket, a 4-bar frame that allows for either 4" or 6" tooth spacing and an adjustable leveler bar in 12', 15' and 18' sizes The distance between the four bars has been increased for the best trash flow in the industry Gauge wheels are optional

HFC FIELD CULTIVATOR
16½' to 31'



The "heart" of any field cultivator is the shank pivot point. A "bulked up" shank bracket made of cast ductile iron instead of the usual formed steel bracket, incorporated a hardened steel bushing AND a zerk grease fitting to lubricate the pivot point to reduce wear. The result is thousands of acres of extended life of the shanks.

ENVIRONMENT AND IMMUNITY

H. S. Siegel
Professor of Poultry Science

In a previous article (Lancaster Farming, October 3, 1992), I discussed the ways that environmental factors influenced the number of disease organisms that the bird encounters, and pointed out that as concentrations of organisms increase the probability of infection also increases.

Now I would like to discuss how the environment may affect the way in which the bird combats disease organisms after they enter the body.

Most of an animal's defense against disease depends on the activity of its immune system, which is generally divided into two major categories, humoral immunity (antibodies) and cell-mediated immunity (direct action by cells of the immune system).

Research has shown that a variety of stressors usually, but not always, can suppress both types of immunity. Stressors, such as temperature extremes, crowding, toxins (mycotoxins, insecticides, etc.), can depress the ability of the immune system to produce antibodies against specific disease organisms or to directly attack foreign cells.

The degree to which stress influences the immune system depends on the intensity of the hormone response of the bird. Much of the early research in chickens emphasized the role of two glands that produce the hormones — ACTH (pituitary gland) and corticosteroids (cortisone-like hormones produced in the adrenal glands).

It was shown that these hormones, which increase during stress exposure, reduced the size of the lymphoid tissues, cardinal sites for cells necessary for immune function. Later we found that ACTH or high temperature increased the amount of corticosteroids that are bound to the lymph cells. We now have shown that not only are some of these lymph cells reactive to corticosteroids but may also respond to the active form of thyroid hormone.

There is now strong evidence that some cells of the immune system produce their own hormones. Researchers at Penn State have described how certain groups of lymph cells of chickens secrete hormones that communicate to the rest of the body that the immune system is being activated. This "feedback" mechanism is part of a total integration of the healthy bird's defense to combat disease. Any suppression of this mechanism will lower the bird's ability to resist disease.

Shorthorns Receive Stamp Of Approval

OMAHA, Neb. — Several of the nation's largest and most prominent feedlots have announced their intent to purchase and feed Shorthorn crosses as their preferred feeder cattle.

This announcement was made at a meeting of the American Shorthorn Association at the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colo.

Personnel representing the feedlots and the order buying service explained their renewed interests in demanding Shorthorn and Shorthorn cross calves as their preferred feeders. The ability of Shorthorn influenced feeder cattle to reach the USDA Choice grade at acceptable carcass weights at 14-15 months of age has been instrumental in cementing the fact that Shorthorn-sired cattle offer the greatest profit potential under a value based pricing system.

Data generated at the USDA Meat Animal Research Center (MARC) at Clay Center, Neb., through the germ plasm evaluation (GPE) study confirms that Shorthorn-sired calves presented the fewest calving problems and led all breeds in carcass performance with 88 percent USDA Choice carcasses at an average age of 417 days, final weights of 1,195 pounds, and yielded industry demanded carcasses weighing 741 pounds.

The National Beef Quality Audit completed last year confirmed that 45 percent of the cattle slaughtered have USDA Quality grades below choice. The audit showed the average beef carcass has nearly $280 in lost value, with the majority of these losses because of excessive fat losses, poor quality grades, and carcasses (and ribeyes) that are too large or too small for the consumer. The MARC data clearly shows that Shorthorn-sired cattle most closely meet the audit's standards and offer the greatest profit potential under a value based marketing system.

Ty McMurtury, head order buyer, indicated that he and his staff will travel to view the feeder calves at the ranch. Top dollar will be paid for top quality with the service costing the producer two percent of the gross sale. McMurtury indicated that he has orders for more than 1,200 head of quality feeder cattle daily to meet the demands of the feedlots that he represents.

Any questions and inquiries for additional information should be directed to the American Shorthorn Association in Omaha, Neb.

LEESON ELECTRIC MOTORS — FARM DUTY MOTORS

Heavy duty single-phase "Hi Torque" motors designed specifically for severe farm duty applications. These capacitor start/induction run motors provide high starting torque, while requiring only normal starting current.

They are ideally suited for tough applications such as pumps, conveyors, poultry equipment and other farm duty machinery.

Buys Power Pro Equipment

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Earl Martin, a 30-year employee of Power Pro Equipment Company, purchased Power Pro this past January.

Martin reported that the previous owner, the Horst Group, decided to concentrate on their construction and development business, and while they realized that Power Pro was an excellent retail business, it no longer fit their long-range goals.

Earl Martin

Martin said that "Power Pro has been a major part of my life, so when the opportunity came along to become the sole owner of Power Pro, I jumped at the chance. What has made this decision especially rewarding is the support I've received from Power Pro employees. We're going to have the same management team that has made this business so successful in the past."

Power Pro Equipment is headquartered in New Holland with a branch in Paoli and covers eastern Pennsylvania and Delaware with sales, rental and service and parts for Pettibone, JCB, Hydramac, Stone and other material handling equipment companies. They also handle the Excel line and Scagg for the commercial turf cutting equipment part of the business. Power Pro will continue to do business out of the two locations under the Power Pro name.

Koch To Manage Penn Valley

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — White Oak Mills recently promoted Gary Koch to manager of Penn Valley, a 700-head, farrow-to-partial-finish farm.

This commercial pork production operation, populated with ProGenetic breeding stock, is owned by Stoltzfus Meats. However, White Oak manages the facility and produces the hogs for slaughter.

In his new position, Koch will see that the operation runs smoothly and efficiently. He will also assist in breeding, farrowing, and health control.

An active member of 4-H and Future Farmers of America, Koch grew up in Indiana and worked on his father's hog/corn/soybean farm since he was nine years old.

Ready to move on to another job, Koch answered White Oak's "help wanted" ad in a national hog magazine. Shortly after notification of his employment, he relocated to Pennsylvania with his wife and two children.

In his original position, Koch served as assistant manager of White Oak's Palmyra farm. However, he moved into a higher management position after just 11 months and resides in Mohrsville.

Herbicide Offers Greater Flexibility

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Corn growers looking for broad-spectrum weed control have a new herbicide choice for the 1993 growing season.

New Bicep Lite® herbicide contains one-third less atrazine than its popular counterpart, Bicep®, and offers excellent control of 24 grasses and broadleaf weeds, including pigweed and lambsquarters. Bicep Lite also partially controls extra-tough broadleaf weeds such as velvetleaf and cocklebur.

"No matter what a grower's tillage system — no-till, minimum tillage, or conventional tillage — rotation safety is an important concern," said Frank Knight, Bicep Lite product manager for Ciba-Geigy. "With less atrazine, carryover risk is reduced and growers can rotate to soybeans with increased confidence."

For maximum flexibility, the product can be applied as an early preplant (30 to 45 days before planting), preplant surface-applied, preplant-incorporated, or preemergence treatment.

"Bicep Lite is particularly well-suited to no-till operations because it does not need to be incorporated," said Knight. "Like Bicep, it moves off crop residue and into the weed germination zone faster than other prepack herbicides. And no incorporation saves soil moisture and reduces labor and equipment costs in any tillage system."

Bicep Lite was available in a limited test market in Iowa in 1992. In 1993, the product will be available in all of Iowa, New York, Pennsylvania, and Wisconsin and will be packaged in Farm-Pak® mini-bulk units.

Bicep Lite is a restricted use pesticide.

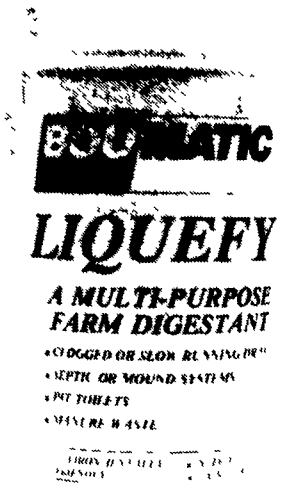
Bou-Matic Introduces Liquefy

MADISON, Wis. — Liquid manure storage and handling can cause serious problems on any dairy. Bou-Matic "Liquefy" can eliminate crust, sludge, and odor problems and make manure handling much easier.

Liquefy is an advanced scientific blend of natural bacteria, enzymes, and nutrients. Liquefy's billions of beneficial bacteria digest organic material and convert waste material into harmless carbon dioxide and water. Regular use will reduce agitation time, regain lost pit capacity, and eliminate strong odors while improving the fertilizer value of your manure.

For more information on Bou-Matic "Liquefy," contact your nearest Bou-Matic dealer or Ed Joseph, product manager, Bou-Matic, the dairy equipment division of DEC International, P.O. Box 8050, Madison, WI 53708, (608) 222-3484.



Bou-Matic Liquefy, an advanced scientific blend of natural bacteria, enzymes and nutrients, is designed to digest organic material and convert waste material into harmless carbon dioxide and water.

Hamilton Bank Sets Agrifinance Seminar

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — "Progress Through Change" will be the topic for the twelfth annual Hamilton Bank Agri-Education Seminar Thursday, February 25 at the Farm and Home Center.

The keynote speakers at this year's event include Jolene Brown, motivator, educator, speaker, and Iowa farm wife who will talk on "The Celebration of Change," and Dr. George Conneman from Cornell University who will speak on "Megaforces Affecting Change in Agriculture in the Food Industry in the 21st Century."

Developed for the members of the agricultural community to provide insight on the changing nature and potential opportunities for agribusiness, the seminar begins at 8:30 a.m. and continues until 2:30 p.m.

Other featured speakers will be H. Louis Moore, professor of agricultural economics at Penn State, and David M. Kohl, professor of agricultural finance at Virginia Tech University.

Additional information about the seminar is available by contacting Darvin Boyd at Hamilton Bank, (717) 291-3313.

The 3900 flex-wing... good news for today's farming.

It's time to take a new look at disk harrows. Especially the new Case International 3900 flex-wing disk harrow. It's the easiest-pulling, level-est-working disk harrow you can hook up to today's high-horsepower tractors.

Here's how the 3900 meets performance, reliability and durability challenges like nothing else in the field:

■ It offers superior gang strength from a massive welded tubular unibody frame — good for years of trouble-free operation.

■ A unique self-leveling spring-loaded hitch transfers weight between tractor and disk to maintain ground-hugging performance regardless of ridges and gullies. The 3900 stirs and mixes soil, chemicals and residue consistently — even at high operating speeds. This promotes uniform germination.

■ A new mechanical stop depth control eliminates variances common with master/slave systems. It's great for uniform incorporation.

■ Earth Metal® crimp-center blades give you sharp penetration and an easy pull that saves fuel. Plus extra durability that means fewer replacements.

Want more good news? Stop in today.

Check out the 3900. Also available with Cushioned Gangs® for rocky conditions or coil-tine mulchers for seedbed grooming.

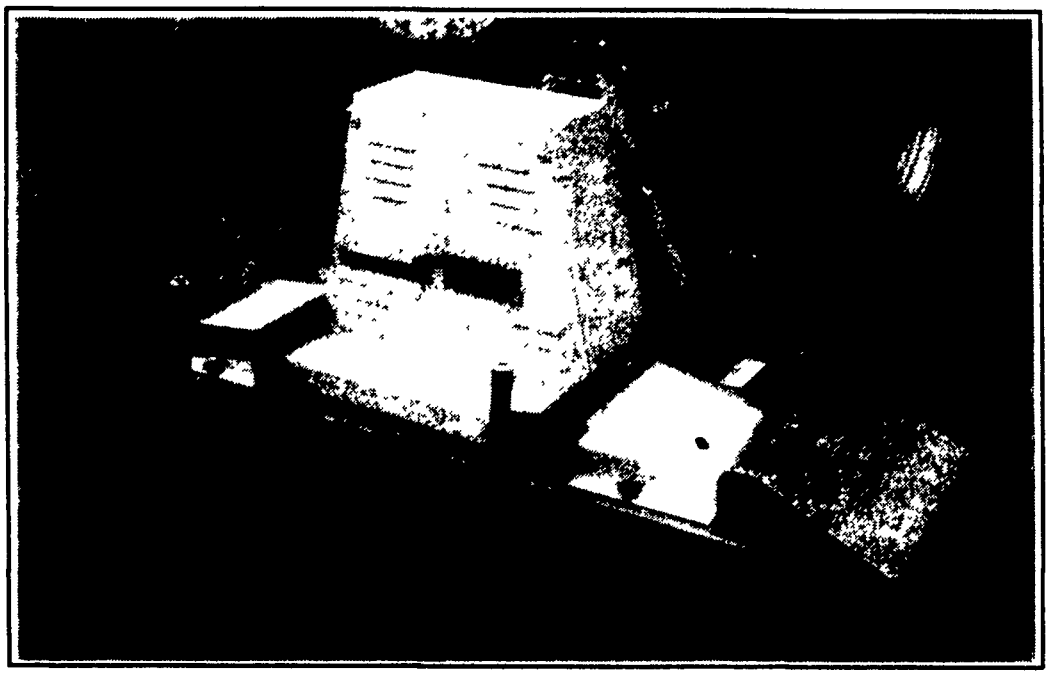
Woods new generation of rearmount mowers for the '90s

The standards for rearmount mowers were set in 1971 when Woods introduced them....Now for the '90s we've redefined the cutting edge with our new line of Woods rearmount grooming mowers.



Model 360 single V-belt drive, mows a 5 ft. width

Woods reputation for trouble-free performance has been earned with features like... heavy-duty gearboxes, designed and manufactured by Woods... Single V-belt drive with automatic belt tension take up... industrial quality blade spindles with lubricated tapered roller bearings... high velocity side discharge deck design... "high-lift" blades... easy-on, easy-off 3-point hook-up. All these features and more guarantee that clean, even, well groomed look every time you mow so you spend more time enjoying your lawn and less time caring for it.

Now Woods new rearmount mowers for the '90's involve the exchange of 20 years of engineering, manufacturing and marketing experience into exceptional quality, dependability and service at a very competitive price.

If your tractor is in the 16 to 35 horsepower range, there's a new Woods rearmount lawn mower for you.

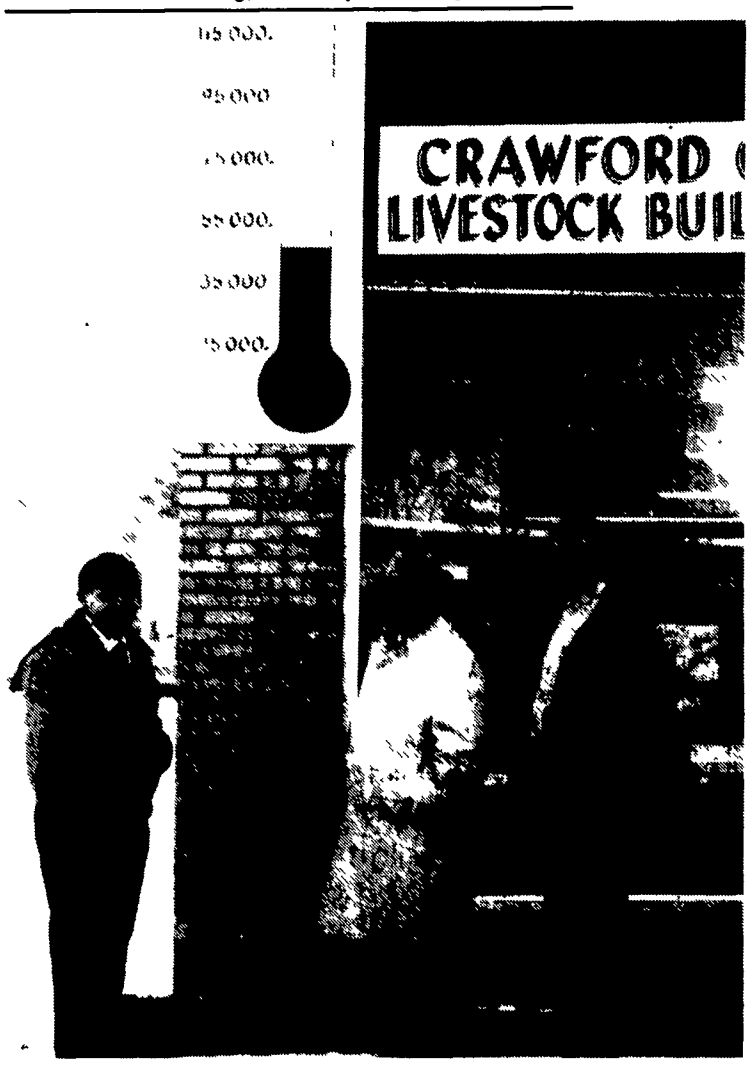
Multi-Use Livestock Complex Gains Support



Bruce Stainbrook, finance committee chairman, left, reports to cochairmen Ron Kerr, center, and Bob Rose, that the mark on the thermometer needs to be raised to $70,000 as the steering committee continues working toward their goal of $175,000.

MEADVILLE (Crawford Co.) — The Crawford County agricultural community is pooling its energy and resources to bring to reality a multi-use livestock complex at the Crawford County Fairgrounds.

With the approval of the county commissioners, the building steering committee is raising funds so construction can begin as soon as spring weather breaks.

According to Ron Kerr, Titusville, and Bob Rose, Cochranton, cochairmen for the steering committee, the fundraising goal of $175,000 will come from the support of individuals, farms, agribusinesses, and organizations who care about the youth of Crawford County.

The complex will include three existing buildings and two new buildings with clear-span construction to provide for maximum versatility and use. One new building will house the beef cattle during the fair and the other will be a show arena with easy access from the cattle barn as well as the sheep and swine housing areas.

Changes needed to be made to reduce the chance of accidents with livestock and the general public, said Kerr. During the 4-H and FFA livestock show, cattle are lead some distance from the barns to the existing Youth Show Arena.

The current facilities for sheep and swine are limited which restricted the number of youth able to participate in the programs. With the new facility, adequate space will be available for all the market livestock shows and ample room for participants and buyers during the livestock sale.

Some other use of the new clear-span arena include indoor horse and pony shows, sports shows, tourism shows, machinery and industrial trade shows, and many educational programs. The committee plans the complex to be as versatile as possible within their budget restrictions.

Bruce Stainbrook, Meadville, fundraising chairman, reports that to date money and pledges total $70,000 with additional in-kind contributions including grading, trucking, gravel, and cement already promised.

Many businesses are making their contributions through the advertising signs that will be used around the arena, said Rose. Each sign will be at least one 4-foot by 8-foot piece of plywood that has been painted by specified artists. Businesses must contract for at least a five-year period at $100 per year plus fees for the materials and labor to paint the signs. Rose hopes that most of the agricultural businesses and organizations support the project in this way.

Any individual or business that wishes to contribute to the project should send contributions to Crawford County Livestock Building Fund, Fred Wagner, treasurer; Courthouse, Meadville, PA 16335.

For additional information contact Ron Kerr at (814) 438-3831 or (814) 827-1506.

ASCS Provides Premeasurement Service

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Richard Troutman, chairman of the Berks County Stabilization and Conservation Service, said premeasurement and other land measurement services are available to assure producers that they are in compliance with the 1993 farm program requirements and eligible for program benefits.

At the request of producers, ASCS will measure, stake, and reference any type of acreage, or portions thereof, prior to planting.

"We can also advise producers of fields which already have an official acreage," Troutman said.

Only those acres premeasured by ASCS will be guaranteed for the 1993 program year, he said. Fees vary, based on the type of service rendered.

To be certain that program requirements are met, producers must plant within the stakes that are placed when the land is premeasured, and also report their crop acreage to ASCS after planted.

The 1993 farm program sign-up begins March 1. To qualify for target price protection and price support loans, producers must reduce their acreage bases by 10 percent for corn and five percent for grain sorghum. There is zero acreage reduction for wheat, oats, and barley.

"Premeasurement is important in helping farmers plan the amount of land to devote to the acreage conservation reserve (ACR) and planted acreages of program crops," Troutman said.

Farmers interested in using premeasurement service, or in obtaining information on other producer services, should contact Donna Kline at the local ASCS office.

Wolff Urges Yes Vote On Vegetable Referendum

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff urged Pennsylvania vegetable producers to vote yes to renew their marketing and research program in a March referendum.

The Department of Agriculture will be conducting the review referendum of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program. The referendum will give vegetable producers an opportunity to vote on the continuation of the Program for an additional five years.

Secretary Wolff expressed his support of the Program's efforts. "Our vegetable farmers have relied on the Vegetable Marketing and Research Program for healthier crops and better sales for years," Wolff said. " A vote in favor of this referendum is a vote for the continued success of vegetable farming in Pennsylvania."

All vegetable producers who use one or more acres of farmland, or 1,000 square feet or more of greenhouse area, to grow vegetables for sale in Pennsylvania are eligible to vote on the referendum.

The referendum period will begin on March 22, 1993, and end on April 9, 1993. Counting of the ballots will begin at 10 a.m. Wednesday, April 14, 1993, in the State Agriculture Building in Harrisburg, PA.

For more information about the review referendum, contact Brenda Beleski Briggs, Bureau of Market Development, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, 2301 N. Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110.

PennWest Adds Field Rep

CURRYVILLE (Blair Co.) — Penn West Farm Credit Branch Manager Dougulas Houston announced the addition of Jim Youngs as a field representative and the expansion of duties for Keith Walker, executive loan officer.

Jim Youngs

Keith Walker

Youngs graduated from the State University of New York in agricultural business and business economics. He attended SUNY at Cobleskill and Oneonta. He was raised on a dairy farm, and was active in 4-H and FFA prior to his college experience. He served as a congressional intern for Sherwood Bochlert (R-25th NY).

Walker's duties have been expanded to originate and service large and complex loan accounts in a multi county area, including Centre, Huntingdon, Blair, Bedford, and Cambria counties.

He was graduated from Penn State University in 1980 with a degree in agriculture-business management and has an extensive farm background. He worked for 10 years as a senior loan officer with Southern New England Farm Credit. He has been an executive loan officer in the Centre Hall Branch since 1990.

Directors Seated On Board

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Five seats on the Franklin County Cooperative Extension Association's board of directors were filled at the recent 75th annual meeting of the association.

Incumbents re-elected included H. Lee Showalter, to represent Quincy Township and Joseph Middour, to represent Washington Township.

The three new directors elected were Philip R. Horst, to represent Southampton Township; Jere Wingert, to represent St. Thomas Township; and Aretha Funk, to represent Warren Township.

Four additional association directors were seated by appointment during a special board meeting convened immediately after adjournment of the annual membership meeting. Robert E. Kriner, St. Thomas, was re-appointed. Three new appointees include Ruth John, Waynesboro; Frank S Beckner, Waynesboro; and Harold D. Smith, Chambersburg.

All directors' terms are for three years.

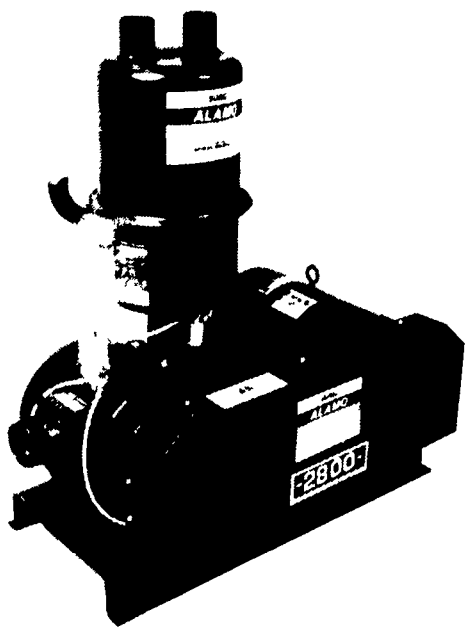
SURGE



Shown: Surge Alamo Belt-Drive 2800 Pump Package Complete With L-3 Oiler

Part or parcel... you'll save money with a Surge Alamo belt-drive vacuum pump.

Buy only the capacity you need now and expand your CFM as your requirements change. The Surge Alamo Vaccum Pump model 1400 PLUS produces 50 CFM (ASME) and can be converted to a model 2200 PLUS that delivers 78 CFM, or a model 2800 rated at 100 CFM by changing the motor and belt-drive package. Muffler and air filter are optional equipment.

Whichever model you choose, with these belt-drive pumps, you get quiet, smooth-running performance at a lower cost per CFM. That's Alamo reliability and Surge value.

For larger capacity vacuum systems, Surge Alamo direct-drive vacuum pumps offer CFM output ranging from 82 to 200 (ASME). Whatever size milking system you have, we can supply the proper vacuum system components.

More Than 800 Attend No-Till Conference

BROOKFIELD, Wis. — The "sold-out" sign went up after 817 farmers registered for the mid-January National No-Tillage Conference in Indianapolis.

The three-day conference, hosted by No-Till Farmer magazine and five corporate co-sponsors, drew international visitors from Brazil, Argentina, and Canada as well as growers from 27 states.

The cosponsors included American Cyanamid Co., DowElanco, Du Pont Agricultural Products, Monsanto and Zeneca, Ltd. Formerly known as ICI Agricultural Products, Zeneca has been operating under its new name since Jan. 1.

"Considering the fact that 200 farmers who wanted to attend were not able to, we're sure next year's conference will also be successful," said Frank Lessiter, No-Till Farmer editor/publisher. The 1994 conference will be held Jan. 11-13 at the Adam's Mark Hotel in St. Louis. Some no-till growers have already signed up for it, Lessiter said.

The Indianapolis program was heavily weighted with innovative yet practical advice from experienced no-till producers. Topics included the role of earthworms in improving soil filtration and fertility, new electronic monitoring technology, possible equipment modifications, environmental stewardship, and changing pesticide regulations.

High-profile speakers included Bill Richards, current Soil Conservation Service (SCS) chief in Washington, D.C. A pioneer in no-till farming himself, Richards said the next two years are critical to the future of a "voluntary, incentive-based approach" to soil conservation. However, no-till producers will be better able to adapt to stricter controls on the use of agricultural chemicals and fertilizer if public policy moves in that direction.

"You have already learned to rely on brainpower rather than horsepower," Richards said.

For more information on the 1994 National No-Tillage Conference, contact No-Till Farmer, P.O. Box 624, Brookfield, WI 53008, (414) 782-4480.

Piazzas Receive Grower Of Year Award

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — Frank and Sam Piazza received the vegetable integrated past management (IPM) Grower-of-the-Year Award from Rutgers Cooperative Extension at the annual Atlantic City meeting of the Vegetable Growers Association of New Jersey.

The award is presented by Dr. Donald J. Prostak, extension specialist in pest management, in appreciation and recognition of the vegetable grower who best exemplifies the adoption, practice, and support of the vegetable IPM program.

On their Phillipsburg, Warren County, farm, the Piazzas have followed sweet corn IPM program recommendations for 20 years. IPM techniques and practices help growers maintain the quality of their produce while minimizing the economic and environmental impact of unnecessary pesticide use.

On their third-generation family farm, the Piazzas grow nearly 100 acres of vegetables, including tomatoes, peppers, sweet corn, and melons. Greenhouses, covering three quarters of an acre, are used to produce flowers, bedding plants, and vegetable transplants.

Frank was graduated from Rutgers University in 1968, and received a degree in plant science. Sam attended Delaware Valley College and was graduated in 1971 with a degree in horticulture.

Samuel A. Piazza, left, and Frank J. Piazza, center, of Phillipsburg, N.J., receive the Rutgers Cooperative Extension IPM Grower-of-the-Year Award from Dr. Donald J. Prostak, extension specialist in past management. The Piazzas received this award in appreciation and recognition of their adoption, practice, and support of the Rutgers Vegetable IPM Program.

New York Bull Test Update Released

EATON, N.Y. — It is now at mid-point of the New York Beef Cattlemen's bull test at Cornell University Beef Teaching and Research Center.

The bulls are beginning to develop their individual traits in eye appeal and, by what the scales tell us, at an exaggerated pace.

The following depicts the cumulative average daily gain leaders by breed as well as the leader of each breed.

Large Dairy Herd Conference Set

MERCER (Mercer Co.) — The four Pennsylvania Farm Credit Associations are sponsoring the 1993 Large Dairy Herd Conference, March 23-24 at the Embers Inn and Convention Center in Carlisle.

Keynote speaker Don R. Rogers is a nationally known farm business consultant from the Springfield Farm Credit Banks. Ken Nobis of Nobis Farms, St. Johns, Mich., and Dale Van Erden of Eastview Farms, Fabius, N.Y., part of the management teams of two outstanding large dairy herds, will speak on their experiences as they enlarged their operations.

Discussing the use of consultants on dairy farms will be Charles Gardner, VMD; farmer Reid Hoover, Lebanon; John Simms, VMD; and farmer, Robert Keefer, Shippensburg.

The purpose of the central bull test is to bring potential herd sires from diverse backgrounds into a common environment whereby genetic differences can accurately be evaluated. Other data such as birth weight and 205-day weight are also important, but are derived from highly varying farm conditions. The astute buyer with well-defined breeding goals will weigh the various sources of data appropriately. The bull test station is one of the few opportunities to study good, comparative data.

This year's sale will be held on April 23 at the Cornell University Livestock Pavilion in Ithaca, N.Y.

Reservation deadline is March 10. Conference costs are $110 for the first participant and $95 for each additional participant from the same business.

For registration information, contact Annette Hillegass; Penn West Farm Credit, ACA; 9 Tripplewood Drive; Mercer, PA 16137, (412) 662-3350.

Best in the Country

For rough duty, rougher weather: Rugged, practical, cost-efficient Centurydrain™ roofing and siding.

Centurydrain is the roofing and siding to use for a strong, tight structure that'll carry you through the years of heavy snows, driving rain, and ripping winds.

Wheeling Centurydrain is pure practicality: full-hard, high tensile steel; galvanized for toughness, durability, and rust resistance; and with an exclusive drain channel for a dry, snug interior.

Handsome appearance, too: bold shadow lines and a choice of rich, baked-on colors. The best in the country is right here. Stop by.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

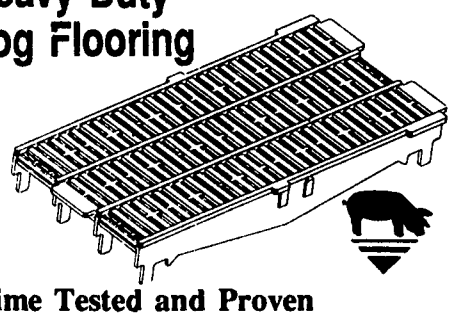
REPLACING HOG FLOORING? CONSIDERING NEW CONSTRUCTION? ☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Faroex has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.
- POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are bevelled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?
- More piglets survive until weaning
- Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- Heavier piglets at weaning
- Better conditioned sows at weaning

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
QUARANTINE ORDER

Notice is hereby given that on February 12, 1993, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Department of Agriculture adopted an Interstate Quarantine Order due to the suspected presence in other states of H5N2 Avian Influenza pursuant to the authority granted by Section 1702 of the "Administrative Code", Act of June 7, 1923 (P L 498, No 274) (71 P.S § 442), Section 6 of the Act of July 22, 1913 (P L 928, No. 441), (71 P.S. § 1221) and the Act of April 17, 1929 (P L. 533, No 236) as amended by the Act of May 10, 1974 (P.L. 287, No. 87), 3 P.S § § 341 et seq Avian Influenze is a disease of domestic poultry caused by exposure to Type A Influenza Virus

The Department of Agriculture has obtained evidence that indicates that H5N2 Avian Influenza has contaminated the poultry marketing systems in other states. The extensive movement of live poultry between Pennsylvania and other states presents a serious threat to introduce H5N2 Avian Influenza virus into Pennsylvania poultry flocks Promulgation of the Order contained in Annex "A" is consistent with similar action taken by other states to protect their poultry industry.

Further Information

Further information is available by contacting Dr. Max A. Van Buskirk, Jr., Director, Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110, telephone (717) 783-6677.

Effective Date

The Interstate Quarantine Order contained in Annex "A" was adopted on February 12, 1993 and was effective immediately upon adoption Notice of adoption of the quarantine is being provided by publication in full in Lancaster Farming and Harrisburg Patriot News and in one newspaper in each state subject to the Order. In addition, the Department is issuing public announcements and press releases regarding the imposition of the quarantine and directly notified numerous affected parties

Secretary
Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture

ANNEX "A"
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
INTERSTATE QUARANTINE ORDER

WHEREAS, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has declared and hereby declares that H5N2 Avian Influenza is a disease of a dangerous transmissible nature;

WHEREAS, the H5N2 Avian Influenza virus poses a serious risk to the integrity of the Pennsylvania poultry industry and the economy of this Commonwealth,

WHEREAS, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has broad powers to prevent the spread of infections and communicable diseases and to protect the health and well being of this Commonwealth's animals, including poultry,

WEREAS, evidence indicates that H5N2 Avian Influenza has contaminated the poultry marketing systems in other states;

WHEREAS, there is extensive movement of live poultry between Pennsylvania and other states; and

WHEREAS, these movements of poultry and poultry conveyances are a serious threat to introduce H5N2 Avian Influenza virus into Pennsylvania poultry flocks

NOW, THEREFORE, THE PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, pursuant to the authority granted by Section 1702 of the "Administrative Code", Act of June 7, 1923 (P.L. 498, No. 274) (71 P.S. § 442), Section 6 of the Act of July 22, 1913 (P.L. 928, No. 441), (71 P.S. § 1221) and the Act of April 17, 1929 (P.L. 533, No. 236) as amended by the act of May 10, 1974 (P.L. 287, No. 87), 23 P.S. §§ 341 et seq. promulgates the following Interstate Quarantine Order for the prevention of contagious or infectious diseases including H5N2 Avian Influenza.

1. No live poultry greater than one week of age may enter the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania unless the following conditions are met:
   a. The live poultry orginates and moves directly from an avian influenza monitored source as established by the Chief Livestock Health Official of the state in which the source is located; or
   b. The live poultry is accompanied by an approved health certificate certifying that the birds represented thereon originate from a source flock in which a random samples of ten birds has been blood tested negative for avian influenza using the agar gel immunodiffusion test and that said tests were conducted within ten days of the date of entry to Pennsylvania; and
   c. Shipments of live poultry that are assembled for movement to Pennsylvania are not eligible unless all sources that emprise the shipments meet the requirements of (a) or (b) above; and
   d. Live poultry qualifying for interstate movement to Pennsylvania must be kept separate and apart from all other poultry of infected, exposed or unknown health status.
2. This Order is adopted February 12, 1993 and is effective immediately and shall remain effective until further order of this Department.

For purposes of this Order, poultry shall mean chickens, ducks, turkeys, pigeons, chukars, guineas, exotic foul and game birds raised in captivity.

By the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture

Boyd E. Wolff
Secretary
Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture

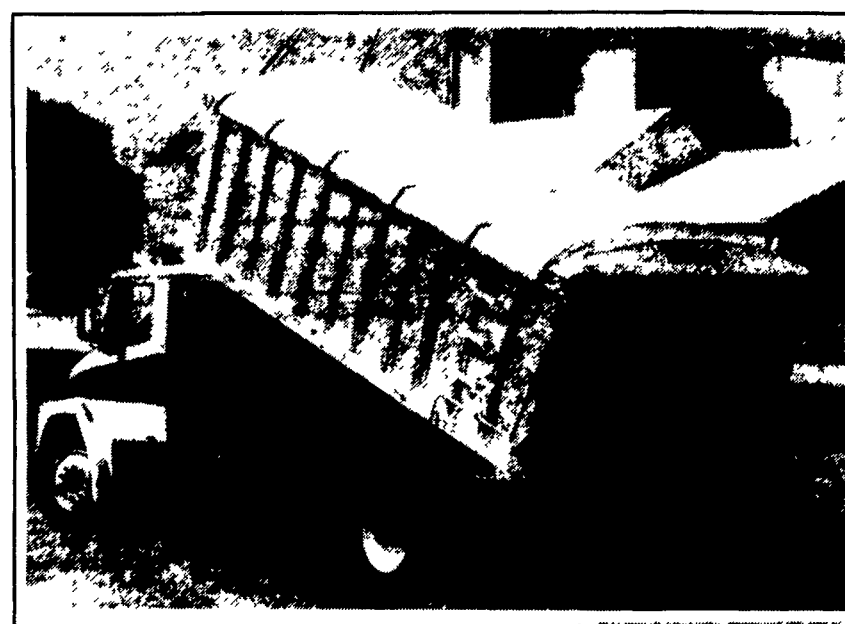
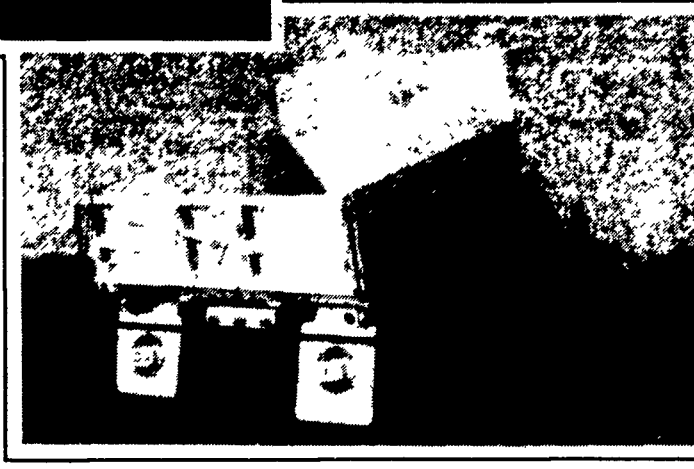
EBY AGRI-DUMP BODIES

Rugged...built like a heavy dump truck



Eby Aluminum Agri-Dump Bodies pay off in dependable long-term service. Their all-aluminum construction means:
- Greater payload efficiency
- Maintenance-free service
- Substantially higher resale value.

Eby's time-tested design is available in lengths to 24' for grain bodies and 10½' for general purpose dump bodies. A long list of standard features such as tarp rail, built-in steps, aerodynamic uprights and Harsh hoist is complemented by a full range of custom options, including tailgates, Wahpeton tarps and grain chute.
When you select your next grain body or general purpose dump body, consider the value that aluminum offers. It's a worry-free investment in your future.



FEATURES/BENEFITS
- Up to 40% lighter than steel, for greater payload
- Designed for long life
- Corrosion resistant, never needs painting
- Appearance to complement any truck
- Complete list of popular options, including tailgates, tarps and sides

STANDARD SPECIFICATIONS
- 6" heavy-duty extruded longitudinal sills
- 3" crossmembers on 12" centers on body lengths to 14'; 4" crossmembers on 12" centers on lengths over 14'
- 5"x1¾" extruded side posts, slanted for improved aerodynamics; 3"x2" heavy wall top rail
- .125" thich side sheets; .188" thick floor sheet (.250" thickness optional)
- Single acting tailgate with center flow chute, hinged top
- Rear ladder rung with step mounted on mud-flap bracket
- Includes mudflaps, aluminum splash shield, ICC-approved bumper and lights.

Martin Limestone Honors Drivers

BLUE BALL (Lancaster Co.) — Martin Limestone, Inc. honored 69 truck drivers at the company's eighteenth annual driver safety award banquet for operating one or more consecutive years without a chargeable accident.

Drivers from Martin Limestone, Inc., and the company's divisions of New Holland Concrete in New Holland and Burkholder Paving in Ephrata, along with drivers from Star Carriers, Inc., Blue Ball, traveled more than five million miles during the year delivering crushed limestone, agricultural limestone, asphalt, concrete block products, and ready-mix concrete throughout eastern Pennsylvania and surrounding states.

Forty-three drivers received recognition for compiling five or more consecutive years without a chargeable accident. Drivers recognized for 18 consecutive years were Lloyd W. Fox from New Holland Concrete, H. Ed Lapp from Martin Limestone, Inc., and Warren H. Martin from Star Carriers, Inc.

Justin P. Andrew, a recent retiree from Martin Limestone, Inc., accumulated 17 years and Allan A. Sheaffer from Martin Limestone, Inc., earned an award for 16 years.

Rick L. Buch from Martin Limestone, Inc., earned an award for 15 years. Henry W. Horst from New Holland Concrete, and James E. Smoker from Martin Limestone, Inc. received recognition for 14 years. Leroy M. Weaver from Star Carriers, Inc., along with Galen E. Sweigart, Jr., from New Holland Concrete received awards for 13 years, and Blaine S. Martin from Star Carriers, Inc., earned a 12-year award. Walter Kurtz from Martin Limestone, Inc. earned an 11-year award. Richard S. Groff and Donald L. Landis from Burkholder Paving received 10-year awards.

Other drivers receiving awards included Melvin B. Felpel from Star Carriers, Inc., Robert A. Riehl and John J. Haas from New Holland Concrete, and Ray M. Brubaker from Martin Limestone, Inc., nine years; and Jeff L. Garman from New Holland Concrete and Levi S. Horst from Star Carriers, Inc., eight years.

Earning seven year awards were Gerald S. Stoltzfus, Marvin Z. Martin, Smith C. Burkey, Nevin H. Zimmerman, Floyd L. Stoltzfus from New Holland Concrete; Robert R. Snader, E. Clair Bowman, Martin L. Zimmerman from Martin Limestone, Inc.; Glenn J. Sensenig and Mark T. Young from Burkholder Paving; and W. Anthony Martin and Harold L. Fisher from Star Carriers, Inc.

Three drivers earned six-year awards: Hershey Zimmerman and Ray Ravegum for New Holland Concrete and Warren Scott Patten from Martin Limestone, Inc.

Five year awards were earned by Allan Stoltzfoos from Burkholder Paving; Ronald Harsh, George Galbraith, Lamar Kennel, Terry Frymyer and George Burman from New Holland Concrete; James L. Newswanger from Star Carriers, Inc.; and Timothy Sprecher from Martin Limestone, Inc.

Ethanol Team Finds Market In Japan

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A U.S. Feed Grains Council-sponsored ethanol trade team recently traveled to Japan, where they found a large potential market for ethanol.

The team met with several agencies, including Japan's Environmental Protection Agency, the Japanese Auto Research Institute, and the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI). They learned that global warming is the primary problem to address in Japan, and are convinced that educating MITI on the benefits of ethanol over methanol will lead to the opening of a large, new market for the United States.

Currently, MITI policy is based on tests conducted 20 years ago, which has led to a methanol-dominated market in Japan. Lack of availability and high prices have also contributed to Japan's lack of ethanol use.

The team believes that once new material is made available for MITI, they will understand the benefits of switching to ethanol. MITI indicated it would like to begin an information exchange with the United States to examine more recent ethanol test results and is considering visiting production sites.

Association Members 'Take Charge' At 70th National

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Under the theme, "Take Charge," members of the American Polled Hereford Association (APHA) converged on the Lone Star State for their 70th National Polled Hereford Convention, Show and Sale. Activities were held recently at the Worthington Hotel and at the Southwestern Exposition and Livestock Show in Ft. Worth, Texas.

APHA Membership Meeting

A large crowd was on hand for the annual membership meeting that featured keynote speaker Dr. Bill Mies of Texas A&M University. Mies encouraged APHA members to take charge of the quality of product they produce and to focus their sights on total quality management in order to keep beef competitive with other meats. Mies, a feedyard management specialist at Texas A&M, has helped pave the way for the implementation of quality assurance programs throughout the beef industry.

Annual meeting activities also spotlighted the introduction of APHA's Integrated Commercial Marketing Plan. This program is designed to enhance the marketing and to provide certification of Baldy cattle to the commercial industry with the formation of the American Baldy Beef Council.

Glenkirk Farms, Maysville, Mo., was recognized during the meeting for registering 584 Polled Herefords, the greatest number recorded with APHA in 1992.

Awards Banquet

Hall of Fame and Hall of Merit awards highlighted the 70th national awards banquet, as did the performance of cowboy poet and humorist, Baxter Black.

Long-time Polled Hereford breeders inducted into the APHA Hall of Fame were Snead Davis, the owner of Santa Fe River Ranch, Alachua, Fla. and Harry Dulick, the owner of Dulick Stock Farm, Morgan, Texas. Davis was the first woman inducted into the APHA Hall of Fame.

Four individuals recognized by APHA with Hall of Merit awards for expertise and dedicated service in their respective fields included Roddy Peeples, Voice of Southwest Agriculture Radio network owner, San Angelo, Texas, for communications; Dr. John Massey, retired University of Missouri Extension livestock specialist, Aurora, Mo., for education and research; Dr. John Edwards, former Texas A&M University associate professor, College Station, for youth, and Conrad Burns, Montana's 19th U.S. Senator, Billings, Mont., for public affairs. Bill Dulaney of Dulaney Feedyards, Great Bend, Kan., was recognized with a special service award.

National Organization of Poll-ettes Meeting

The annual luncheon meeting of the National Organization of Poll-ettes the women's auxiliary to APHA, featured the recognition of outstanding members and the introduction of new board members and officers.

Becky Heaton of Murrayville, Ill., was named the National Poll-ette of the Year. First runner-up was Betsy Penn, Montgomery, Ala., and second runner-up was Beth Majchrzak, Easton, Md.

New members of the National Organization's board include Nancy Maurer, Aurora, Iowa; Pat Hicks, Cullman, Ala., and Marsha Farno, Eaton, Ohio. Loretta Owen, Lamar, Mo., and Virginia Hathorn, Louisville, Miss., have joined the Board to fill unexpired terms.

Annette Larson, Lawrence, Kan., was elected to chair the National Organization in 1993. Other officers include Vice Chairman Claudia Atlas, Grandview, Texas; Secretary-Reporter Nancy Shanks, Hickory, N.C., and Treasurer Elvera Morton, Chehalis, Wash.

National Polled Hereford Queen Coronation

Candidates from 16 states vied for the National Polled Hereford Queen title during the 70th National. Selected as the breed's representative for 1993 was Jenny Hartzell of Redmond, Ore. The 19-year-old daughter of Richard and Mary Hartzell, Jenny is an active member of the Oregon Junior PHA and of the FFA. She is vice president of her junior breed association and holds the office of state secretary for the Oregon FFA.

Jenny has participated in several Polled Hereford Junior Nationals and attended PRIDE, APHA's first junior leadership conference. She is currently an agriculture communications/agribusiness major at Linn-Benton Community College.

Tanya Eckert, Ayr, N.D., was first runner-up in the queen competition. The 18-year-old daughter of Daniel and Jessica Eckert, Tanya is studying child development at North Dakota State University. Second runner-up was Sonja Jensen, Cottage Grove, Wis. Sonja is the 19-year-old daughter of Ellery and Margaret Jensen and is studying meat and animal science at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Named Miss Congeniality was Tammy Fisher, Sonora, Texas. Tammy is the 18-year-old daughter of Glen and Linda Fisher and is in her freshman year studying agricultural economics at Southwest Texas Junior College.

Show Results

Nearly 300 head of bulls, heifers and cow-calf pairs were showcased in the 70th National Polled Hereford Show. National exhibits were appraised by Jim Gillooly, Washington, Ind.; Levi Jackson, Sedley, Sask., and Gene Wiese, Manning, Iowa.

The 99-head bull competition was topped by international owned WTK 55Y Bond 75A, a March 1991 son of WTK 80U Premium 55Y. He is owned by W-T-K Polled Herefords, Montmartre, Sask.; Big T Ranch, Jeromesville, Ohio; Doonbiddie Wonderview Pty., New South Wales, Australia; Kilmorlie Farms, Inc., Bowden, Alta., and Creekside Ranches, Sonoma, Calif.

Standing second to Bond in the junior division and collecting reserve grand champion bull honors was PHR Johnny Reb 19A. The February 1991 DR P183 Rebel 926Y son was exhibited by Pleasant Hill Ranch, Creswell, Ore., and Rogue River Ranch, Central Point, Ore.

Judges lined up 182 heifers and 11 cow-calf pairs in the National female show. Earning the overall champion female title was the junior division winner and champion heifer, JR LB Cashmere A43. The March 1991 JCD NV Ascendant Y26 daughter is owned by junior member Joseph Jones, Fond du Lac, Wis.

The overall reserve female title was won by the champion cow-calf pair that included CLF Wise Girl Z51, a 2-year-old BB MSU 15S Wisdom daughter, and her March 1992 bull calf sired by DR P183 Rebel 926Y. The pair is owned by junior member Sherri Soules, Skiatook, Okla.; Star Lake Cattle Co., Skiatook, Okla., and Las Tranqueras, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

LK Sassys Ruby Rebel 13A claimed the intermediate championship and reserve champion heifer title for Lorie Anne King, Mountain Home, Ark., also a junior member. Ruby Rebel is a May 1991 DR P183 Rebel 926Y daughter. The reserve champion cow-calf title was awarded to JR LB Big T Shimmer Z78, a 2-year-old GK LLB Rave daughter, and her May 1992 bull calf sired by Haroldson Raider P183 2Z. John E. Rice & Sons, Inc., sheridan, Wyo., share ownership in the pair with McMinn Ranches, Inc., Burton, Texas.

In group competition, progeny of DR P183 Rebel 926Y earned Star Lake the first place get-of-sire award. Star Lake also exhibited the winning best-six-head. Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich., and McMinn Ranches, Inc., Burton, Texas, shared the premier exhibitor award, while Rice & Sons was recognized as the National's premier breeder. Jones was presented with the new Exhibitor award.

Activities at the 70th National also featured the annual Herdsman Banquet where Margarete Riffel of Enterprise, Kan., was honored by her peers as Herdsman of the Year. Riffel operates Plain View Farms with her parents, Don and LaDell Riffel, and her daughter, Tammy.

National Sale Results

A full house and active bidding set the stage for an upbeat sale that climaxed the Polled Hereford breed's 70th National. Buyers represented 17 states and the countries of Argentina and Canada. The sale breakdown was as follows:

Rural Clean Water Program Successful

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — A final evaluation of USDA's 10-year-old experimental Rural Clean Water Program (RCWP) showed that the 110,000-acre Conestoga Headwaters Project was successful in reducing agricultural nonpoint source pollution and improving water quality. Ninety farms in Lancaster County were contracted to participate.

Ray Brubaker, county executive director of the Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said the evaluation also provided valuable information for current and future nonpoint source control programs and projects.

"The program made significant contributions to our knowledge about the effectiveness of voluntary cost share programs aimed at assisting producers in reducing agricultural nonpoint source pollution," he said.

Brubaker said the RCWP is designed to address the sources of agricultural pollution rather than treat the water after it is contaminated. Major pollutants in the Conestoga Headwaters Project were nitrates, phosphorus, and pesticides.

"Farm operators and other project personnel benefitted not only their communities, but all those who are and will be engaged in future nonpoint source control programs," Brubaker said. Farmers participating in the RCWP agreed to install a system of best management practices on their farms to reduce the amount of pollutants entering streams and the Chesapeake Bay. ASCS shared with farmers the cost of installing these practices.

According to Brubaker, the overall RCWP evaluation was conducted by the Water Quality Group at North Carolina State University in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Randomly selected farm operators were contacted and interviewed by telephone for the survey. Results of the 10-year experimental RCWP were presented at a national symposium in Orlando, Fla. last year.

"We found that possibly the most important contribution made by the RCWP is the advancement of our understanding of how to plan, implement, manage, and monitor voluntary agricultural nonpoint source pollution control efforts," the ASCS official said.

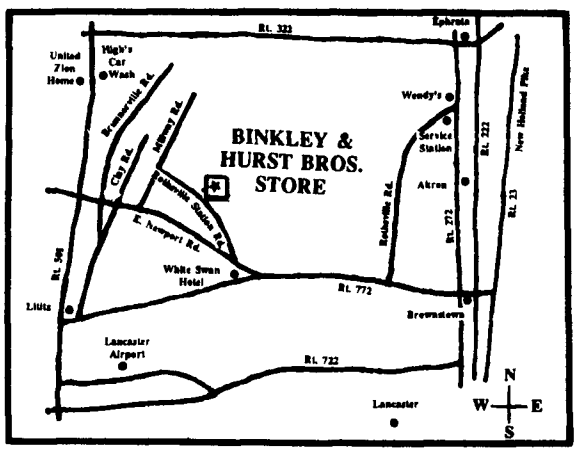
OPEN HOUSE WEEK!



Monday, February 22 thru Saturday, February 27

Daily - 7:00 AM to 5:00 PM Saturday - 7:00 AM to 12:00 Noon

BIG MACHINERY & PARTS DISCOUNTS THE ENTIRE WEEK!

Don't Pass Up A Good Opportunity To Own Quality Equipment At The Right Price!

Dear Customer:

Please consider this your personal invitation to attend the annual Customer Appreciation Day and Open House at Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. on February 23, 1993.

Parts and machinery discounts start Feb. 22 and run to Sat., Feb. 27th/

In keeping with our tradition of making the Open House program more informational than hard-sell, we have selected what we believe to be relevant topics for your consideration. The men who will serve as resource persons for this session dealing with the transfer of real estate are certainly experts in their respective fields.

Also, as in 1992, we will feature a pesticide certification session for which 1 CORE and 1 CATEGORY POINT will be awarded. It is our understanding that farmers in New Jersey and Maryland can receive credit in their home states by attending this session. (Please check with your local extension agent for verification.)

Parts specials are offered! Lunch is provided! So bring a neighbor and make a day of it. We hope to see you here on the 23rd.

Sincerely,
Leonard Hurst

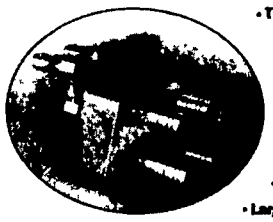
REMOTE MASTER DOES IT ALL!



- Tired of climbing down from your tractor just to switch hoses?
- Save time, money and steps!
- Now you control two circuits with the flip of a switch!
- Stay safe - Keep high-pressure hydraulics out of your cab.
- Universal - Fits all tractors
- Large Capacity - 15 gpm

The REMOTE MASTER lets you use one outlet to control two sets of hoses by moving a three-position toggle switch from circuit A to circuit B, then operating your existing tractor lever for directional control

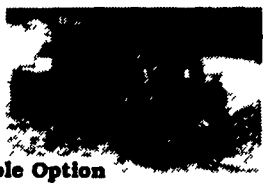
Trailer Mounted

The Shaker Body Mixer's unique six-foot loading height accommodates all makes of Skid Loaders and front end loaders with a bucket width of 66 inches or less. With a small Skid Loader, The Shaker Buddy Mixer can process 40 yards of screened loam per hour.

Introducing the:

Shaker Buddy Mixer™

Just What You Were Looking For... Now Available At Binkley & Hurst! SEE AT OUR OPEN HOUSE!



Towable Option

A breakthrough for professional landscapers, greens keepers, nursery owners, home builders — anyone who needs an economical way to mix or separate materials.

Screening just became a one-man job — with the all-new Shaker Buddy Mixer. Tow it at normal highway speeds with a 3/4 ton pickup. Set up in less than two minutes by simply pressing its hydraulic lever. Change screens in less than 10 minutes with a socket wrench. And put it to work: sizing stone, screening loam, mixing soils, separating wood chips, even sizing coal. With the Shaker Buddy Mixer, it's all a one-man operation.

Made in the USA from heavy plate steel, The Shaker Buddy Mixer is designed for rugged, long-lasting performance on any job site. Put the Shaker Buddy to work for you. It screens as effectively as it cuts your costs.

Don Neaver, Sales Manager Binkley & Hurst Bros., Inc., Lititz, PA

"We have been able to meet nearly every residue coverage expectation by use of varying options and attachments on the Sunflower equipment."

We have been representing the Sunflower product line in the Northeastern part of the country we have a major consideration for rocky, heavy soils in many areas. With the Sunflower products, we have had great success meeting the needs of farmers who are looking for quality, value, and versatility. Sunflower is not a low price line. It is rather a standout in weight, design, features and appearance. Farmers are willing to pay a bit more for these obvious qualities.

With the new and increasingly stringent residue cover requirements, we have been able to meet nearly every residue coverage expectation by use of varying options and attachments on the Sunflower equipment.

After years of affiliation with Sunflower, several factors are very clear. One, the best Sunflower salespeople are Sunflower owners. Two, with Sunflowers' commitment to quality and dealer support, a better value is tough, if not impossible, to come by.

Chuck Fleming, Sales Manager Sunflower Mfg. Co., Inc

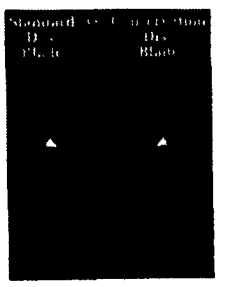
If tillage is managed properly it is less costly than chemical farming and will reduce environmental risk.

Sunflower has manufactured equipment designed specifically for residue management on the Plains for over 35 years. Currently that same theory is being adopted throughout the corn belt in an effort to comply with Government regulations. Many have attempted to comply by eliminating tillage and pouring on the chemicals. This method proves to be costly and results in a reduction of yields over several years. On the contrary, we feel if tillage is managed properly it is less costly than chemical farming and will reduce environmental risk. We do not advocate tillage practices where precious topsoil is lost. Sunflower builds quality tillage tools that will let you till into compliance.

Residue management programs are going to become a big part of our future. As stewards of the land we need to weigh the differences in management practices and remember, tillage promotes a safer environment for tomorrow.

Approaching the Compliance Deadline.

The Government Conservation Compliance Standards go into effect January 1, 1995. This means highly erodible land must meet terrace and waterway requirements and the ability of farmers to properly manage residue will become a requirement too. The American Farmer will face soil management responsibilities never before encountered. A high percentage of the conventional tillage methods will need to be replaced with Mulch Tillage. This method requires tools that incorporate the necessary options, features and adjustments allowing residue levels to be managed into compliance. To avoid the destruction of expensive terraces during tillage operations it will be necessary for the tools to be flexible too. At Sunflower, our entire line of equipment is designed to work terraces and manage residue. We grew up on the arid Hi-Plains and have always had to manage residue, moisture and soil. Because of this, we back every machine we build with over 35 years experience in residue and soil management.



What are the benefits of conservation disc blades?

As the amount of residue required increases in most farm programs new equipment options are going to be needed to stay in compliance. Sunflower now offers the "conservation" blade for all discs. This lower concavity disc will: 1.) reduce the amount of weight needed to penetrate the ground. 2.) cover less residue, 3.) create less compaction and 4.) require less horsepower to pull. All Sunflower discs are available with either standard disc blades or can be equipped with the conservation blades (both shown at the left). For more information on these blades call us at 1-800-748-8481.

Over 35 years of manufacturing top quality residue managing tillage tools and backing them with a dedicated sales and service organization.

3 YEAR LIMITED WARRANTY

Quality and Service... the standard at Sunflower.

At Sunflower, we have built a loyal following of customers through our quality products and highly qualified service organization. Simply stated, we stand solidly behind every product we build and pride ourselves in the fact that a high percentage of our customers are repeat Sunflower buyers. This level of customer acceptance and satisfaction motivated us to implement our 3-year limited warranty. Every product we build is covered by this program and is an example of the strong level of confidence we have in the line. When a company has this much faith in their product you can be sure you're buying quality and expertise. All of this quality and expertise is backed by a highly qualified staff of service personnel that you can rely on. We know the importance of quality and service and have dedicated over 45 years in developing the expertise required to produce the best tillage equipment money can buy. Isn't it time you give us a try?

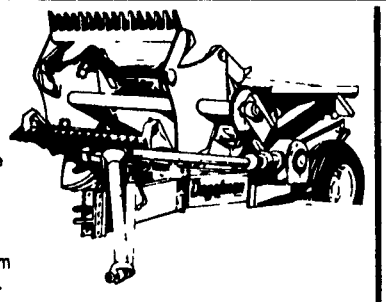
A hardworking reel type picker ideal for field piling. Picks gravel-size stones to boulders in continuous picking action, then dumps them conveniently and easily.



Prong Type

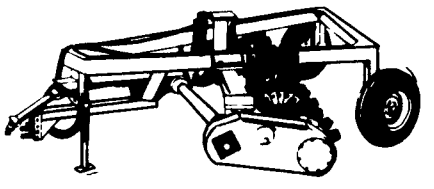
ROCK RAKE

The Degelman Rock Rake is designed to windrow small to medium sized rocks and other ground debris for easy picking. Rock-free fields mean less down-time, greater profits.



TIME IS MONEY

and when your equipment is down, it costs you plenty.

That's why Dengelman engineered farm implements are a wise investment.

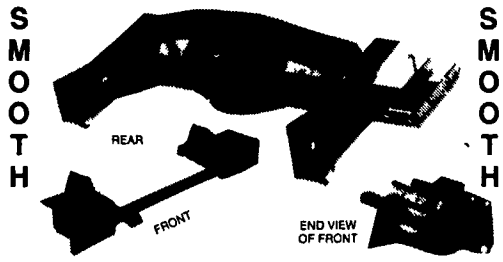
SMOOTH



SMOOTH

Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system.

Optional 12 volt compressor allows changing air pressure setting on the go.

Currently available for front and rear suspension in Dodge Series 250 & 350 trucks. Available soon for Dodge Dakota models.

Also available for some Ford, Chevy, and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes. This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

IXL
Anti-friction Metal Conditioner

Efficiency is our Newest Resource

Science brings a new dimension to Anti-Friction

A metal conditioner product ahead of its time, IXL will give your equipment priceless protection. IXL gives protection far superior to just oil or lubricants. IXL is specifically designed to be used in: (NEW) and (USED) gasoline & diesel engines, compressors, automatic & manual transmissions, hydraulics, gear boxes, bearings of all types, turbos, pumps, and much more. IXL is a metal conditioner which treats all ferrous metals 3 to 5 microns deep, thereby making the metal surfaces harder, denser and smoother. These results are minimum metal wear, giving maximum engine and machine life. IXL reduces heat, friction, and wear, up to 75% without changing tolerances, reducing friction will release energy previously expended to overcome ordinary mechanical resistance. This energy is now available as a positive force, working to increase power, performance and fuel savings. IXL, also helps maintain and recondition seals and gaskets, by keeping these items pliable, firm, and flexible. It will help prevent leaks, IXL is not a lubricant fortifier, such as PTFE, Moly, or graphite. IXL is biodegradable, NON-TOXIC and environmentally safe. IXL is one of the highest quality products on the market today.

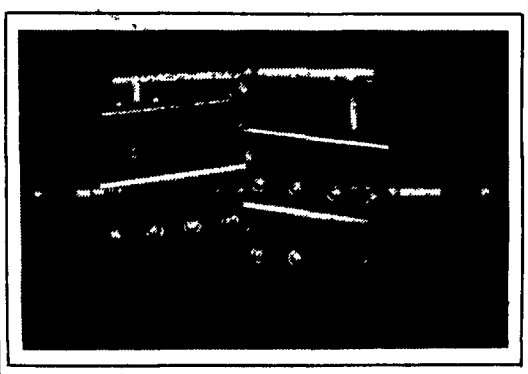
THE CLAAS HARVESTER

RELIABILITY

The CLAAS Cutterbox is a unique balanced design using 2 knives in a V configuration. This forces the cutting action toward the center instead of the outside. This is the secret of their low horsepower requirement and good quality of cut.

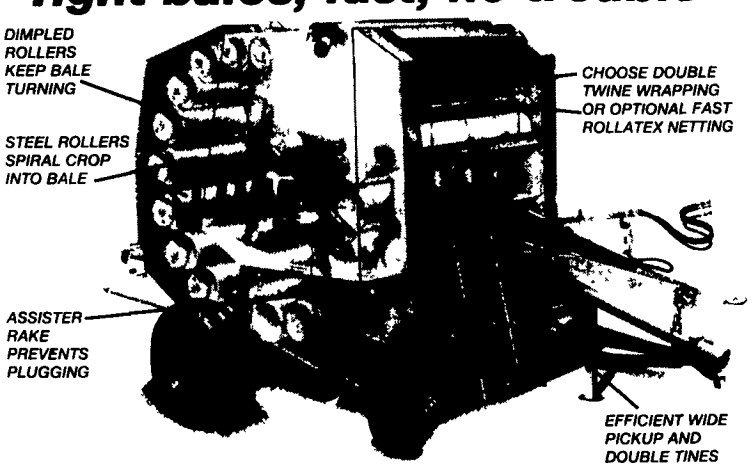


MAXIMUM FEED QUALITY

To ensure maximum feed quality from maize it is vital to crack every kernel. Digestion of uncracked maize falls as the maize becomes drier. Independent trials have shown the Claas corn cracker to be close to 100% effective. From the cylinder the corn passes through the two large diameter rollers with saw tooth profiles. The rollers run at different speeds to intensify the grinding effect and open up each kernel. It is a fairly tough process so the latest generation of corn crackers take account of the wear involved on the rollers. Nothing can reduce the wear but Claas have cut the cost of repair by making the outer sleeve replaceable. The shaft, drive pulley and bearings can all be reused which cuts down repair bills dramatically. Adjusting the distance between the two rollers is accomplished by turning two handles, easily accessible behind the cab. In no time at all the degree of cracking can be matched to the ripeness of the crop.

Owners say:

"Tight bales, fast, no trouble"



DIMPLED ROLLERS KEEP BALE TURNING
STEEL ROLLERS SPIRAL CROP INTO BALE
ASSISTER RAKE PREVENTS PLUGGING
CHOOSE DOUBLE TWINE WRAPPING OR OPTIONAL FAST ROLLATEX NETTING

NEW 6000 SERIES TRACTORS...

NEW 600 SERIES LOADERS... GREAT NEWS

Your hydraulic power needs vary from one loader job to the next. So we built a new hydraulic system for new 6000 Series Tractors that varies pressure and flow to match your demand. If you need a big flow of oil, you'll get it... the 16 gpm main pump provides maximum pressure up to 2900 psi. You get exactly the response you need, fed to the fastest cycling, most productive new loaders we've ever built.

Come see us for more details.

Get Comforting Heat and Efficiency.

The Mahoning Outdoor Multi-Fuel Furnaces provide thermostat controlled heat by economically burning wood, coal or fuel oil. The furnace is placed 25-100 feet outside the structure to be heated; connections between the furnace and building are buried underground. Wood or coal is the primary burning fuel lasting 8-12 hours in the furnace. For convenient, automatic firing the separate oil burner combustion chamber can provide heat until wood or coal burning is desired. Both Wood/Coal & the Fuel Oil burners are enclosed to heat the same water tank The purpose of the firebox is to heat the water-filled tank surrounding the outside unit, this heated water is then circulated through underground pipes into your home A heating coil is installed inside your existing heat system The thermostat controls the blower which picks the heat off the coils and delivers warm air through existing ducts and registers There are safeties which eliminate the danger of over-pressurizing the system and automatic shutdown in case of a power failure The Mahoning Outdoor Furnace can also be connected to an existing hydronic heating system, that operates at 180° F or less, using fin tube baseboard, cast iron radiators or hanging hydronic heaters Only the thermostat and heating coils are installed inside your home, eliminating open fire dangers, smoke, dust and messy kindling wood boxes Adjust the thermostat for the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace to your comfort setting and it automatically controls the water pump and blower to circulate heat to your home You may set the thermostat for your existing heat system to back-up the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace when not in operation or in case the firebox is left to burn out An Aquastat senses the temperature of the water in the outside unit and automatically adjusts the combustion rate to maintain the correct temperature (normally 180 degrees).

Hot Water too...!

A Mahoning Outdoor Furnace is a heat exchanger. By running a cold water line from your home to the outside unit, fresh household cold water can be heated and returned to the hot water plumbing in the house A tempering valve adjusts the hot water at the faucets to a range of 120° to 160°. This boiler system will adapt to any existing plumbing Heat your pool & hot tub with energy generated by a Mahoning Outdoor Furnace!

Approved for Natural or LP Gas
Heat Your Home, Farm or Commercial Buildings with Mahoning Outdoor Furnaces

Safe - Efficient - Durable

Look at what makes the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace a great purchase...

CLEAN. All dirt, dust, fuel and fire is outside No chance of chimney fire or flue fire ELIMINATES AIR POLLUTION IN THE HOME. Smoke, fuel odors and other causes of allergies are outside the home.
SAFE FOR MOBILE HOMES. Eliminate a danger that other furnaces contained in a mobile home can cause.
NO DANGER OF EXPLOSION. This is a zero pressure furnace.
ENCLOSED COMPONENTS. The circulation pumps and electrical connections are enclosed in an insulated cabinet on the back of the Mahoning Outdoor Furnace.
ADAPTABLE. Install our furnace in any forced air heating or hot water system
OUTSIDE SHAKER HANDLES. Coal burning and ash removal made easy.

• CATALYTIC COMBUSTOR •

With the aid of Corning Company, we were able to design a catalytic combuster unit that is proven to provide the following:
1) Cut emissions by 90%.
2) Improve burning efficiency by 50%.
3) Efficiency rating of 83 to 85%.
4) Makes furnace more user friendly & neighborhood acceptable.
5) No more smoke belching!
6) Use 1/3 less wood to heat your home!

Dairy Tips By Dr. Randy Lyle, Ph.D.

Purina Mills Dairy Consultant

WHAT ARE THE NUTRIENT REQUIREMENTS OF COWS?

by Dr. Randy Lyle

A dairyman recently asked me "why can't feed companies or universities agree on what to feed my cows?" His sincere tone revealed a serious desire to understand why there are so many different opinions on how and what to feed cows.

I explained that there are no universally accepted nutrient requirements for lactating cows, nor are there absolute values that quantitate the nutritional value of feedstuffs. Even though the NRC (National Research Council) has published nutrient recommendations for all types of livestock, these values still must be used as GUIDELINES, not as ABSOLUTE REQUIREMENTS. Furthermore, feed companies, such as Purina Mills, have researched nutrient requirements of cows for years, and have established their own set of nutrient requirements, which may be quite different from those used by others.

The same applies to the nutritional value of feedstuffs. There are no universally accepted values. Although the NRC APPROXIMATES the nutritional value of feedstuffs for cows, these values are NOT ABSOLUTE. Purina Mills has been measuring nutritional values of feedstuffs for cows since 1925, and has its own extensive data base. This information is obviously not shared within the industry, and our values may differ from those used by others.

Why isn't there agreement on what to feed cows? Because universal nutrient requirements of cows, and universal nutrient content of feedstuffs, do not exist! Therein lies the reason for disagreement.

Farmers' Association Holds Annual Banquet

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — The Ephrata Area Young and Adult Farmers' Association (EAYFA) held its 24th annual awards banquet at the Mt. Airy Fire Hall.

The event was attended by 180 members, spouses, and guests. The program included greetings from Pennsylvania Association President Duane Kling of Union County and Cloister FFA President Courtney Myers.

New officers were installed by Kling, retiring officers were honored, and music selections were provided by Cindi Garber. Numerous door prizes donated by area agribusinesses were presented.

Awards chairman Marvin Sauder assisted with the presentation of the following awards:

• Outstanding Young Farmer Under 30 - Clair M. Beyer. Clair Beyer and his wife Lois reside at 305 Middle Creek Road, Lititz. Their farming operation consists of 78 cows and 24 replacement heifers. They farm 90 acres of corn, 60 acres of alfalfa and 15 acres of barley. They are members of the Indiantown Mennonite Church.

• Outstanding Young Farmer Over 30 - Philip E. Risser. Philip and his wife Lisa and their 2-year-old son, Brad, reside at 400 Shreiner Road, Leola. Their dairy operation consists of 60 cows and 50-60 dairy replacement heifers. They farm a total of 100 acres, which consists of corn and alfalfa. Risser is a graduate of Penn State, where he received his bachelor's. He continued his education at the University of Wisconsin, where he received his master's in agricultural engineering. Before returning to the home farm, he worked for Case I H in Chicago for three years. The Rissers attend a Lutheran church in Lancaster.

• EAYFA Advisor Award - Charles E. Ackley. Charles Ackley was honored by retiring president Nevin S. Horning for helping to organize the Ephrata Young Farmer Chapter more than 25 years ago and for serving as the charter advisor since 1968. Ackley will be retiring from the Ephrata Area School District in June 1993 after serving as a vocational agriculture teacher for the past 31 years.

• Appreciation Award - Delores Lynch. Lynch is chairman of the Ephrata Area School District special education department. As a special-ed teacher, she does many creative things for her students. Lynch and her students, for the past years, have presented a swap meet. Items for the swap meet were donated by the students and teachers and others in the school district. The profits from this educational experience enabled the students to take field trips and have a fun day at Zinn's park. Clothing not sold from this event was given to the Bowery Mission in New York and to an Indian reservation camp. Her students at Thanksgiving time had the experience to prepare and cook a turkey. Lynch also helps her students, the ones active in the Boy Scouts, to find community service projects so they can get their Merit Badge. Lynch and her students help the young farmer chapter by stapling, folding, and stuffing envelopes for the newsletter.

Lynch was graduated from Albright College, where she met her husband, Claude. The Lynchs are the parents of two children and have one grandchild. They also are members of and are active at the St. James Episcopal Church in Lancaster.

• Appreciation Award - Thomas D. Grater. Grater was the executive director of the Ephrata Recreation Center for 37 years, retiring in March 1992. Grater was graduated from Reading High School in 1946. His next three years were spent in the Navy, where he was honorably discharged. Then he went to East Stroudsburg University, where he graduated cum laude and later in 1987 was inducted into that University's Hall of Fame. Grater then went to Penn State University to achieve his master's in recreation administration, graduating in 1955. He then worked for the Reading Recreation Department several months before coming to Ephrata. Grater was the recipient of many awards, including national, state, and locally. As director of the Recreation Center, his jobs were planning and operating outdoor pools, parks, playgrounds and maintaining all recreation land and those contracted with the Ephrata Boro and the school district. Grater assisted Ackley and the Ephrata Fair Committee in starting Tent City activities. During Ephrata Fair week, he helped the chapter and tent city committees as a coordinator between the chapter and the Ephrata Boro. Tom and his wife Bonnie have two sons and are active members of the Bergstrausse Lutheran Church.

FPPF Polar Power

Keeps Your Diesel Running In The Worst Winter Cold!

Fuel filters, separators do nothing to keep diesel fuel from the waxing or gelling that blocks up and clogs fuel lines and filters.

FPPF Polar Power contains FPPF's Fuel Power and FPPF's Polarized Diesel Fuel Flow Improver, the industry's leaders. It will keep your diesel running in the worst winter cold: lowering the pour-point, totally dispersing water, eliminating gum/varnish...outperforming all other additives and at lower cost.

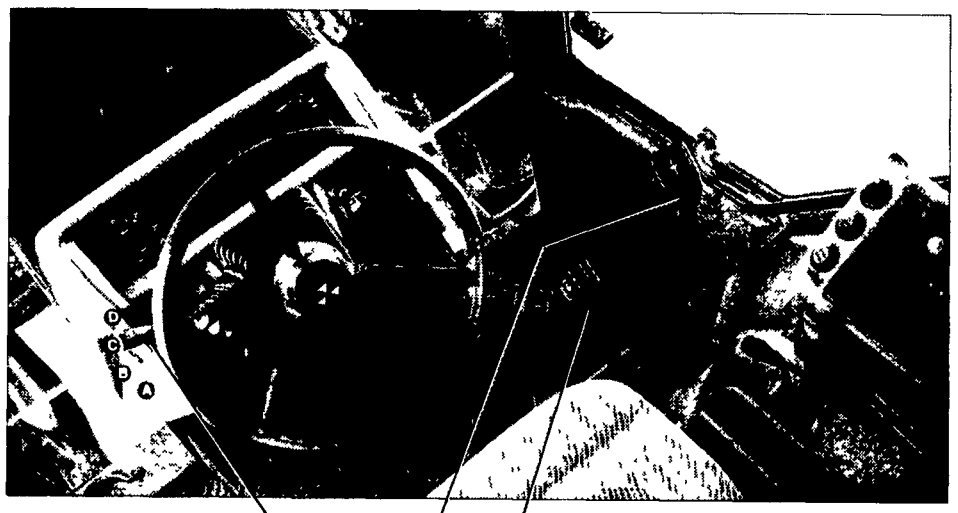
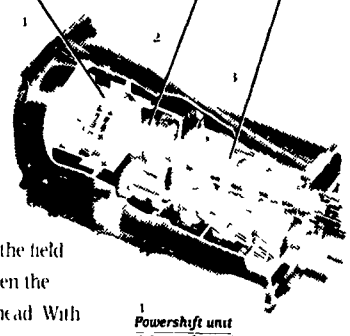
Your shift has come in.





Sitting in your Silent Revolution cab you hardly hear the big diesel purring in anticipation as you turn into the field.

Lower the implement. Open the throttle. You literally surge ahead. With over 92% of available power being delivered to the wheels, you're moving faster and more efficiently than conventional powershift tractors.

Suddenly a tough spot lugs you down. Without taking your hand off the wheel or your eyes off the implement, you flick the Dynashift™ lever from C to B range.

2 Reverse shuttle provides synchronized forward/reverse shifts in any gear

3 Main gearbox delivers eight base gears for a total of 32 speeds when combined with the four powershift ranges

There's no jerk. Just a smooth, ideal 17% downshift to power you through.

End of the field. Flick the Dynashift lever up to D. Again, no lurches or jerks. Just smooth, positive acceleration.

Amazing, you think. That a transmission this advanced could also be so simple and reliable."

Test cruise a Dynashift today in selected MF 3600 Series tractors at your nearby Massey Ferguson dealer.

• Outstanding Poultry Award - Floyd W. High. Floyd and his wife, Jane, live at 1480 Diamond Station Rd. Ephrata. Last year, with six different flocks, he sold 283,069 broilers, which amounted to 1,350,200 pounds of meat. On a six-flock average, High placed 18 out of 97 growers on production cost per pound. High was a pioneer in disposing of dead poultry by composting. This method of disposing of dead chickens was featured in Lancaster Farming. He also gave a lecture on this subject to the Young Farmer group and to other groups around the state.

• Outstanding Hog Producer - James D. Hess. James and his wife Carolyn are the parents of two children, Jamie and Jill, and live at 825 E. Newport Road, Lititz. Their farming operation consists of beef production, poultry, and swine. Last year they finished 660 hogs three times a year for a total of 1980 hogs. When Hess was planning his hog operation, he had to educate neighbors and township officials that his operation would be safe to the environment. He farms corn, soybeans, barley, and a few acres of alfalfa.

Corn Awards

• Grain - Clark R. Stauffer. Clark Stauffer won first place with 193.22 bushels per acre. The variety was Pioneer 3241. He had a total of 75 acres of corn.

• Daryl L. Martion was second with 190.56 bushels per acre. The variety was Pioneer 3293. He farms 600 acres of corn.

• Corn Silage - Tom Zartman had 23.5 ton per acre, 11,291 total digestable nutrients per acre. The variety was Dekalb 646. He had 300 acres of corn.

Other Awards

• Active Member Award - Vernon J. Leininger. Leininger has served the chapter in the past as president and secretary. He also represented the chapter at many National Young Farmer Institutes and served various times as delegate at State Young Farmer conventions. On the state level, he was a regional outstanding young farmer. When the 1981 National Young Farmer Convention was held in Lancaster, he served as the finance chairman. When Leininger's new house was completed, he hosted our chapter's monthly meeting. Leininger and his wife live at 1080 West Rt. 897, Reinholds.

• Outstanding Produce Production Award - Clark R. Stauffer. Clark and his wife, Lucy and family live at 548 Stevens Rd., Ephrata. Clark's vegetable production consists of tomatoes, sweet corn, canteloupes, watermelons, peppers, cucumbers, zucchini, pumpkins, and Indian corn. They market their produce at a stand along Stevens Road and also supply several grocery stores. Their surplus goes to the Leola Produce Market.

• Community Service Award - Warren F. Bollinger. Warren and his wife, Jean, live at 601 S. Fairview Rd. Lititz. Ephrata Young Farmer's organization remembers Bollinger as the chapter's first president, which was 25 years ago. Now a retired farmer, Bollinger gave many hours of his time for the community. During the Ephrata Fair week, he works hard with the other committee members at the young farmer refreshment stand. He is also active in his church, Middlecreek Church of the Brethren, where he serves as the head deacon.

Dairy Awards

• Top Herd In Milk, Fat and Protein - Nevin S. Horning. Horning's herd of cows had an average of 23,547 pounds of milk, 707 pounds of protein, and 858 pounds of butterfat. This herd also had the highest increase in butterfat, with 95 pounds last year. The herd consists of 50 cows and 40 replacement heifers. To get this outstanding production, he feeds a TMR feed. He is assisted in this operation with the help of his wife, Denise. They are the parents of one daughter.

• Second Herd in Milk, Fat and Protein - Robert D. Fox. Fox's herd of cows had an average of 22,761 pounds of milk, 697 pounds of protein, and 834 pounds of butterfat. The herd consists of 60 cows and 40 replacement heifers. They also feed a TMR feed. Robert and his wife, Ruth, have two sons and one daughter.

Cows, Dairy Farmers, University Interdependent

GEORGE F. W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — I get a lot of mail from around the country. Traditional and new-style farmers alike write for information on how to succeed in the dairy business.

It used to be that inquiries came only from counties in Delaware.

But today my home county, New Castle — which not too many years ago was the dairy county in the state — now grows houses, not cows.

Only three dairy herds remain and one of those belongs to the University of Delaware.

Some years ago, I initiated a research project called "Dairy Farming in Urban Proximity."

Back then it was the growing city of Newark and the attendant suburban sprawl that concerned us on the farm. We questioned if we would have enough land to grow crops to feed our dairy cows in the most inexpensive way, a message we continually preached to farmers throughout the state.

With time, we were forced to give up more and more acreage.

We were faced with another dilemma: how to spread the manure from our cows and heifers without disturbing our encroaching suburban neighbors.

Although they were the new kids on the block, they suddenly had more rights about clean air than the long-established farmers. Never mind that we farmers produced the cheap food they enjoyed in greater abundance than any other nation on Earth, they wanted clean air, and the courts backed them up.

The once nationally known dairy state of New Jersey and its state university no longer enjoy this kind of prominence.

Other universities are headed in the same direction, and once-famous dairy herds are disappearing.

What about the ag students? They go to the library to look at videotapes about how it was. During semester breaks are they making up for the lack of hands-on practice? Very few do. More often students go where they can make money instead of gaining farming and dairy experience.

When I came to this country in 1951, dairy farmers in New Castle County were a strong, supportive force for the university. They came often to see the dean of the college to express their concerns. He visited their farms and he listened. The university cared about these farmers, providing them with much-needed service and advice.

New crop varieties were developed at the college farm and new farm practices tried. The first artificial insemination station in this region (now known as the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative in Lancaster, Pa.) was started at our university dairy farm in 1942 by extension specialist Delmar Young and Dr. Symington, a veterinarian.

The university farm, together with neighboring dairy farms, was a frequently used, vital teaching place and laboratory for agriculture students.

Recognizing the importance of this work, Delaware dairy farmers in 1952 donated a new dairy barn and a dozen cows to establish the Guernsey herd for teaching purposes. This was in addition to the existing Holstein herd that was used for research.

At that time, the college had already enjoyed a close working relationship for more than 60 years with the famous Winterthur Holstein herd of Col Henry Du-Pont in Wilmington.

Where I grew up in Germany, prospective agriculture students had to pass a two-year practical experience on certified farms before they could enroll in college.

For years Cornell University had a similar requirement.

Even today, prospective veterinary students applying to Cornell come back to us for hands-on milking training before Cornell accepts them. Yet in our own Delaware curriculum we have never required that level of practical experience.

Some of our students come to the university farm to practice at the dairy during and between semesters. But where does this leave our students if urban expansion succeeds in pushing the dair herd off their few remainin pastures.

Suburban sprawl is no longe the encroacher. Today, universit building programs and sport complexes eat up more of the un versity farm than housin developments.

The dairy cows that graze th pastures around the college sym bolize the very meaning of a agricultural institution. They serv as a reassuring reminder to th suburban population of their rura roots.

Our dairy cows, visible from the main highway, represent a pas toral past, a way of life that many of us cherish in memory and even long to return to. They also remind us of where our most precious food comes from, real food, natural food, our most safe, sanitary and wholesome dairy food, and the best source of critical calcium.

If these cows are pushed onto a small concrete slab, removed from their natural pastures, or if they are moved out of sight, 70 miles down the road, away from the highly prized land, then this agricultural college will cease to be.

Our students will become biology scientists and our faculty will have lost the connection to and support of dairy farmers in the region and the state.

It will mean the end of what once was a close and supportive relationship.

Because in recent years budge

• Highest Increase in Milk and Protein - Marvin R. Sauder. The Sauder herd of cows increased 1,936 pounds of milk and 42 pounds of protein. This herd also had the three-year highest increase with 3,736 milk, 113 butterfat, and 103 protein. The herd's 1992 average was 21,672 milk, 660 protein, and 800 butterfat. The herd consists of 42 cows and 32 replacement heifers. The feeding program last year included complete feed and corn silage, haylage, and alfalfa hay. Marvin and his wife, Betty, are the parents of two sons and two daughters.

New officers are president, David M. Smith; president elect., Philip E. Risser; secretary, Vernon Leininger; treasurer, Nevin S. Horning; and publications, John R. Zimmerman. Advisor is Charles Ackley.

CHICAGO, Ill. — State soil and water conservation leaders met here recently to determine which path at the crossroads the federal, state, and local conservation agencies should follow.

The national meeting, "Conservation at A Crossroads," was organized by the National Association of Conservation Districts, the National Association of State Conservation Agencies, and the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

Increasing public concerns over the environment have put added pressure on these agencies to develop a strong partnership that can deliver the natural resource conservation services demanded by the public.

Representing Pennsylvania at the meeting was Robert E. Wagner, chairman of the Lancaster County Conservation District and president of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts.

Each state reported on the primary challenges facing their conservation team. Common concerns expressed were funding at the state and local level, setting conservation program priorities with less funding and increased responsibilities, opening communications between the partnership, marketing the conservation ethic as well as services, and deciding how to organize to provide those services to a changing, more urban customer.

Representatives from policy planning, environmental, and private sector organizations encouraged the state leaders to look at the changes being thrust upon them as opportunities to expand and improve natural resource services. They were advised to listen to society and to develop services that meet the needs of a diverse constituency, including more urban-oriented interests.

When the state teams met in small discussion groups, they collectively identified the need for a more holistic, or total resource management, approach when setting the conservation agenda for the future. They believe future conservation programs must be more incentive-driven with a strong voluntary approach that included a regulatory backup system, for possible "bad actors."

The Pennsylvania conservation team came away from the meeting with a stronger level of commitment and trust in their ability to meet growing natural resource conservation issues in the state.

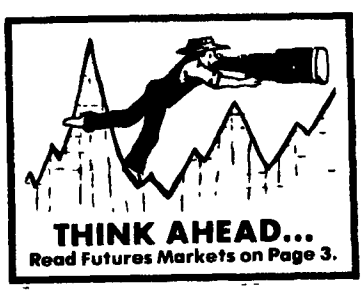
What does this mean for the American public? The common vision shared by each conservation partner is to maintain a productive nation in harmony with a quality environment.

Annual Tree Seeding Sale

The Lancaster County Conservation District is again sponsoring a beautification conservation project in the form of a Tree Seedling Sale.

The goal is to try to improve Lancaster County's beautiful environment.

For more information, call the district at (717) 299-5361.



Pa. Farmers Increase Conservation Practices

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State farmers' efforts to comply with a federal law are protecting Pennsylvania's soil and beautifying its landscape.

Farmers are installing conservation practices such as stripcropping in record numbers to comply with the 1985 and 1990 Farm Bills, said Richard Duncan, state conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in Harrisburg.

The farm bills require farmers to install the practices in their conservation plan by Dec. 31, 1994, or lose eligibility for U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) farm program benefits.

Stripcropping is often listed in farmers' conservation plan as an erosion-control measure, Duncan said. Pennsylvania farmers installed nearly 50,000 acres of stripcropping on cropland in fiscal 1992, a three-fold increase over the previous fiscal year.

With this visually attractive practice, strips of grass or close-growing crops are alternated with cultivated crops such as corn on the land's contour or across the slope. This practice conserves water, soil and fertilizer; increases cover variety for wildlife; and reduces fuel consumption.

Pennsylvania farmers also are using other practices such as diversions, waterways, terraces, crop residue management and pasture management to protect their fragile cropland.

SCS employees have helped these farmers apply conservation practices on nearly 1.1 million acres of this land so far, Duncan said. Financial assistance is available to apply practices from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and the Farmers Home Administration.

Edwards Named NALF Executive V.P.

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Dr. John Edwards has been named executive vice president of the North American Limousin Foundation (NALF) in Englewood, Colo.

One of the most respected animal science educators in the United States, he has taught at the university level for 15 years, most recently at Texas A&M University.

"He brings a wealth of experience in all phases of the beef industry to this position, along with tremendous ability to communicate with our membership and other industry leaders," said Tom Stewman, NALF president.

In the position, Edwards will be responsible for directing the programs and operations of an organization that represents the fastest growing major beef breed in the United States, and the third largest major beef breed in the nation, based on annual registrations.

"I'm excited about coming to this position because I've had a high regard for Limousin cattle for a number of years, based on the inherent strengths of the breed," said Edwards.

Edwards said, "This is a tremendous opportunity to work with a great breed of cattle and an outstanding group of breeders who are committed to improving the breed and its position within the industry."

He emphasizes that Limousin breeders and the NALF board of directors are committed to involvement in the total beef industry. They believe every effort to improve the total industry is rewarded with increased opportunity for Limousin.

"Our breed continues to grow at a record pace," said Stewman, "With John's guidance and direction, we should accelerate the development of a breed of cattle that has unlimited potential in this country."

To Chair Subcommittee

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Sen. Harris Wofford was recently elected to chair the Small Business Subcommittee on Export Expansion and Agricultural Development.

He was also appointed to the Senate Small Business Subcommittee on Urban and Minority-Owned Business Development.

"Since agriculture is Pennsylvania's number one industry, I'm especially pleased to have been elected chairman of the Export Expansion and Agricultural Development Subcommittee. The subcommittee's purpose is to ensure that we're doing the best possible job in helping small businesses compete and expand in foreign markets.

"Strengthening the competitiveness of Pennsylvania agriculture is essential to maintaining a strong rural economy," Wofford said. "Chairing this subcommittee will allow me to address some of the pressing business issues affecting Pennsylvania farmers and food processors.

"Since I came to the Senate, I've put the concerns of Pennsylvania farmers, from drought assistance to trade policy, at the top of my agenda. This subcommittee now gives us a new forum for Pennsylvania's rural communities to air their concerns and let those of us in Congress know how government can serve them better."

Ag Budget To Increase, While Taxes Stay Level

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff today told farmers that Gov. Robert P. Casey's proposed state budget increases state support for agriculture by more than 6 percent without any tax increases.

"The bottom line is this budget is good for farmers because there are no new taxes, and because it provides increased funding for programs that benefit agriculture," Wolff said.

The Governor's budget provides an increase of nearly 9 percent in funding to operate the Department of Agriculture, and it provides $289,000 for a new effort that will increase testing for pseudorabies and Johnes.

"I am also pleased that it provides additional funding to operate Pennsylvania's Farmland Preservation Program, and more for county fairs and for the equine toxicology laboratory in West Chester."

The new budget provides $500,000 more for a program that helps needy mothers purchase fresh fruits and vegetables at Pennsylvania farmers' markets.

"The Farmers' Market Nutrition Program expects to serve more than 33,000 pregnant and breast-feeding mothers who are clients of the Women, Infants, and Children Program in Pennsylvania this year," Wolff said.

"The increase in state funding will permit more Pennsylvania farmers to provide high quality nutrition to needy mothers and their children."

The Farmers Market Nutrition Program (FMNP) permits clients of the Women, Infants, and Children Program (WIC) to purchase fruits and vegetables from 500 farmers who participate in direct marketing through 153 farmers' markets in Pennsylvania.

ADC Pays

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative on Feb. 1 distributed $2.8 million in patronage refunds to members, according to Evan L. Fineman, treasurer.

The payout to Atlantic members was based on the amount of milk each member sold during the 1987 fiscal year.

Atlantic distributes its patronage refunds on a five-year revolving schedule. This schedule is one of the most aggressive among dairy cooperatives, according to Fineman.

"The success of Atlantic has allowed us to get money back to our members faster than other dairy cooperatives," he said.

Atlantic Dairy Cooperative represents more than 3,500 dairy farm families in Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia.

Look At Soil Organics Before Considering Fertilizer Use

ANDY ANDREWS

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — CEC.

No, it's not some government agency. It's not the name of some committee, nor is it a measurement of time.

Actually, it's an acronym for "cation exchange capacity." In other words, it's terminology used in your soil test report to show the nutrient and moisture-holding capacities of your soil.

The CEC measurement is listed on the first page of your Penn State soil test report under "Laboratory Results" in the middle column. Look for it. Because if the CEC is under 15, you may have to add organic matter allow your crops, including any shade trees you may have, to grow.

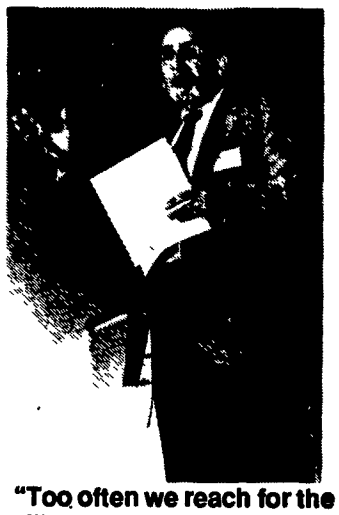
"Too often we reach for the fertilizer bags before we look at other problems," said Dr. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture, Penn State, at the 28th annual Shade Tree Symposium at the Host Resort last week.

Nuss spoke about the importance of obtaining, understanding, and utilizing soil test results.

He outlined the soil reports prepared for horticulturists, landscape personnel, tree farmers, and others at the symposium by the Penn State Merkle Laboratory in University Park.

The CEC reading can be used with other determinations, including soil pH and other micronutrient amounts, to plan the fertility program of your crop.

"Soil testing will tell you when you need fertilizer, but just as importantly, when you don't," said Nuss.



"Too often we reach for the fertilizer bags before we look at other problems," said Dr. Robert Nuss, professor of ornamental horticulture, Penn State, at the 28th annual Shade Tree Symposium at the Host Resort last week.

Nuss said that tree growers should become familiar with the nutrient needs of particular plants (some need greater or lower pH, depending on species) and the soil they are grown in.

If growers are experiencing problems, they must understand that problems occur gradually. The death of a tree is a gradual response, and could be caused by many factors, some of which intermesh.

It's important to remember also that fertilizer helps the tree make its own food. The food for the plant is made by the leaves, so it is important to look at leaf quality and vigor.

Step by step, Nuss went over all the important details to fill in when obtaining a test report, available at all extension offices for $6. Nuss explained the importance of filling in the correct information about the site and obtaining a true composite sample of the soil to be tested.

Also, Nuss showed those attending the symposium ways to read the recommendations and how to fix soil fertility problems.

He told those present that it takes time to make good plant materials, and "it won't happen overnight. It may takes weeks, months — it may take a year," he said.

He cautioned not to depend on using foliar treatments to solve long-term problems. Solid materials applied to the soil itself are necessary.

"The plant is a mirror image of problems in the soil itself," said Nuss. He said the soil test will help solve problems, and is "only as good as you make it."

42 State Ag Projects Receive Funds

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Forty-two agricultural research projects have been funded by the State Department of Agriculture for the current fiscal year, according to Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff.

The contracts, mostly for three-year projects, were awarded to The Pennsylvania State University, University of Pennsylvania, Delaware Valley College and Rodale Research Institute.

They were selected by the Ag Research Committee, comprised of House and Senate Agriculture Committee members and representatives from the State Department of Agriculture.

A research advisory committee reviews suggestions for research projects each year from the state's agricultural organizations.

Four separate projects are nearing completion. They include Post-Harvest Fruit Loss (Penn State, $209,838), Peach Adaptation in Pennsylvania (DVC, $29,900), Greenhouse IPM (Penn State, $34,380), and Insecticide Usage for Potato Pests (Penn State, $28,825).

The new research projects are:

MILK CHECK

THOMAS JURCHAK
Dairy Specialist
Lackawanna County

New Year - New Prices

SCRANTON (Lackawanna Co.) — Nearly all forecasters are predicting lower milk prices in 1993, but so far the market seems to be struggling to hang on to 1992, reluctant to let go because it's not sure what's ahead.

Will things be as bad as the worst predictions or better than the best?

As we reported last month, cheese prices slumped 4 cents on Dec. 4 to $1.20 for blocks, but then held right in there for five weeks before losing only 1 cent on Jan. 8.

Barrels fell 3 cents to $1.14, but more was expected. Even that sale of 98,000 pounds of cheese to the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) we reported was cancelled by the Western processor who offered it.

Powder prices began to show some new strength from increased export demands and even butter markets tightened, replacing fluid cream for some processors.

And there certainly was no shortage of milk supplies.

With many fluid plants shut down over Christmas and New Year, making two back to back long weekends, milk was traveling from Florida and the Northeast all the way to Wisconsin to find a processing plant to take it.

But it wasn't just the holidays. You're on a roll of seven consecutive months of production increases over the previous year with no end in sight without some natural disaster.

If the snow storms in the Mid West and the floods in California will make a difference, it hasn't shown up yet.

On The Other Hand

But you didn't have to look far for the falling milk prices that will show up on your milk check as predicted.

The Minnesota-Wisconsin Price Series took its worst shot since last February, falling 50 cents in December to $11.34. That's still 36 cents better than the $10.98 low of last March, but 76 cents less than last December.

That makes for a total drop in price of $1.25 in the M-W from $12.59 in July. However, it is still less than the $2 drop in price you might expect with cheese prices falling 20 cents since July 31.

It means there's more of a drop to come, but predictions have softened as to when and how much.

The "how much" comes from Bob Yonkers at Penn State who said in December to expect a $2 drop on the M-W, down to $10.40. The "when" was predicted for March or April.

That $2 drop on the M-W just matches the 20-cent drop in cheese prices, and, if the dairy product prices hold, he would be right on target.

Looking Ahead

There are a number of things working in your favor now, plus a number of uncertainties. Some of those uncertainties will make a difference.

How's that for waffling?

The uncertainties are administrative decisions from USDA. The question is, which administration will make them.

The decisions which must be made concern the make-allowance on butter, powder and cheese in California. The West Coast processors are now allowed to make more of those products than producers in other areas, and it gives those California processors an advantage on sales to CCC.

There's also uncertainty as to what will be used as the replacement for the M-W price in calculating class prices that handlers pay under federal orders.

Then there is the tilt in butter and powder support prices, a tilt that would raise powder and lower butter and may drop the butterfat differential down to close to 6 cents.

And even though the sale of cheddar cheese to CCC was PROWL® Knocks Triazine-Resistant Weeds On Their Ear. For $5 An Acre Less.

PROWL® herbicide handles the toughest triazine-resistant weeds in corn, like pigweed, lambsquarters and kochia. Other tough grasses and broadleaf weeds like foxtails, velvetleaf* and woolly cupgrass* are also controlled all season long with PROWL. Plus, PROWL® herbicide costs about $5 an acre less than Dual[1] or Lasso[2].

Con-till. No-till. Conventional. PROWL works in any tillage system and can be applied anytime after planting up to the four-leaf stage. Do NOT incorporate PROWL in corn.

Tank mix PROWL and get even broader-spectrum control for problem weeds like wild proso millet, shattercane and seedling Johnsongrass.

This season, for proven cost-effective control of grasses and broadleaf weeds in corn, put PROWL to work in your fields. It really packs a punch.

Working in your favor is the growth in the export market. Sales are up 67 percent over last year, much of which was subsidized through the Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP).

Last year, DEIP moved 1.6 billion pounds of milk equivalent out of the country for $733 million.

National Milk Producers Federation has estimated that these sales have added 55 cents to your milk price and that's even better than a 50-cent increase in the support price.

So count your blessings for the new year but keep an eye on your bank balance.

Opengart Offers Poultry Expertise

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. — Elanco Animal Health has named Dr. Ken Opengart as its technical consultant for poultry growers in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and North Carolina.

Opengart, who has been a technical consultant for Elanco since 1991, began his new responsibilities in July last year.

Opengart is one of only 100 diplomats of the American College of Poultry Veterinarians. He holds a doctorate in veterinary medical science and a DVM from Virginia-Maryland Regional College of Veterinary Medicine, as well as a master's of poultry science from Virginia Polytechnic & State University and a bachelor's in biology from the University of Richmond, Richmond, Va.

In his new position, Opengart

will continue sharing his expertise in poultry production with Elanco customers. Opengart brings to his duties a strong understanding of poultry nutrition, management, and disease interaction. He has a strong research background, having participated in numerous research studies.

Opengart was the recipient of an Award for Excellence in Graduate Research at the 63rd NECAD in 1991 and he has received the Reed Rumsey Award for Advancement in Avian Medicine.

Hoffman Seeds Offers Free Alfalfa Management Guide

LANDISVILLE — Hoffman Seeds is offering a free alfalfa management guide to Northeast alfalfa growers.

The 44-page publication is filled with helpful information ranging from stand establishment to production and harvesting. It also discusses critical issues affecting stand longevity, such as disease monitoring and insect control. Tables and charts offer information on topics such as recommended hay-making practices, spring and summer seeding dates, seeding depths, and relative feed value.

The guide is published by the American Society of Agronomy, Inc., and was jointly written by agronomists, soil scientists, entomologists, and pathologists from the universities of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

PDPP, Pizza Hut Join For Promotion

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Hockey fans are hearing the message to "Cheese It" this season, and participate in the "Power Play Pay-Off," held during all Hershey Bears' games.

The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and Pizza Hut have come together to sponsor this campaign for a second consecutive year.

The "Pay-Off" has already generated two grand prize winners. John Hicks, from Harrisburg, and Lyn Wallace, from Elliottsburg, have both won the contest's top prize, a Real cheese pizza party for four. Forty other Hershey Bears' fans have won prizes in the contest, medium Real cheese pizzas from Pizza Hut.

The contest is conducted through fan entries to the Bears Sports Network. Fans must send a postcard with their name, address, and telephone number, to the Bears network. Postcards should be directed to: "Power Play Pay-Off" Entry, Hershey Bears Radio Network, c/o Hershey Park Arena, Box 866, Hershey, PA, 17033.

One name will be drawn for each Hershey Bears' game to compete in the "Power Play Pay-Off" contest. If the Bears score two power-play goals in any one period of the game, the contestant wins a Real cheese pizza party for four.

Fans are encouraged to "choose the cheese on the home team," Real cheese from Pennsylvania.

Pizza Hut has been recognized for their use of Real cheese on their products. Most of the cheese used by Pizza Hut is produced in Pennsylvania, with milk from the state's 13,000 dairy farms.

Pennsylvania is a national leader in the production of cheese, primarily the Italian varieties.

Further information about the "Pay-Off" and Pennsylvania cheese is available by calling the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program at (717) 787-6903.

Northeast Breeders Kick Off Steer Test

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Twenty eastern states' Polled Hereford breeders have consigned steers to the Northeast Feedlot Test and Carcass Evaluation.

The 68 Polled Hereford and black baldy-cross steers are being fed at D&D Feedlot, Urbana, Ohio. According to Les Middleton, the American Polled Hereford Association's (APHA) member service director in the Northeast, the steers averaged 650 pounds upon arrival. They were warmed up for three weeks in December before starting the feeding trial. Middleton expects the steers to finish in June-July weighing between 1,150 to 1,200 pounds.

Goals of the Northeast Polled Hereford feeding trial are to:

- Promote the known feedlot and carcass advantages of Polled Hereford and Polled Hereford baldy cattle.
- Identify Polled Hereford sires superior in feedlot and carcass traits.
- Add to a central data bank of carcass traits information at the APHA.
- Recognize breeders and owners of superior feedlot and carcass cattle.
- Make a profit for each individual consignor of cattle.

Progressive Polled Hereford breeders from six states have consigned steers to this first trial. They include:

- West Virginia — K-Lou Farms, Kingwood; Mike McDonald, Lost Creek; A. Goff & Sons, Harrisville; Darlee Farms, Shinnston; Hidden Cove Farm, Weston; Grandview Hereford Farm, Beaver, and Pineridge Farm, Fairdale.
- Pennsylvania — Flat Stone Lick, Marianna; Susquehannook Farm, Sunbury; Bill Hanna, West Newton; Solid Stone Farm, Littlestown, and KJD Polled Herefords, Fairfield.
- New York — Scotchwater Farms, Clarence.
- Maryland — Tamsey Farms, Easton; S&J Farms, Monkton; Grandview Farms, Harwood; Churchview Farms, Millersville, and Doug Klotz, Friendsville.
- New Jersey — Dunwalke Farm, Far Hills.
- Connecticut — Sunnyside Farm, Washington.

Livestock Notes

Beef — Urea and Mineral Additives for Corn Silage

by John W. Comerford

Corn silage is a popular and effective feed for both feedlot steers and for wintering cows and calves. However, corn silage is deficient in protein, calcium, and phosphorus for most classes of beef cattle.

One way to correct the inadequacy of corn silage for these nutrients and to improve fermentation is to add urea and minerals at the time the silage goes into the silo. Adding urea, limestone, or a combination has been shown to increase the production of organic acids in the silage. Of particular importance is the increased production of lactic acid during fermentation.

Dry urea usually has 45% nitrogen which is equivalent to 281% crude protein for a ruminant. By adding 10 lbs. of urea to one ton of corn silage that is 30% dry matter and 8% crude protein, the protein content of the silage will increase to 12.7% crude protein. This may be both an effective and economical way to provide supplemental protein to most classes of beef cattle since there will be no further cost for either protein supplements or for the labor and equipment to provide the supplement.

Additionally, adding urea at ensiling time may be more effective than adding it to the silage at the time of feeding. Research at Ohio State and Illinois has shown a slight advantage in performance for cattle on urea-treated silage compared to when urea was added as a supplement at feeding. It is important to note that calves under four months of age are unable to use the urea as protein until their rumen is more fully developed.

Table 1. Deficiency of Protein, Calcium and Phosphorus in Corn Silage.

	CP[1] %	Ca[1] %	P[1] %
Corn silage	8.1	.27	.20
Daily requirements:
Growing steer (500 lbs.)	12.2	.31	.25
Finishing steer (800 lbs.)	1.1	.38	.29
Lactating Cow	9.3	.28	.22

[1]CP = crude protein; Ca = Calcium; P = Phosphorus

Other important steps in using urea and mineral-treated silage include:

- Get a feed sample of the silage analyzed after the material has fermented to be sure rations are balanced correctly.
- Use additional sulfur in rations where urea is the primary protein source.
- Use untreated silage or hay to start stressed calves in a feedlot.
- Add the prescribed amounts of urea and minerals to the silage because these materials can become toxic to animals when fed at levels which are too high.

Silage Dry Matter

It is essential to know the dry matter value of the silage before attempting to mix urea and minerals with it. In general, urea can be added to silage that is between 30% and 40% dry matter. When the silage is too wet, the urea may escape as seepage. When it is too dry, the urea may be lost as ammonia and make the silage unpalatable.

Table 2. Urea-Mineral Mixes for Silage

Item	% of Mix
Urea (45% nitrogen)	58.0
Dicalcium phosphate	18.0
Sodium sulfate	8.0
Trace-mineral salt	16.0

% of Dry Matter In Silage	Pounds of Mix per Ton of Wet Silage
32	18.1
34	19.3
36	20.4
40	22.7

It is important to get the urea-mineral mix spread evenly through the silage. Poor mixing can result in caking and bridging of the silage, poor animal performance, and possible toxicity problems. To insure proper application:

- Be sure you know the dry matter content of the silage.
- Get a good approximation of the weight of silage in a load so the proper amount of mix can be added.
- Mix the urea and minerals together well before applying them to the silage.
- Meter the mix through the blower for upright silos, or pour it over the top of the load and allow the blower to mix it.
- Meter the mix into the chopper or spread over the top of a load before dumping for a trench or bunker silo. Spreading it over the top of the stack will result in a poor mix.

Profit from winter lime application

- Winter's frozen ground conditions reduce soil compaction during spreading.
- Freezing and thawing helps distribute the lime through the soil to correct pH.

problems seem to plague universities, doesn't it make sound financial sense to rediscover these former mainstays of support by fostering grass-roots dairy groups?

Certainly the late Delaware U.S. Sen. Frear, who was also a member of the university's board of trustees, could attest to the success of such plans. He was also a well-known Delaware dairy farmer.

Frear would recognize that this university's dairy herd, with an average milk production of above 20,000 pounds per cow per year, is among the leading dairy herds on any university campus. This herd is also a model for dairy farms within a 100-mile radius, an area which represents about 1 million cows, mostly in Pennsylvania or Maryland.

And finally, Frear could remind trustees and farmers that a dairy herd (especially a high-producing one), unlike any other agricultural enterprise, is a most efficient producer of gross and net income on a regular monthly basis.

In these times of recession and budget cuts, this economic advantage is worth noting. Let's think twice before doing away with something that benefits so many, both inside and outside the university.

Ag Council Of America Membership Increases

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The 3,500-member Agriculture Council of America today reported a 25-percent increase in "major members" — those representing national and regional organizations — and a similar increase in revenues over a one-year period. These increases have allowed significant redirection and expansion of the Ag Council's FoodWatch and National Agriculture Day programs.

The Agriculture Council of America promotes and builds public understanding and support for the food and agriculture industry. The Ag Council serves as an umbrella organization that brings together food and fiber related industries to conduct public education programs and to define effective solutions to public issues that affect agriculture as a whole.

"We have strengthened our membership in virtually every sector of America agriculture, from input manufacturers and co-ops, to local dealers and individual farmers, with special success in recruiting national and state producer organizations," said Ag Council President and Chief Executive Officer Wm. Patrick Nichols.

"We're particularly pleased that we were able to add new members and increase our funding despite the weakness in the economy," Nichols added. "It's a signal that the industry is enthusiastic about our programming efforts. As the old saying goes, 'nothing succeeds like success.' "

The Ag Council's programs, including FoodWatch and National Ag Day, have been reoriented to position the American farmer and rancher as the "human face" of the industry. FoodWatch is a nationwide public information program that relies primarily on farmers and ranchers, and secondarily on other members of the agricultural community and other experts, to address food safety issues with the public. With the central theme, "Growing Better Every Day," FoodWatch programs demonstrate how the public benefits directly from the American agricultural system through wholesome products at relatively low cost with convenience, quality and variety.

National Agricultural Day is supported by the President, Congress, and the governors of nearly every U.S. state and territory. The Ag Council serves as the coordinator for this annual tribute to America's food and fiber industry. The Ag Council provides promotional materials to companies and organizations, serves as a clearinghouse for information and ideas, shepherds legislation officially proclaiming the observance and coordinates a Capitol Hill reception for members of Congress and industry leaders. In 1993, National Ag Day will celebrate its 20th Anniversary with special programs, exhibits and presentations across the nation.

Ag Council program highlights in 1992 included:

• The launch of a national outreach program with trained spokeseople — The Ag Council has selected agriculture producers throughout the country to lead the consumer education effort. These spokespeople are committed to educating the general public about the advances that are being made in the production and safety of our food supply through meetings with consumers and media alike.

• Strengthening of the National Ag Day grassroots network — To complement the traditional role of the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture as the Honorary Chairman and of the bipartisan leadership of the House and Senate Agriculture Committees serving as co-chairmen, the Ag Council has recently asked the state Secretaries of Agriculture to serve as Honorary Chairs of events in their respective states. To date, 35 have accepted and none have refused. These Secretaries have agreed to help coordinate communications about the hundreds of Ag Day events around the country. In so doing, they will work with many leading organizations in grassroots agriculture, including American Agri-Women, the American National CattleWomen, the Extension Services, the Farm Bureaus, National AgriMarketing Association and Women Involved in Farm Economics.

• The start of the FoodWatch Information Center — A toll-free number was established to serve as a primary information resource for the media. Media that use the center are referred to government and industry experts who can address specific questions on topics such as additives, pesticides, advances in biotechnology and general food safety and production issues.

"The Ag Council's strength is its broad-based membership that includes every segment of the food and fiber industry," said Nichols. "What we try to do at the Ag Council is put a human face on agriculture and agricultural issues. Our programs are designed for producers to reach out to people and to help agriculture and the public understand one another. With the success we enjoyed this year expanding our membership, we are optimistic that our message is getting through, and that we will continue to expand our programming efforts in 1993."

PTA Herdlife In Bull PTIs

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The board of directors of the American Guernsey Association has adopted a proposal to include the PTA herdlife in the calculation of the Guernsey bull PTIs in July 1993.

PTA herdlife is equal to the sum of PTAs of linear traits times their genetic regression coefficient.

The AGA plans to keep the same production to type ratio (6:1) as it is now because the breed needs to continue emphasizing production. However, the PTI to be used in July 1993 will be changed to the following ratios:

PTI=5 (PTA protein/SD PTA + 1 (PTA fat/SD PTA fat)
+1 (PTA FHL/SD FHL)
where SD=standard deviation where FHL=functional herdlife

Functional herdlife attempts to remove the voluntary culling which is highly correlated with production of the animal. This will allow Guernsey breeders to look at the cow without the production influence on the type traits. The resulting genetic information should help Guernsey owners breed more durable and profitable cows.

NFU Leader Issues NAFTA Concerns

GUADALAJARA, ME — The President of the National Farmers Union told farm leaders from North, Central and South America Thursday that U.S. farmers have serious concerns about the pending North American Free Trade Agreement.

NFU President Leland Swenson told those attending the International Federation of Agricultural Producers "Conference of the Americas" that his concerns can be lumped into four areas: the effect of NAFTA on farm prices and farm income; the potential loss of jobs and industry from rural communities in the U.S.; the possibility of food safety problems and environmental problems.

"It is evident that increasing the level of imports (into the U.S.) will have a devastating effect on producer prices," said Swenson. "Producers will face direct competition from Mexican producers who enjoy lower input and labor costs than U.S. farmers."

The farm leader said sugar farmers may be hit especially hard. After visiting a Mexican sugar cane processing plant Wednesday where workers are paid $10 per day, an average, Swenson asked how the U.S. could compete if it wants to maintain a suitable standard of living for its people.

On the issue of job losses, Swenson told the group the migration of American companies to Mexico has already begun. "While our negotiators have assured us that job losses resulting from U.S. firms moving to Mexico will be minimal, we find it ironic that already firms like Excel, Conagra and others have bought plants or are building plants in Mexico," he said.

Swenson said America's farmers also have great concerns about import inspections at the Mexico-U.S. border. He said there are already reported cases of bovine tuberculosis in Texas because of lax live cattle inspections. "What will happen if we open our borders even wider?" he asked.

The farm leader said those same concerns are valid among consumers who worry about the safety of their food particularly when it comes from nations with different safety and environmental standards.

Swenson's group has issued a list of recommendations to the new Clinton Administration aimed at improving the agreement before Congress is asked to ratify it later this year.

N.Y. Bull Test Under Way

ADDISON, N.Y. — The 1992-1993 New York Bull Test for beef bulls of all breeds is off and running well.

Seventy-three bulls of 12 different breeds showed up at the Cornell Teaching & Research Center at Harford, N.Y., this fall, went through their orientation warm-up, and have completed their first 28-day reporting period.
